Dollar Steady and Cotton Advances; Wet Stocks in Demand at High Prices

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(UP)—A slow moving rise brought the stock market to net gains of fractions to 2 points in the issues traded in 100-share lots and issues traded in 10-share lots rose as much as 8 points.

Considered of more importance than the creeping advance in stocks was a strong and active bond market featured by domestic issues—corporate and government. Advances in the latter ranged to a full point, a share gain for those issues.

A rise of more than a cent a bushel in wheat featured the commodities where silver also was marked by a good advance. Cotton formed to around the previous close from an early decline. The dollar was steady.

Glowing reports on retail and wholesale trade improvement brought demand into mercantile issues. Interstate department stores preferred rose more than 8 points, while Hahn preferred was up 5. American Woolen preferred rose 2 points to 69, a new high for '33-34, and J. C. Penney made a new high at 56 3/4 up 1 1-4. Odd lot order shares made small gains.

Wet stocks were bid up 1 to 2 points, featured by U. S. Industrial Alcohol in gain and Commercial Solvents in activity. A block of 4000 shares of the latter came out at 34 up 3/8 and it later crossed that level.

Amusements were firm as a group. Paramount Publix certificates came out 10,000 shares at 1-4 up 1-4 and later made a new top for 1933-34 at 2 5/8. Silver issues rose under lead of U. S. Smelting which reached 43-4 up 2 5-8. Peoples Gas rose more than a point in an otherwise steady utility section. Rails made small gains. Chrysler retained all of a loss of 1 5-8 points, while automobile issues generally were around the previous close of the session ended. Local tractions were slightly higher.

The late rise came without backup in volume which lagged long throughout the day.

OLDS DEPARTMENT POLITICAL BUREAU

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12. —(UP)—Elimination of the state finance department would save California taxpayers $80,000 annually, according to State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson.

Johnson, in an address here, advocated state budget control by constitutional officers to replace the finance department.

"The functions of the costly finance department can be handled efficiently by constitutional officers without added compensation," the prepared copy of the state treasurer's speech read.

"The finance department is but one of the many political bureaus which have increased, unnecessarily the taxpayers' burden."

Noted Comedian and Member "Two Black Crows" Dies in Arizona

MESA, Ariz., Jan. 12.—(UP)—Charles E. Mack, famous comedian member of the "Two Black Crows" stage team, is dead, leaving behind him today millions of theatrical followers to mourn his passing.

He was fatally injured last night when his car blew a tire on the Apache Trail highway near here, overturned several times and pinned him in the wreckage. He died two hours later in a local hospital.

His wife, and daughter, his partner, George Moran, and Mack Sennett, film producer, who were enroute with him to Hollywood, escaped with lesser injuries, none believed serious.

Mack's death marks the passing of one of America's greatest comedians. Reaching the stage in the overalls of an electrical worker, he developed a black-face act that became an institution in millions of American homes. His popularity almost was as great in England where he first reached stardom.

His laconic "why bring that up?" became a street phrase on Main and Broadway alike. This and other gag lines he conceived and spoke in a voice tired to the point of collapse, reached 7,000,000 homes through phonograph records, it was said. In later years he lost a measure of his popularity but seemed headed for a strong comeback when death intervened.

Moran, a partner of 18 years was the "straight" member of the team.

In a telegram to Senator Black, chairman of the committee, he offered to clarify any misunderstandings.

Hawaiian Residents Rejoice Over Successful Ending of Pacific Hop

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 12.—(UP)—Into the illustrious log of the U. S. Navy, in which —John Paul Jones and bluff John Barry made the first notations, was written today the record-shattering flight of six giant navy seaplanes from the mainland at San Francisco to their permanent base at Pearl Harbor, Honolulu. The heroes were dined and feted in Honolulu today.

Regularly, on the hour, came Flight Commander McGinnis' radio reports of the latitude and the longitude of his position as he flew.

Triumph Over Fog

But his messages failed to reveal the drama of the flight. They did not tell of the triumph over the first patches of fog, 600 miles off the California coast. They did not record the anxiety felt for the 10-P-5, piloted by John Perry, Greenville, S. C., which had become separated from the rest. They made no mention of the seven hours of blind flying the courageous men overcame. They left out, too, the realization the men had that a storm was brewing west of Hawaii and threatening to blow into their path.

DETAILS OF COTTON STRIKE ARE AIRED

VISALIA, Cal., Jan. 12.—(UP)—Details of a cotton strike riot at Pixley last October 10, when ranchers' guns blazed death for two strikers, were related in superior court today by prosecution witnesses as trial of eight ranchers on murder charges was continued.

Presentation of prosecution testimony was expected to occupy the entire session. Authorities estimated the trial would require three weeks.

District Attorney Walter C. Haight indicated in jury challenges that he would not seek the death penalty for the defendants, E. G. Krueger, Hiram May, Roy Nichols, Melvin Shiltz, Leland Thompson, Clarence Murray, Joh[illegible] Allen and Henry Santens.

DR WYNEKOOP FEELS STRAIN OF TRIAL

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—(UP)—The strain on 63-year-old Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop was beginning to tell today as a second panel of jurors was completed to hear the dramatic story of the slaying of Rheta Wynekoop.

"Who on earth could stand such an ordeal?" said the elderly defendant as she wiped beads of perspiration from her forehead.

Acceptance of the second group of four jurors brought the jury two-thirds of the way toward completion.

Just as the jurymen were picked she was joined by her son and daughter. Catherine and Walker Wynekoop. The favorite son, Earle, husband [illegible] the slain Rheta continued to absent h[illegible]self.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(UP)—The post office department is combining modernism with old-fashioned tradition in its $10,000,000 new home.

In tiled rooms of tan, trimmed in black marble, there are several pieces of chromium-plated apparatus. They are automatic cuspidor washers. They do the job in 30 seconds flat.

Workmen applied the final sheen to these robots and to other wonders today in the white granite structure. Postmaster General James A. (Call-Me-Jim) Farley, who chews gum but not tobacco, his four assistant posmasters general and all their helpers intend to move in next month.

The structure contains 2000 odd rooms. Over the door of each is a clock. Each of the assistants has a black marble fireplace in his office.

Farley's office has two, one at each end. The postmaster general also has several mysterious doors and a trick corridor which winds behind the elevators, out of sight. They will be handy for evading job-hunting congressmen.

For the special benefit of the latter is an oak-paneled reception hall, with green marble floors, grand, like the Chicago opera house. The job-hunters may have difficulty finding this sanctuary, because the vast building is built on a spherical plan.

This results in curving halls, blind alleys, extra doors and cul de sacs, like the mazes which psychologists use to test the intelligence of mice.

There is a library, beautifully appointed; a goldfish pond, but no goldfish; a yellow marble slab with the names of Farley and his assistants carved on it; a model post office with a clock behind every post; a mile or so of brass and bronze and chromium grill work, and a lobby floor which surpasses in artistry the modernistic cuspidor cleaners.

This floor has a map of the world inlaid with vari-colored tiles. Russia in pink; the United States is green and Great Britain is blue.

JAPANESE TUNA BEARING BLUE EAGLE SEIZED

Washington Orders Investigation Over Protest From Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Charges that NRA Blue Eagle stickers were pasted on boxes of Japanese imported tuna immediately upon their arrival in Los Angeles harbor brought instant action from Washington today in the nature of an order for a thorough investigation.

Donald Renshaw, NRA field director at Washington, telegraphed C. W. Grubbs, NRA compliance director for this area, to assemble all facts in the case immediately and forward them as a complaint.

"Immediately contact customs, customs brokers handling consignment, surveyor of port, collector of customs and secure all possible information," the telegram said. "Also secure from Arthur Ekdale all evidence he has and send in your complaint."

Ekdale is head of the California Fish Canners' league. He wired a formal protest to National Recovery Administrator Hugh Johnson upon learning that 4000 cases of Japanese canned tuna bore the Blue Eagle insignia. Part of the shipment was consigned to Samuel Kunin & Son, of Chicago.

Ekdale said the NRA labels were pasted on the cases as soon as they were unloaded from the Japanese steamer Tatsuta Maru. Ekdale said he would go to Washington and personally file a protest.

His message to Johnson read:

"Japanese vessel Tatsuta Maru landed nearly 4000 cases of Japanese canned tuna consigned in part to Samuel Kunin & Son, Chicago, arriving Chicago January 15. Each case bears large NRA label.

APPEALS TO ROLPH IN LETTUCE STRIKE

EL CENTRO, Cal., Jan. 12. —(UP)—An impending collision of striking vegetable workers and county authorities was feared today as Sheriff George L. Campbell of Imperial county appealed to Gov. James Rolph jr. for troops in the event of an outbreak.

The crisis was precipitated by a meeting of 5000 strikers at Brawley, 16 miles from here. Campbell feared the strikers were bent on invading the fields today and halting workers who thus far have refused to join in the strike.

Campbell's forces were augmented by 25 state highway officers. The sheriff, however, in advising Rolph of the situation, said his forces would be inadequate to cope with the strike army if it became unruly. He asked the governor for permission to summon [illegible] if the emergency [illegible].

ASSERTS WHITE HOUSE ORDERED BANK "POLICY"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Alfred P. Leyburn, a chief national bank examiner, told the senate banking committee today that on orders from the "White House and Secretary of the Treasury" bank examiners refrained from "rocking the boat" prior to the national bank holiday last March.

Responding to questions by Senator Couzens, Republican, Mich., regard the "leniency" policy adopted by the comptroller of the currency during the unsettled period in 1931 and 1932, he said the instructions came "from the high command."

"Are you guessing at that?" Couzens asked.

"No, I'm not guessing. I know it. They didn't want to rock the boat. Banks throughout the country were shown leniency in our examinations."

"What do you mean by the 'high command'?" Couzens continued.

"I mean the White House and the secretary of the treasury," Leyburn replied, adding:

"Of course, I don't mean the present secretary or president."

A last minute appeal from high government officials in February, 1933, for Ford Motor company financial aid to avert collapse of the Detroit banking structure was refused by Henry Ford, his son, Edsel, told the senate banking committee today.

In a dramatic story of events which culminated in the Michigan bank holiday early last year, Edsel said Henry Ford was "quite incensed" at suggestions by former Assistant Secretary of Treasury

ALLEGED LYNCHER IGNORED BY JURY

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—(UP)—The Santa Clara county grand jury, investigated the November lynchings here, has made no arrangements to call Anthony Cataldi, 18, self-styled "lynching leader," before it, it was revealed today.

The jury heard 18 witnesses, mostly newspapermen and deputy sheriffs, during the only session it has devoted to the mob violence. Six witnesses waited examination when the jury recessed until next Tuesday.

Cataldi, already under bail on a separate action in the lynchings, was not among the waiting witnesses. Nor was he included in [illegible] had appeared before the [illegible] No subpoena has [illegible] learned.

Rebuilding Work Is To Be Started

Board in Special Meeting Orders Parts of Two Schools Closed

MEETING in special session this morning the Santa Ana board of education decided to abandon plans for the plebiscite called for January 19 and to proceed with rehabilitation plans for both the high school and junior college district buildings and those of the elementary schools, and ordered parts of two elementary schools closed immediately.

The decision to abandon plans for the plebiscite was reached after a study of the state department of architects' report on the recently completed inspection of the elementary schools. This report revealed such serious conditions in the elementary schools that a portion of two of the buildings was ordered closed this morning.

On motion of Dr. Margarete Baer the old section of Spurgeon school and the auditorium of Edison school were ordered immediately closed. Arrangements are being made today for housing the students of the Spurgeon school whose rooms were closed.

The action was taken by board members after expressing themselves relative to the moral and legal responsibility they are under to safeguard the students. It was the general opinion that, while the plebiscite is not binding upon the board, should the voters disapprove the plan to borrow $615,000 from the state for rehabilitation of the earthquake damaged buildings, board members would be bound not to negotiate the loan.

Under Obligation

the event of such refusal, according to a recent ruling of the state attorney general the board would still be under the legal and moral responsibility of safeguarding the lives of students and would have but one alternative—closing the buildings branded as unsafe, it was held.

Following action of the board this morning George Wells, chairman commented on the state report and said "with this report before us and realizing the legal and moral responsibility of the board and school district for the safeguarding of the children the board

ROOSEVELT SIGNS LIQUOR TAX BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(UP)—President Roosevelt has signed the liquor tax bill which was passed yesterday by the senate.

Mr. Roosevelt put his signature on the measure last night, a brief White House announcement said.

The president's signature of the bill last night made the new tax rates effective today and thus gave the treasury immediate benefit of the new levies. The measure provided that the new rates take effect the day after signature of the bill.

Mr. Roosevelt placed his signature on the bill in the oval room on the second floor of the mansion. The signing was without ceremony, the president being alone.

FIFTY MILLION IN BACK TAXES PAID TREASURY

(Copyright, 1934, by United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Upward of $50,000,000 of back tax payments have been paid into the treasury by frightened evaders, internal revenue officials estimated today as the government intensified a drive to obtain the last penny legitimately due in long pending income tax cases.

Some estimates of the sum frightened into the treasury were as high as $100,000,000. These payments were ascribed largely to a campaign begun last summer by Guy T. Halvering, commissioner of internal revenue, to dispose of pending cases.

Belief that prosecutions would eventuate from the income tax drive was expressed in high official qparters. There was suspicion that inexcusable laxity in handling tax cases would be revealed in some instances.

Treasury policy was understood in general to be to warn first offenders and permit them to make a settlement with the government. But second offenders against the tax law are more likely to be prosecuted than to be let off, the United Press was informed. Whether tax assessments are comprised below the sums actually due the government will depend principally upon the ability of the tax payer to raise the money due. In any event, all compromises must pass across the desk of Secretary of Treasury Morgantheau.

Appointment yesterday of John Clark, Cheyenne, Wyo., attorney, to a position in the treasury was in preparation for increased income tax work expected to develop as the drive for back payments continues. He will handle difficult tax matters.

Helvering estimated four months ago that there were approximately $1,000,000,000 of back taxes to be collected.

MURDER UNCOVERED IN BLAZE OF AUTO

DOVER, O., Jan. 12.—(UP)—A charred body—without head, arms or legs—taken from the rumble seat of a furiously burning automobile, lay in city morgue here today while authorities attempted to determine the sex of the victim.

The body had been wrapped in an oil-soaked blanket and fired with the automobile, apparently in an effort to wipe out all trace of the victim's identity.

Coroner Albert Balmer of New Philadelphia, after a preliminary examination, said he believed from the bone formation that the victim was a woman.

New York Solon Will Offer Amendment to Restore Benefit to Veterans

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(UP)—The House today began debate on the independent offices bill appropriating millions of dollars to carry on the government establishments during the next fiscal year. Debate was limited to three and one half hours.

Prior to opening of debate on the offices bill, Majority Floor Leader Byrns indicated he would ask unanimous consent to bring up for consideration Monday thebill extending the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the Jones bill authorizing the establishment of a federal farm mortgage corporation.

The veterans economy issue flared up in debate. Rep. Fish, Repn., N. Y., said he later would offer an amendment to the bill which would be "a test" of house sentiment on economy act decreases in veterans expenditures.

"I shall propose appropriation of an additional $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 to the veterans administration," said Fish. "If this amendment is adopted it will be a mandate which would force the President to change his executive orders relative to veterans economies.

It was brought out that due to the economy act it would be impossible to amend the independent offices bill to provide for reduction of veterans economies.

"My amendment would be aimed as a test of sentiment for restoring full compensation to veterans with service connected disabilities," Fish said.

EXPECT STATEMENT OF MONEY POLICY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(UP)—An important monetary statement from the White House designed to bolster the government bond market in preparation for the $10,000,000,000 federal financing over the next six months was believed in congressional and administration circles to be imminent today.

Strong hints of an important pending monetary statement were given last night after a White House conference attended by Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau and Attorney General Cummings.

Officials refused to reveal the nature of the conference but it was authoritatively reported to deal with money, particularly the seizure by the government of the profit on the gold reserves of the federal reserve system in event of a 5 per cent devaluation of the dollar. Experts said this would have the effect of boosting bond prices.

"Who on earth could stand such an ordeal?" said the elderly defendant as she wiped beads of perspiration from her forehead.

Acceptance of the second group of four jurors brought the jury two-thirds of the way toward completion.

Just as the jurymen were picked she was joined by her son and daughter, Catherine and Walker Wynekoop. The favorite son, Charle, husband [illegible] the slain Rheta continued to absent [illegible]self.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(UP)—The post office department is combining modernism with old-fashioned tradition in its $10,000,000 new home.

In tiled rooms of tan, trimmed in black marble, there are several pieces of chromium-plated apparatus. They are automatic cuspidor washers. They do the job in 30 seconds flat.

Workmen applied the final sheen to these robots and to other wonders today in the white granite structure. Postmaster General James A. (Call-Me-Jim) Farley, who chews gum but not tobacco, his four assistant posmasters general and all their helpers intend to move in next month.

The structure contains 2000 odd rooms. Over the door of each is a clock. Each of the assistants has a black marble fireplace in his office.

Farley's office has two, one at each end. The postmaster general also has several mysterious doors and a trick corridor which winds behind the elevators, out of sight. They will be handy for evading job-hunting congressmen.

For the special benefit of the latter is an oak-paneled reception hall, with green marble floors, grand, like the Chicago opera house. The job-hunters may have difficulty finding this sanctuary, because the vast building is built on a spherical plan.

This results in curving halls, blind alleys, extra doors and cul de sacs, like the mazes which psychologists use to test the intelligence of mice.

There is a library, beautifully appointed; a goldfish pond, but no goldfish; a yellow marble slab with the names of Farley and his assistants carved on it; a model post office with a clock behind every post; a mile or so of brass and bronze and chromium grill work, and a lobby floor which surpasses in artistry the modernistic cuspidor cleaners.

This floor has a map of the world inlaid with vari-colored tiles. Russia in pink; the United States is green and Great Britain is blue.

Washington Orders Investigation Over Protest From Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Charges that NRA Blue Eagle stickers were pasted on boxes of Japanese imported tuna immediately upon their arrival in Los Angeles harbor brought instant action from Washington today in the nature of an order for a thorough investigation.

Donald Renshaw, NRA field director at Washington, telegraphed C. W. Grubbs, NRA compliance director for this area, to assemble all facts in the case immediately and forward them as a complaint.

"Immediately contact customs, customs brokers handling consignment, surveyor of port, collector of customs and secure all possible information," the telegram said. "Also secure from Arthur Ekdale all evidence he has and send in your complaint."

Ekdale is head of the California Fish Canners' league. He wired a formal protest to National Recovery Administrator Hugh Johnson upon learning that 4000 cases of Japanese canned tuna bore the Blue Eagle insignia. Part of the shipment was consigned to Samuel Kunin & Son, of Chicago.

Ekdale said the NRA labels were pasted on the cases as soon as they were unloaded from the Japanese steamer Tatsuta Maru. Ekdale said he would go to Washington and personally file a protest.

His message to Johnson read:

"Japanese vessel Tatsuta Maru landed nearly 4000 cases of Japanese canned tuna consigned in part to Samuel Kunin & Son, Chicago, arriving Chicago January 15. Each case bears large NRA label.

APPEALS TO ROLPH IN LETTUCE STRIKE

EL CENTRO, Cal., Jan. 12. —(UP)—An impending collision of striking vegetable workers and county authorities was feared today as Sheriff George L. Campbell of Imperial county appealed to Gov. James Rolph jr. for troops in the event of an outbreak.

The crisis was precipitated by a meeting of 5000 strikers at Brawley, 15 miles from here. Campbell feared the strikers were bent on invading the fields today and halting workers who thus far have refused to join in the strike.

Campbell's forces were augmented by 25 state highway officers. The sheriff, however, in advising Rolph of the situation, said his forces would be inadequate to cope with the strike army if it became unruly. He asked the governor for permission to summon [illegible] if the emergence [illegible] arises.

ASSERTS WHITE HOUSE ORDERED BANK "POLICY"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Alfred P. Leyburn, a chief national bank examiner, told the senate banking committee today that on orders from the "White House and Secretary of the Treasury" bank examiners refrained from "rocking the boat" prior to the national bank holiday last March.

Responding to questions by Senator Couzens, Republican, Mich., regard the "leniency" policy adopted by the comptroller of the currency during the unsettled period in 1931 and 1932, he said the instructions came "from the high command."

"Are you guessing at that?" Couzens asked.

"No, I'm not guessing. I know it. They didn't want to rock the boat. Banks throughout the country were shown leniency in our examinations."

"What do you mean by the 'high command'?" Couzens continued.

"I mean the White House and the secretary of the treasury," Leyburn replied, adding:

"Of course, I don't mean the present secretary or president."

A last minute appeal from high government officials in February, 1933, for Ford Motor company financial aid to avert collapse of the Detroit banking structure was refused by Henry Ford, his son, Edsel, told the senate banking committee today.

In a dramatic story of events which culminated in the Michigan bank holiday early last year, Edsel said Henry Ford was "quite incensed" at suggestions by former Assistant Secretary of Treasury

ALLEGED LYNCHER IGNORED BY JURY

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—(UP)—The Santa Clara county grand jury, investigated the November lynchings here, has made no arrangements to call Anthony Cataldi, 18, self-styled "lynching leader," before it, it was revealed today.

The jury heard 18 witnesses, mostly newspapermen and deputy sheriffs, during the only session it has devoted to the mob violence. Six witnesses waited examination when the jury recessed until next Tuesday.

Cataldi, already under bail on a separate action in the lynchings, was not among the waiting witnesses. Nor was he included in [illegible] had appeared before the [illegible] subpoena has [illegible] issued.

Rebuilding Work Is To Be Started

Board in Special Meeting Orders Parts of Two Schools Closed

MEETING in special session this morning the Santa Ana board of education decided to abandon plans for the plebiscite called for January 19 and to proceed with rehabilitation plans for both the high school and junior college district buildings and those of the elementary schools, and ordered parts of two elementary schools closed immediately.

The decision to abandon plans for the plebiscite was reached after a study of the state department of architects' report on the recently completed inspection of the elementary schools. This report revealed such serious conditions in the elementary schools that a portion of two of the buildings was ordered closed this morning.

On motion of Dr. Margarete Barber the old section of Spurgeon school and the auditorium of Edison school were ordered immediately closed. Arrangements are being made today for housing the students of the Spurgeon school whose rooms were closed.

The action was taken by board members after expressing themselves relative to the moral and legal responsibility they are under to safeguard the students. It was the general opinion that, while the plebiscite is not binding upon the board, should the voters disapprove the plan to borrow $615,000 from the state for rehabilitation of the earthquake damaged buildings, board members would be bound not to negotiate the loan.

Under Obligation

In the event of such refusal, according to a recent ruling of the state attorney general the board would still be under the legal and moral responsibility of safeguarding the lives of students and would have but one alternative—closing the buildings as branded as unsafe, it was held.

Following action of the board this morning George Wells, chairman commented on the state report and said "with this report before us and realizing the legal and moral responsibility of the board and school district for the safeguarding of the children the board

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(UP)—President Roosevelt has signed the liquor tax bill which was passed yesterday by the senate.

Mr. Roosevelt put his signature on the measure last night, a brief White House announcement said.

The president's signature of the bill last night made the new tax rates effective today and thus gave the treasury immediate benefit of the new levies. The measure provided that the new rates take effect the day after signature of the bill.

Mr. Roosevelt placed his signature on the bill in the oval room on the second floor of the mansion. The signing was without ceremony, the president being alone.

GOVERNOR APPOINTS TWO NEW OFFICIALS

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Two commission appointments were announced by Governor Rolph today as the first of more than 100 which are scheduled to be filed within one month.

W. R. Woods, editor of the California Cultivator, was named to membership on the farm debt conciliation committee to serve at the pleasure of the governor.

Walter Haas, San Francisco, was appointed a member of the industrial welfare commission succeeding W. R. Kilgore, resigned, for the term ending January 15, 1936.

Most of the positions to be filled are non-salaried.

CO-ORDINATOR

(Copyright, 1934, by United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Upward of $50,000,000 of back tax payments have been paid into the treasury by frightened evaders, internal revenue officials estimated today as the government intensified a drive to obtain the last penny legitimately due in long pending income tax cases.

Some estimates of the sum frightened into the treasury were as high as $100,000,000. These payments were ascribed largely to a campaign begun last summer by Guy T. Halvering, commissioner of internal revenue, to dispose of pending cases.

Belief that prosecutions would eventuate from the income tax drive was expressed in high official quarters. There was suspicion that inexcusable laxity in handling tax cases would be revealed in some instances.

Treasury policy was understood in general to be to warn first offenders and permit them to make a settlement with the government. But second offenders against the tax law are more likely to be prosecuted than to be let off, the United Press was informed. Whether tax assessments are comprised below the sums actually due the government will depend principally upon the ability of the tax payer to raise the money due. In any event, all compromises must pass across the desk of Secretary of Treasury Morganthau.

Appointment yesterday of John Clark, Cheyenne, Wyo., attorney, to a position in the treasury was in preparation for increased income tax work expected to develop as the drive for back payments continues. He will handle difficult tax matters.

Helvering estimated four months ago that there were approximately $1,000,000,000 of back taxes to be collected.

MURDER UNCOVERED IN BLAZE OF AUTO

DOVER, O., Jan. 12.—(UP)—A charred body—without head, arms or legs—taken from the rumble seat of a furiously burning automobile, lay in city morgue here today while authorities attempted to determine the sex of the victim.

The body had been wrapped in an oil-soaked blanket and fired with the automobile, apparently in an effort to wipe out all trace of the victim's identity.

Coroner Albert Balmer of New Philadelphia, after a preliminary examination, said he believed from the bone formation that the victim was a woman.

New York Solon Will Offer Amendment to Restore Benefit to Veterans

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(UP)—The House today began debate on the independent offices bill appropriating millions of dollars to carry on the government establishments during the next fiscal year. Debate was limited to three and one half hours.

Prior to opening of debate on the offices bill, Majority Floor Leader Byrns indicated he would ask unanimous consent to bring up for consideration Monday the bill extending the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the Jones bill authorizing the establishment of a federal farm mortgage corporation.

The veterans economy issue flared up in debate. Rep. Fish, Repn., N. Y., said he later would offer an amendment to the bill which would be "a test" of house sentiment on economy act decreases in veterans expenditures.

"I shall propose appropriation of an additional $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 to the veterans administration," said Fish. "If this amendment is adopted it will be a mandate which would force the President to change his executive orders relative to veterans economies.

It was brought out that due to the economy act it would be impossible to amend the independent offices bill to provide for reduction of veterans economies.

"My amendment would be aimed as a test of sentiment for restoring full compensation to veterans with service connected disabilities," Fish said.

EXPECT STATEMENT OF MONEY POLICY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(UP)—An important monetary statement from the White House designed to bolster the government bond market in preparation for the $10,000,000,000 federal financing over the next six months was believed in congressional and administration circles to be imminent today.

Strong hints of an important pending monetary statement were given last night after a White House conference attended by Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau and Attorney General Cummings.

Officials refused to reveal the nature of the conference but it was authoritatively reported to deal with money, particularly the seizure by the government of the profit on the gold reserves of the federal reserve system in event of a 5 per cent devaluation of the dollar. Experts said this would have the effect of boosting bond prices.

Does the administration sanction this? Will photo an affidavit for proof."

Japanese tuna shipments have cut heavily into the California industry. Only a few weeks ago several thousand fishermen were laid off and the industry came to a standstill with canners explaining they could not compete against Japanese shippers.

Local boats are forced to go nearly 1500 miles south of here for their catches, a haul that places American canners at a distinct disadvantage with Japanese canners, officials asserted. Some relief is anticipated from President Roosevelt's tariff increase from 30 to 45 per cent which becomes effective at midnight tonight. President Roosevelt pronounced the tax as an emergency measure last month.

ACTION THRILLER AT WALKER STATE

Plenty of thrills, action and laughter will be found when Tom Mix, straight-shooting and hard-riding ace of western stars, makes his bow in "Flaming Guns," the famous Peter B. Kyne story, brought to the screen at Walker's State theater today.

The picture presents Tom as Sergeant Tom Malone, fresh from the trenches, out to teach the cow country a few new tricks. He impersonates a small army, captures a nest of rustlers, single-handed, enrages a landowner, ruins another cattle stealing gang all by himself, locks the sheriff up in his own handcuffs, and eludes practically every law officer in a whole California county. Then he defies the father of "the girl," rides roughshod through a squadron of motorcycle police officers, and wins half interest in a ranch—to say nothing of winning the girl.

3000 CITIES PLAN BALLS

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(UP)—More than 3000 cities and towns throughout the country have indicated they will hold presidential birthday balls Jan. 30 in honor of President Roosevelt's 52nd birthday, headquarters of the movement announced today.

The balls will help to raise money for the Warm Springs foundation for infantile paralysis, which was founded by Mr. Roosevelt.

WILL ROGERS says:

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 12—(To the Editor of The Register:) The Senate passed a bill yesterday that we only buy drinks from those who pay us. That had everybody rushing to the statistics this morning to see how Scotland stood. I don't know what Finland's new drink is, but we better be getting used to it, for they are the only ones that have really paid in full. Whatever it is, you can certainly run on it. I guess it's "Nurmi punch." Well, I bet this scheme goes just like all the rest have, they have tried everything in the world to bring France to time. France is a nation that don't shame easy.

WILL ROGERS.

ASSERTS WHITE HOUSE ORDERED BANK "POLICY"

Arthur A. Ballantine that the Ford company subordinate its deposits and provide additional capital for the Guardian Detroit Union group.

Ford told the committee his father felt Ballantine "was asking too much." The elder Ford, he added, threatened to withdraw $25,000,000 of Ford Company deposits from the First National Bank of Detroit.

"I think he did that to impress Mr. Ballantine," Edsel remarked.

Ford earlier had testified that the Ford company advanced $3,500,000 to the Guardian group in December, 1932, as well as other funds a year earlier. He told yesterday how he personally advanced $1,000,000 in cash and $5,000,000 in securities to aid the banks. He is a director of the group.

Ford said his father understood that Detroit officials planned to close the Union Guardian Trust company and permit the First National bank to open on the morning of February 14. It was then that the elder Ford threatened to withdraw his deposits from the First National.

"Mr. Ford felt that both banks should be treated alike," Edsel explained. "If one bank was to close, he wanted both to be closed."

SCHOOL BOARD ABANDONS PLAN FOR ELECTION

unanimously decided to call off the proposed election and proceed to take steps to correct such weaknesses as are pointed out keeping in mind that funds are limited to $115,000 in the elementary field and $500,000 in the junior and senior high school fields."

While there were but four members of the board present the decision was unanimous. W. M. Burke, the fifth member of the board was called out of the city but when informed of the meeting said that he would favor the abandonment of the plebiscite plan.

Motion to Rescind

The motion to rescind previous action by the board in calling the plebiscite was made by Rolla Hays and seconded by M. B. Youel. In making his motion Hays said:

"In view of the reports submitted to the board of education by the state inspector revealing conditions which must be remedied in our school buildings, and in view of the fact that, in the final analysis, this board of education is obligated either to correct these defects called to their attention or to close certain buildings, and having in mind the safety of the children and of the teachers who must use the buildings, and also realizing that it is not possible to fully inform the general public in the brief times available before expressing an opinion in a vote, I hereby move that we rescind the motion of December 26, 1933, calling for an expression from the people, and that we proceed at once with plans for rehabilitating or replacing the earthquake damaged buildings."

A digest of the state report relative to Spurgeon school said, "Not safe at present with respect to the vertical loads imposed by the present occupancy." It explained that "old unit will require very extensive rehabilitation and it is very doubtful if it is economically feasible to undertake to save it in lieu of putting up a new structure. However, the old unit can be rehabilitated."

School Not Safe

Relative to Franklin school the report said "this structure, in its present condition, is not safe for occupancy but by proper repair and strengthening of the roof construction and the correction of other defects could be made satisfactory."

At Lowell school, according to the report "the entire roof construction is extremely deficient in strength and lacks bracing. The bearing area of the wood members in the north and south walls of the 1931 addition is entirely inadequate."

The report says of Edison school "all of the trussed rafters and ceiling joists or the roof framing are deficient in strength.

"The auditorium roof trusses are overstressed, principally in the joint connections; also no form of sway bracing has been provided for these trusses."

In a summary the report says:

Report Summary

"These buildings, in general, may be made safe for the vertical loads imposed by the present class of occupancy by the correction of the defects and weaknesses indicated in the individual cases. The present roof construction may be pointed out as the principal weakness in these structures. Although, as mentioned in the reports, certain of these buildings or at least parts of them probably have some natural resistance to lateral forces induced by winds of high velocity or earthquakes of severe intensity, none of the structures can be considered lateral force resistant as required by the accepted standards of modern structural practice.

"In general, it may be said that all of the buildings will require certain repairs to provide structures suitable to sustain the required vertical dead and live loads. In addition, in order to develop lateral force resistant structures, it will be necessary to reconstruct the present buildings and to add new structural elements. The amount of reconstruction naturally varies to suit the individual case."

Members pointed out that in many of the buildings that have been declared unsafe this factor of danger lies in the roof and can be remedied at a cost of probably less than $1000 removing the necessity of sending the plans to Sacramento for approval by the state department of architecture. Work on these buildings will get under way immediately.

RIVER BED ROAD CROSSING POSTED

Santa Ana police posted warning lanterns on the banks of the Santa Ana river at the First street crossing last night as water flowed down the river.

The water came into the river out of Santiago creek, according to Murray Thompson, Orange county flood control engineer. The water is believed to be water which was dumped by the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company to clean canals and flush pipe lines, a yearly procedure.

There was no water to spread in Orange county today, Thompson said. Water coming down the river has been spread in the area of the Yorba bridge since the recent heavy rains, resulting in increased absorption.

John Bunyan, author of "Pilgrim's Progress," was a tinker in Bedford, England.

Revolution In France Feared; Riots Reported

PARIS, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Threats and warnings of revolution were voiced inside and outside of parliament today, coinciding with three serious clashes in different Paris suburbs.

Developments indicated that the public temper was at white heat over exposure of the $30,000,000 collapse of the private bank headed by Alexander Stavisky in Bayonne. Premier Camille Chautemps, fighting to save his government from overthrow, warned the chamber of deputies that a form of dictatorship might result if the situation continues.

Similar to a five-hour battle in the streets east of the chamber of deputies last night between royalists and the general public against the police, another serious clash occurred today at Versailles. Two groups of "young patriots" and royalist Camelots Du Roi joined in a fight against radical socialists at a political reunion. Ten were injured.

NAVY FLIERS ARE HONORED AT HONOLULU

waters of Pearl Harbor at 12:02 p. m., Honolulu time, (2:59 p. m. P.S.T.).

Tugs and steamers shrieked blasts from their whistles to add to the deafening ovation. The tired airmen crawled slowly from their ships.

McGinnis, after acknowledging greetings from comrades of the service, said:

As a lei dropped around his neck, in the typical Hawaiian welcome all 30 men received, the flight commander added:

"I'm glad that's behind me. Since 7 o'clock last night there were low hanging clouds and it was hazy all the way in."

Sleep on Planes

Some of the fliers slept an hour or two during the long trip. All of them had eaten from the large food supply which had been stored aboard their crafts. Perry, the hero of the "missing ship episode" revealed that he had taken time to shave on the way.

With characteristic navy efficiency, each man had made his part of the plane ship-shape before turning the boats over to mechanics. Each had donned a clean coat before coming ashore to receive the honors heaped upon them.

It meant to them that should their far flung island ever be menaced by an enemy, powerful planes and brave men were but a day's flight away on the mainland.

The landing in Pearl Harbor completed an 8,000-mile journey for the squadron, which McGinnis had led from Norfolk, Va., on a circuitous route to the canal zone, thence up the Mexican coast to San Diego and finally to San Francisco for the take-off to the permanent base.

Shatter Record

In spanning the ocean in the 24 hours, 48 minutes the squadron had bettered the record set by Ernest Smith, civilian, in 1927. Smith crossed in a monoplane in 25 hours, 36 minutes, landing against a breadfruit tree on Molakai Island.

The navy had made the first attempt to cross the Pacific from San Francisco to Hawaii but Lt. Com. John Rodgers in a seaplane fell a little short of his goal in 1925 and was picked up 10 days later after he had drifted to a little island. To the army went the honor of the first successful crossing when Lts. Lester Maitland and Albert Hagenberger steered a Fokker transport plane across in 25 hours, 50 minutes. Smith's flight came a month later.

That same year, 1927, the Dole flight for cash prizes was held. Three of the five planes entered fell into the sea, bringing death to their seven occupants. Two succeeded in reaching the islands. In 1027 the "Southern Cross," heavy seaplane bound for Australia, made the last previous flight. There has never been an east-west crossing.

FOUR HURT WHEN CAR TURNS OVER

Narrowly escaping serious injury when a rear tire blew out and overturned a machine at 2040 North Broadway, four persons were injured at 8:35 last night.

William Marvin Griffith, 24, 925 French street, said his car went out of control when the tire exploded and caused it to hit the curbing and turn on its side. Arthur Porter, 105 Berkeley street Betty Chancel, 926 French street, Oscar Kitto, 1815 Orange street, and Griffith all received cuts and bruises and suffered from shock. The car was badly damaged.

Griffith was given a sobriety test following the accident and was not pronounced intoxicated, although he admitted drinking beer.

Mrs. Pear H. Seeple, 330 South Olive street, Anaheim, was taken to the Anaheim Sanitarium Wednesday night after her car struck four parked automobiles in front of the German Baptist church at Lemon and Broadway and then turned over. Her injuries were not serious and she was treated for shock, cuts and bruises.

LEGIONNAIRES PLANNING FOR CELEBRATION

Discussion of plans for a big dinner and opening celebration on the evening of March 8 in the American Legion hall on Birch street, which is now being reconstructed, featured a meeting of Santa Ana Post No. 131 last night in Getty Hall.

Franklin Grouard, chairman of the building committee, reported that the building will be completed in time for the opening event, which will start with a dinner. Homer Chaillaux, department commander, will be present at the opening, it was announced.

It also is planned to hold a public dance on the evening of March 10 in the new hall, which also would take the form of observance of the anniversary of the earthquake, which damaged the building so badly that reconstruction was necessary.

A. F. Moulton reported on activities of the Boy Scout committee.

Boys from the CCC camp at Trabuco, who were scheduled to furnish the entertainment, arrived after the meeting had adjourned, having lost their way, they said, coming here.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

CHARLES MACK LOSES LIFE IN AUTO ACCIDENT

lips. He had a broken back and internal injuries. Moran sat by his bedside, weeping.

"This is the end, partner," the dying comedian murmured. He called to his wife:

"Goodbye, honey, I know I'm going."

A moment later he was dead. His wife, suffering from abrasions on head and body, was in an adjoining room. She did not hear him. Attaches said she was on the verge of collapse.

The accident occurred as the group was enroute to Hollywood to make a motion picture.

Moran, who was bruised and shaken with grief, told the United Press Mrs. Mack was driving.

"We were traveling about 45 miles an hour," he said. "Mrs. Mack was driving and Sennett sat beside her. Charley, his daughter, (Mary Jane, 18) and I sat in the back seat.

"Suddenly a tire blew out. I think it was a rear tire. We lurched into a ditch and turned over three or four times. I can't remember, it all happened so suddenly. When I came to, I found myself crawling through the top of the car. I reached for Mary Jane to help her out and then we saw Charley, pinned beneath the back seat."

Crushed Chest

"Some motorists came by and helped us lift the car away and we started for the hospital. I can't tell you how I felt. Mr. Mack had a crushed chest, his back was injured and he was bleeding terribly. He wouldn't talk to me. I just held his hand."

Moran suffered abrasions about the legs. His head and tongue also were cut.

Mary Jane was only slightly bruised and shaken.

Sennett was cut about the head and shoulders and complained of pains in his chest. An X-ray examination was planned to ascertain if he suffered internal injuries.

Mack was 46 years old. He was born in White Cloud, Kan., but educated in Portland and Salem, Ore. In his early 20's, he played professional baseball in Olympia, Wash., but deserted the diamond to try his skill at "gag writing" for vaudeville teams. He soon wrote a skit for himself and was given his first bookings in Seattle, Wash., by Alexander Pantages, vaudeville magnate.

"I told the Parent-Teacher's meeting why we corrected our lighting at home"

"Johnnie's teacher persuaded me to talk at the Parent-Teacher's meeting. She was so impressed at Johnnie's improvement after we changed our lighting at home, she wanted other parents to hear about it. It wasn't merely that the boy was earning higher grades—he had actually picked up physically. Eye strain, you see, had led to nervousness, and that, in turn, to poor health. All of us have benefited since we stopped trying to read or work with poor or glaring lights. We're more relaxed, and, of course, it made worlds of difference in the attractiveness of our home. When I think of how little it cost, I can't help preaching the doctrine of proper lighting to all my friends."

Japanese tuna shipments have cut heavily into the California industry. Only a few weeks ago several thousand fishermen were laid off and the industry came to a standstill with canners explaining they could not compete against Japanese shippers.

Local boats are forced to go nearly 1500 miles south of here for their catches, a haul that places American canners at a distinct disadvantage with Japanese canners, officials asserted. Some relief is anticipated from President Roosevelt's tariff increase from 30 to 45 per cent which becomes effective at midnight tonight. President Roosevelt pronounced the tax as an emergency measure last month.

ACTION THRILLER AT WALKER STATE

Plenty of thrills, action and laughter will be found when Tom Mix, straight-shooting and hard-riding ace of western stars, makes his bow in "Flaming Guns," the famous Peter B. Kyne story, brought to the screen at Walker's State theater today.

The picture presents Tom as Sergeant Tom Malone, fresh from the trenches, out to teach the cow country a few new tricks. He impersonates a small army, captures a nest of rustlers, single-handed, enrages a landowner, ruins another cattle stealing gang all by himself, locks the sheriff up in his own handcuffs, and eludes practically every law officer in a whole California county. Then he defies the father of "the girl," rides roughshod through a squadron of motorcycle police officers, and wins half interest in a ranch—to say nothing of winning the girl.

3000 CITIES PLAN BALLS

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(UP)—More than 3000 cities and towns throughout the country have indicated they will hold presidential birthday balls Jan. 30 in honor of President Roosevelt's 52nd birthday, headquarters of the movement announced today.

The balls will help to raise money for the Warm Springs foundation for infantile paralysis, which was founded by Mr. Roosevelt.

WILL ROGERS says:

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 12—(To the Editor of The Register:) The Senate passed a bill yesterday that we only buy drinks from those who pay us. That had everybody rushing to the statistics this morning to see how Scotland stood. I don't know what Finland's new drink is, but we better be getting used to it, for they are the only ones that have really paid in full. Whatever it is, you can certainly run on it. I guess it's "Nurmi punch." Well, I bet this scheme goes just like all the rest have, they have tried everything in the world to bring France to time. France is a nation that don't shame easy.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

Arthur A. Ballantine that the Ford company subordinate its deposits and provide additional capital for the Guardian Detroit Union group.

Ford told the committee his father felt Ballantine "was asking too much." The elder Ford, he added, threatened to withdraw $25,000,000 of Ford Company deposits from the First National Bank of Detroit.

"I think he did that to impress Mr. Ballantine," Edsel remarked.

Ford earlier had testified that the Ford company advanced $8,500,000 to the Guardian group in December, 1932, as well as other funds a year earlier. He told yesterday how he personally advanced $1,000,000 in cash and $5,000,000 in securities to aid the banks. He is a director of the group.

Ford said his father understood that Detroit officials planned to close the Union Guardian Trust company and permit the First National bank to open on the morning of February 14. It was then that the elder Ford threatened to withdraw his deposits from the First National.

"Mr. Ford felt that both banks should be treated alike," Edsel explained. "If one bank was to close, he wanted both to be closed."

SCHOOL BOARD ABANDONS PLAN FOR ELECTION

unanimously decided to call off the proposed election and proceed to take steps to correct such weaknesses as are pointed out keeping in mind that funds are limited to $115,000 in the elementary field and $500,000 in the junior and senior high school fields."

While there were but four members of the board present the decision was unanimous, W. M. Burke, the fifth member of the board was called out of the city but when informed of the meeting said that he would favor the abandonment of the plebiscite plan.

Motion to Rescind

The motion to rescind previous action by the board in calling the plebiscite was made by Rolla Hays and seconded by M. B. Youel. In making his motion Hays said:

"In view of the reports submitted to the board of education by the state inspector revealing conditions which must be remedied in our school buildings, and in view of the fact that, in the final analysis, this board of education is obligated either to correct these defects called to their attention or to close certain buildings, and having in mind the safety of the children and of the teachers who must use the buildings, and also realizing that it is not possible to fully inform the general public in the brief times available before expressing an opinion in a vote, I hereby move that we rescind the motion of December 26, 1933, calling for an expression from the people, and that we proceed at once with plans for rehabilitating or replacing the earthquake damaged buildings."

A digest of the state report relative to Spurgeon school said, "Not safe at present with respect to the vertical loads imposed by the present occupancy." It explained that "old unit will require very extensive rehabilitation and it is very doubtful if it is economically feasible to undertake to save it in lieu of putting up a new structure. However, the old unit can be rehabilitated."

School Not Safe

Relative to Franklin school the report said "this structure, in its present condition, is not safe for occupancy but by proper repair and strengthening of the roof construction and the correction of other defects could be made satisfactory."

At Lowell school, according to the report "the entire roof construction is extremely deficient in strength and lacks bracing. The bearing area of the wood members in the north and south walls of the 1931 addition is entirely inadequate."

The report says of Edison school "all of the trussed rafters and ceiling joists or the roof framing are deficient in strength.

"The auditorium roof trusses are overstressed, principally in the joint connections; also no form of sway bracing has been provided for these trusses."

In a summary the report says:

Report Summary

"These buildings, in general, may be made safe for the vertical loads imposed by the present class of occupancy by the correction of the defects and weaknesses indicated in the individual cases. The present roof construction may be pointed out as the principal weakness in these structures. Although, as mentioned in the reports, certain of these buildings or at least parts of them probably have some natural resistance to lateral forces induced by winds of high velocity or earthquakes of severe intensity, none of the structures can be considered lateral force resistant as required by the accepted standards of modern structural practice.

"In general, it may be said that all of the buildings will require certain repairs to provide structures suitable to sustain the required vertical dead and live loads. In addition, in order to develop lateral force resistant structures, it will be necessary to reconstruct the present buildings and to add new structural elements. The amount of reconstruction naturally varies to suit the individual case."

Members pointed out that in many of the buildings that have been declared unsafe this factor of danger lies in the roof and can be remedied at a cost of probably less than $1000 removing the necessity of sending the plans to Sacramento for approval by the state department of architecture. Work on these buildings will get under way immediately.

RIVER BED ROAD CROSSING POSTED

Santa Ana police posted warning lanterns on the banks of the Santa Ana river at the First street crossing last night as water flowed down the river.

The water came into the river out of Santiago creek, according to Murray Thompson, Orange county flood control engineer. The water is believed to be water which was dumped by the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company to clean canals and flush pipe lines, a yearly procedure.

There was no water to spread in Orange county today, Thompson said. Water coming down the river has been spread in the area of the Yorba bridge since the recent heavy rains, resulting in increased absorption.

Revolution In France Feared; Riots Reported

PARIS, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Threats and warnings of revolution were voiced inside and outside of parliament today, coinciding with three serious clashes in different Paris suburbs.

Developments indicated that the public temper was at white heat over exposure of the $30,000,000 collapse of the private bank headed by Alexander Stavisky in Bayonne. Premier Camille Chautemps, fighting to save his government from overthrow, warned the chamber of deputies that a form of dictatorship might result if the situation continues.

Similar to a five-hour battle in the streets east of the chamber of deputies last night between royalists and the general public against the police, another serious clash occurred today at Versailles. Two groups of "young patriots" and royalist Camelots Du Roi joined in a fight against radical socialists at a political reunion. Ten were injured.

waters of Pearl Harbor at 12:02 p. m., Honolulu time, (2:59 p. m. P.S.T.).

Tugs and steamers shrieked blasts from their whistles to add to the deafening ovation. The tired airmen crawled slowly from their ships.

McGinnis, after acknowledging greetings from comrades of the service, said:

"The first thing I want is a cigarette."

As a lei dropped around his neck, in the typical Hawaiian welcome all 30 men received, the flight commander added:

"I'm glad that's behind me. Since 7 o'clock last night there were low hanging clouds and it was hazy all the way in."

Sleep on Planes

Some of the fliers slept an hour or two during the long trip. All of them had eaten from the large food supply which had been stored aboard their crafts. Perry, the hero of the "missing ship episode" revealed that he had taken time to shave on the way.

With characteristic navy efficiency, each man had made his part of the plane ship-shape before turning the boats over to mechanics. Each had donned a clean coat before coming ashore to receive the honors heaped upon them.

Hawaii residents found double reason for rejoicing in the success of the flight.

It meant to them that should their far flung island ever be menaced by an enemy, powerful planes and brave men were but a day's flight away on the mainland.

The landing in Pearl Harbor completed an 8,000-mile journey for the squadron, which McGinnis had led from Norfolk, Va., on a circuitous route to the canal zone, thence up the Mexican coast to San Diego and finally to San Francisco for the take-off to the permanent base.

Shatter Record

In spanning the ocean in the 24 hours, 48 minutes the squadron had bettered the record set by Ernest Smith, civilian, in 1927. Smith crossed in a monoplane in 25 hours, 36 minutes, landing against a breadfruit tree on Molakai Island.

The navy had made the first attempt to cross the Pacific from San Francisco to Hawaii but Lt. Com. John Rodgers in a seaplane fell a little short of his goal in 1925 and was picked up 10 days later after he had drifted to a little island. To the army went the honor of the first successful crossing when Lts. Lester Maitland and Albert Hagenberger steered a Fokker transport plane across in 25 hours, 50 minutes. Smith's flight came a month later.

That same year, 1927, the Dole flight for cash prizes was held. Three of the five planes entered fell into the sea, bringing death to their seven occupants. Two succeeded in reaching the islands. In 1927 the "Southern Cross," heavy seaplane bound for Australia, made the last previous flight. There has never been an east-west crossing.

FOUR HURT WHEN CAR TURNS OVER

Narrowly escaping serious injury when a rear tire blew out and overturned a machine at 2040 North Broadway, four persons were injured at 8:35 last night.

William Marvin Griffith, 24, 925 French street, said his car went out of control when the tire exploded and caused it to hit the curbing and turn on its side. Arthur Porter, 105 Berkeley street Betty Chancel, 926 French street, Oscar Kitto, 1815 Orange street, and Griffith all received cuts and bruises and suffered from shock. The car was badly damaged.

Griffith was given a sobriety test following the accident and was not pronounced intoxicated, although he admitted drinking beer.

Mrs. Pear H. Seeple, 330 South Olive street, Anaheim, was taken to the Anaheim Sanitarium Wednesday night after her car struck four parked automobiles in front of the German Baptist church at Lemon and Broadway and then turned over. Her injuries were not serious and she was treated for shock, cuts and bruises.

LEGIONNAIRES PLANNING FOR CELEBRATION

Discussion of plans for a big dinner and opening celebration on the evening of March 8 in the American Legion hall on Birch street, which is now being reconstructed, featured a meeting of Santa Ana Post No. 131 last night in Getty Hall.

Franklin Grouard, chairman of the building committee, reported that the building will be completed in time for the opening event, which will start with a dinner. Homer Chaillaux, department commander, will be present at the opening, it was announced.

It also is planned to hold a public dance on the evening of March 10 in the new hall, which also would take the form of observance of the anniversary of the earthquake, which damaged the building so badly that reconstruction was necessary.

A. F. Moulton reported on activities of the Boy Scout committee.

Boys from the CCC camp at Trabuco, who were scheduled to furnish the entertainment, arrived after the meeting had adjourned, having lost their way, they said, coming here.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

lips. He had a broken back and internal injuries. Moran sat by his bedside, weeping.

"This is the end, partner," the dying comedian murmured. He called to his wife:

"Goodbye, honey, I know I'm going."

A moment later he was dead. His wife, suffering from abrasions on head and body, was in an adjoining room. She did not hear him. Attaches said she was on the verge of collapse.

The accident occurred as the group was enroute to Hollywood to make a motion picture.

Moran, who was bruised and shaken with grief, told the United Press Mrs. Mack was driving.

"We were traveling about 45 miles an hour," he said. "Mrs. Mack was driving and Sennett sat beside her. Charley, his daughter, (Mary Jane, 18) and I sat in the back seat.

"Suddenly a tire blew out. I think it was a rear tire. We lurched into a ditch and turned over three or four times. I can't remember, it all happened so suddenly. When I came to, I found myself crawling through the top of the car. I reached for Mary Jane to help her out and then we saw Charley, pinned beneath the back seat."

Crushed Chest

"Some motorists came by and helped us lift the car away and we started for the hospital. I can't tell you how I felt. Mr. Mack had a crushed chest, his back was injured and he was bleeding terribly. He wouldn't talk to me. I just held his hand."

Moran suffered abrasions about the legs. His head and tongue also were cut.

Mary Jane was only slightly bruised and shaken.

Sennett was cut about the head and shoulders and complained of pains in his chest. An X-ray examination was planned to ascertain if he suffered internal injuries.

Mack was 46 years old. He was born in White Cloud, Kan., but educated in Portland and Salem, Ore. In his early 20's, he played professional baseball in Olympia, Wash., but deserted the diamond to try his skill at "gag writing" for vaudeville teams. He soon wrote a skit for himself and was given his first bookings in Seattle, Wash., by Alexander Pantages, vaudeville magnate.

POLICE, FIRE FORCES TALK CIVIL SERVICE

Seeking information on possibilities of civil service requirements for firemen and policemen in Santa Ana and Orange county, a delegation of 14 men from the two Santa Ana departments attended a meeting of the Municipal Cooperative Defense association in Huntington Park last night.

As a result of the meeting and campaign to put the civil service proposition on the ballot, a special meeting of the entire association will be held in Santa Ana next Wednesday night with county firemen and policemen invited to attend.

The movement for civil service is well-started by the 26 cities in the association. The aim is to have petitions signed to present to the city councils and have an election called. If the voters approve the new city ordinance, the selection and firing of men in the two departments would cease to be a political question, advocates of the measure pointed out, and qualified men would be drawn into service.

In cities where petitions are being signed, there has been overwhelming support in favor of civil service, it was said. The fire department in Huntington Park now operates under this system and is a leader in expanding the system. Endorsements are being received from all types of organizations throughout the state, it was learned from President Harold Atkinson, Huntington Park police chief.

H. J. McCormack, chairman of a committee from the Santa Ana fire department to investigate the matter, announced that the firemen were unanimously in favor of civil service and waned to help the association. He tendered the invitation to meet here and also asked representatives to attend the meeting Monday night in Buena Park of the Orange County Firemen's association.

Under the system as it would operate here, if approved by the voters, all present members of both departments would automatically come under its provisions and all new members would have to take examinations. There would be no "spoils system" with each change of administrations, it was said, and merit would replace preference.

The Santa Anans attending included Chief John Luxembourger, Fire Commissioner William Penn, H. J. McCormack, T. D. Miller, B. Y. Patton, E. W. Forder, W. C. Fox and J. J. Hanson from the fire department; Assistant Chief Harry Fink, Police Commissioner E. G. Warner, Sergeant Clyde Flower and Motor Officer Ed Lentz from the police department.

Before an audience which filled every seat, overflowed on the stage and jammed the rear of the auditorium, making it necessary to turn many away, people from nearly every community in Orange county, seeking answers to their problems, flocked to the People's Forum last night to hear discussions on the national relief and work program, during which a check of all complaints was promised.

Charles Schottland, Southern California representative of the FERA for the national administrator, outlined the CWA and CWS program, and discussed the national relief program. Dr. George A. Warmer, member of the county CWA board, discussed local problems and methods used to meet them. Harry Gerhart, director of the Forum, "stood pat" on his charges made last week that Byron V. Curry, welfare director, lacks the proper temperament, humanity and social vision for his position.

All during the evening, questions asked of the speakers took the form of flares of resentment against the manner in which relief has been administered in Orange county.

Gerhart said a group of politicians in Orange county have been running affairs pretty much to suit themselves. He held that it was significant that a group of men had a statement published in The Register Tuesday night, expressing confidence in Curry. He pointed out that the group is entitled to an honest difference of opinion, but declared that not once did they refer to the facts involved in the discussion.

Facts At Issue

These facts, the speaker said, are that hundreds of men, women and children are not receiving adequate help in this emergency; that inadequate funds have not stretched to cover the whole relief load; and that the welfare director is not fitted by temperament, training and experience as dictator of human destiny in Orange county.

"I said he was efficient," Gerhart asserted, "and they agreed with me. He has stretched the taxmoney of this group to the last crumb of bread and the last thread-bare garment to cover their nakedness.

"Now I have analyzed the statement of this group. They say they like Byron Curry, and that is about the substance of their statement. Of course they like him. He has carried out their program. And he makes an excellent companion on the golf course. Most of these men are members of the same country club. Many of them did not know what they were signing.

"I have analyzed the names signed to their statement. From three-fourths to seven-eighths of these men are connected in a financial or political way. And because the big financial institutions in this county have been the recipients of several millions of federal monies to aid their institutions, direct relief in their case ran into the millions, therefore it was not called a dole. It is hardly becoming on their part to obstruct the infinitely smaller doles and assistance that has come to the unemployed and needy. Roosevelt helped them, and they should support Roosevelt in helping the men who have not comfortable firesides and pleasant country clubs.

"No group of unemployed has signed a petition or a statement objecting to the relief and the support of their businesses. Let them now be good sports and co-operate on the other end of President Roosevelt's program.

Wins Applause

Gerhart was loudly applauded when he announced that he "stood pat" on his charges against Curry.

A charge that men in control of the relief work in the county are building up a machine to defeat the purposes of the administration was made by a man in the audience. Another charged that Curry played politics in giving out work for men.

Attempting to answer a question from the audience as to whether the men who put Curry in power are honorable, Dr. Warmer declared that if an efficient man holds a post but is not satisfactory it might be better to make him satisfactory than to change horses in the middle of the stream.

A speaker from the floor declared that he has lived in Orange county for 35 years, and yet is unable to get work although many persons who have come here not long ago have been given jobs by Curry.

Promise Investigation

Schottland promised the resentful audience that every complaint would be gone into to determine its merits after the statement was made from the floor that Curry has gambled with human misery here and that it is time a government investigation is made to see if the charges against Curry are true.

"What is to become of the 3000 men in Orange county who are going hungry?" a man shouted from the gallery to Schottland. "What can be done for them?"

"They can get direct relief," Schottland replied.

"Where can this relief be located?" several persons in the audience asked.

Schottland admitted that many injustices have been done, and said the reason was that so many men had to be put to work in such a short time, after a man had charged that work was being given many who did not need it.

Complaints because co-operatives have not been aided were voiced from the floor. Schottland said the reason for this is that it takes time to set up the machinery to take care of all the needs. Other complaints because of the small quota of CWA workers for Orange county had been decided on, that work was not split up and because CWA rolls were filled first from county relief rolls, were made.

Schottland declared that Orange county was an exception, and that in most counties only 25 to 40 per cent of CWA workers were taken from those previously employed on RFC work.

MORE CHARGES FACE GROCER IN MORALS CASE

With four additional charges involving girls ranging in age from seven to 14 years filed against him in superior court this morning, W. L. Hicks, Santa Ana grocer, through his attorney, Thomas McFadden, requested a continuance in his arraignment until January 19. The stay was granted by Superior Judge James L. Allen.

Hicks already is serving one year in the county jail as a part of his probation period of five years on a charge involving school girls who came into his store.

Denver King, his wife, Mrs. Vivian King, and Carl Blythe, accused of contributing to the delinquency of a 15-year-old Santa Ana girl also requested and were granted an extension until January 19 for arraignment on the charge.

Arraignment of Jud Hobson and Paul Rapier on charges of robbing the Lockwood Service station at Costa Mesa, was continued until January 19 as was the arraignment of Robert O. Gruwell, president of the Copper Conda Mines company. Gruwell is accused of grand theft and violation of the Corporate Securities Act, in connection with a $900 stock deal involving John E. Phillips of this city.

Pete Martinez pleaded guilty to a statutory offense against a 16-year-old Orange girl in November last year and asked for probation. Hearing on his application was set for next Friday.

Filbert LeMon, 18, who pleaded guilty to burglarizing the A. B. C. cafe in Fullerton the night of December 3 was denied probation and sentenced to Preston School of Industry until he becomes 21 years of age.

Torosa Rebekahs

Ceremonies of installation, conducted Wednesday night for Torosa Rebekah lodge, were attended by a large crowd of members, relatives and friends of officers, and lodge members and officers from other points in the county.

Miss Bessie Potter conducted her final business session as noble grand after which Mildred Allen, deputy, her marshal and installing staff from Anaheim, put on the ritualistic work. The guards addressed to the pink and green of the Rebekah colors in their pretty taffeta gowns, and made an effective appearance.

Officers installed were Martha Jan de Walker, noble grand; Esther Jamieson Brown, vice grand; Carrie E. Tople, recording secretary; Blanche Chandler, financial secretary; Emma M. Cochems, treasurer; Mabel Horning, conductor; Mrs. Morrow, warden; Fannie M. Lacy, chaplain; Adeline Harrell, musician; Ada Spencer, R. S. N. G.; Mary Cooper, L. S. N. G.; Ethel Brown, R. S. V. G.; Laura Kesemann, L. S. V. G.; Lucille Rathbone, inside guardian; Margaret Kuhl, outside guardian; Nannie Myers, R. A. S.; Audria Fey, L. A. S.; Herbert Allen, drill captain.

Miss Potter, retiring noble grand, was presented with a handsome lamp, the gift of her staff of officers. She had gifts in turn for each of the staff, while there were attractive gifts from the lodge to the installing officers and a number of lovely flowers and presents to various officers, both retiring and incoming.

Before the evening came to a close, members and guests were invited to the banquet hall where cake and coffee were served. The room was brightened with many lovely flowers to conform to the artistic decorations employed in the lodge room. Outgoing officers had arranged the decorations.

Announcement was made of a valentine dance on the night of February 14, in the I. O. O. F. hall, open to all members and their friends.

POLICE, FIRE FORCES TALK CIVIL SERVICE

Seeking information on possibilities of civil service requirements for firemen and policemen in Santa Ana and Orange county, a delegation of 14 men from the two Santa Ana departments attended a meeting of the Municipal Cooperative Defense association in Huntington Park last night.

As a result of the meeting and campaign to put the civil service proposition on the ballot, a special meeting of the entire association will be held in Santa Ana next Wednesday night with county firemen and policemen invited to attend.

The movement for civil service is well-started by the 26 cities in the association. The aim is to have petitions signed to present to the city councils and have an election called. If the voters approve the new city ordinance, the selection and firing of men in the two departments would cease to be a political question, advocates of the measure pointed out, and qualified men would be drawn into service.

In cities where petitions are being signed, there has been overwhelming support in favor of civil service, it was said. The fire department in Huntington Park now operates under this system and is a leader in expanding the system. Endorsements are being received from all types of organizations throughout the state, it was learned from President Harold Atkinson, Huntington Park police chief.

H. J. McCormack, chairman of a committee from the Santa Ana fire department to investigate the matter, announced that the firemen were unanimously in favor of civil service and waned to help the association. He tendered the invitation to meet here and also asked representatives to attend the meeting Monday night in Buena Park of the Orange County Firemen's association.

Under the system as it would operate here, if approved by the voters, all present members of both departments would automatically come under its provisions and all new members would have to take examinations. There would be no "spoils system" with each change of administrations, it was said, and merit would replace preference.

The Santa Anans attending included Chief John Luxembourger, Fire Commissioner William Penn, H. J. McCormack, T. D. Miller, B. Y. Patton, E. W. Forder, W. C. Fox and J. J. Hanson from the fire department; Assistant Chief Harry Fink, Police Commissioner E. G. Warner, Sergeant Frank Lutz, Sergeant Clyde Flower and Motor Officer Ed Lentz from the police department.

Before an audience which filled every seat, overflowed on the stage and jammed the rear of the auditorium, making it necessary to turn many away, people from nearly every community in Orange county, seeking answers to their problems, flocked to the People's Forum last night to hear discussions on the national relief and work program, during which a check of all complaints was promised.

ORANGE COUNTY MAN NAMED ON DIRECTORATE

Stephen Griset, Santa Ana, and W. J. Newsom, Garden Grove, have been elected directors representing Orange county on the board of directors of the First National Loan Association of Los Angeles, it was announced today by George S. Mann, secretary-treasurer.

The directors have been members of the board of the Los Angeles association for many years and also are members of the loan committee, Mann announced.

Mann explained how loan figures on citrus groves are arrived at, declaring that primarily the production of the grove is the deciding factor. Other things that affect the appraised value include soil, its adaptability and fertility; climatic conditions, frost hazard, air, drainage, etc.; whether subject to erosion; condition of trees, presence of disease, water conditions, location of the property, marketing facilities and the amount of fixed charges, including taxes and assessments.

A large number of loans now is being closed, he stated, and experience shows that the Federal Land Bank prefers to make comparatively heavy loans on the good citrus properties rather than small loans on the average or poor properties.

"To arrive at an estimate as to the amount of loan obtainable on a certain grove, we work on a basis of a miximum loan by the Federal Land Bank of $500 an acre," Mann said. "In addition to this, we can obtain up to $5000 on a second mortgage loan on the basis of up to $250 an acre. This permits a total loan of $750 an acre or a minimum loan of $15,000 on 20 acres or, if we consider a 40-acre piece, we would obtain $500 an acre loan from the Federal Land Bank and an additional $5000, making a total mortgage loan of $25,000 on the 40 acres."

BISHOP URGES CHURCH WAKEN FOR ADVANCE

Possibilities of a new spiritual campaign were discussed last night by Bishop Ira D. Warner, speaker at the Week of Prayer service held in the First Methodist church. He suggested this crusade as an antidote for the materialistic philosophy and "half baked" cynicism of a moral revolution.

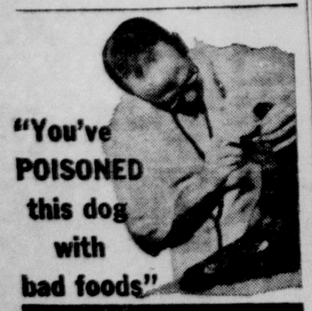

He said in part:

"For many months we have been breathing the noxious fumes of a materialistic philosophy, of a half-baked cynicism, of a moral revolution, of petty criticism. We have heard so much of the greatness of things and the almightiness of science that we have curled up in senseless fear until the church is suffering from partial paralysis.

"But man's extremity is God's opportunity. It was so in the great crises of '37, '57 and the '70's. This is the time for the church to take stock of assets and liabilities to open her spiritual eyes to see. I believe the hour is favorable to a spiritual advance even though the attitude of the church is not especially encouraging and conditions in the world are distressing. Carlyle has well said: 'When most neglected, religion in unnoticed nooks is weaving for herself new vestures wherewith to appear and bless us.'

"The dean of men in one of our largest universities recently said, 'There is a very definite turn in the tide, I can detect a growing weariness in university circles of popular cynicism and sophistication so popular in recent years. There is coming a finer idealism in the hearts of students of this generation.'

"I can't but suggest the implication of this spiritual crusade. It will come through the conviction of an imminent and Almighty God, through the conviction of sin, through the message and dynamic of the cross, through the powers of the Holy Ghost and the passion and devotion of Christ's followers."

ELIMINATION OF POVERTY, UNEMPLOYMENT SOUGHT IN MOVE LAUNCHED AT FORUM

Launching a movement to organize the Association for Economic Betterment, more than 400 persons took out petitions asking that adjustments be made in the social and economic system at a mass meeting held last night at the People's Forum.

Nearly 900 were present at the meeting with many being turned away for lack of room. Charles Schottland, Southern California representative of the FERA under the national administrator, Dr. George A. Warmer, member of the local CWA board, and Harry Gerhart, director of the Forum, were the speakers.

Petitions were taken out for signing by residents of Santa Ana, Orange, Fullerton, Costa Mesa, Newport Beach, Los Alamitos, Anaheim, Brea, Garden Grove and Huntington Beach. An executive committee was named from the floor which will serve until permanent officers are selected and organization perfected.

Addressed to all public officials of Orange county, the state and nation, including President Roosevelt, signers of the petitions will pledge themselves to work for seven immediate and local needs.

Members of the association will work for an increase in the county quota of workers on CWA; an increase in the quota of funds for direct relief and CWA; the liberalizing and humanizing of all relief programs, and the administration of same without discrimination on the sole basis of need; the reestablishment of more work relief programs; the establishment of self-help programs to aid in the rehabilitation and the selfsupport of the unemployed, and the adjustment of taxation according to the ability to pay and on a basis in proportion to other Southern California counties.

Recognizing and approving the tremendous efforts and the evident sincerity of President Roosevelt's program toward the relief of a suffering and oppressed people and recognizing the necessity of national agencies working through local groups and individuals, many of whom are non-cooperative with the national effort, signers of the petition "petition, request and demand immediate attention and alleviation of the conditions of poverty, destitution and unemployment existing in this county."

"We hereby pledge ourselves, our time, our energies and our votes to the men and the agencies regardless of political party who successfully work for the alleviation of existing conditions and we just as unhesitatingly pledge these same powers against such men or agencies who resist, retard, or obstruct the forward-moving agencies which now or hereafter work for the relief and reconstruction of local and national well being," the petition stated.

OIL COMPANIES RELEASE FUNDS TO OPERATORS

Placing many thousands of dollars in circulation in Orange county, and indicating that final settlement of the tidelands drilling controversy is nearing an end, major oil companies which have been buying oil from wells producing from the tidelands and which have been impounding a large portion of the money from the oil sales, today released 60 per cent of the impounded funds.

Operators feel that a definite settlement will be reached very shortly, according to H. H. McVicar, prominent Huntington Beach operator, and partner of Cecil Rood, operators' representative in the tideland drilling conferences with state officials. Rood is now in San Francisco conferring with Rolland Vandegrift, state finance director, on final details of the settlement under which the state collects royalties ranging from five per cent up to 66 per cent on tidelands wells.

When the state first brought suit against Huntington Beach operators, major oil companies flatly refused to purchase any more oil. Later, they agreed to make purchases providing the operators would permit the entire amount to be impounded. As negotiations progressed, a number of the purchasing companies impounded 80 per cent of the oil and released checks on 20 per cent.

No definite figures on the amount released by the oil companies was available today.

WHITTIER LIONS GIVE PROGRAM FOR S. A. CLUB

Returning a visitation of the local club to the Quaker City several months ago, the Whittier Lions club, led by President Lewis Wicker, journeyed to Santa Ana yesterday noon and staged the entire program for the Santa Ana Lions club at James' cafe, which was highly enjoyed by all those present.

The visitors were welcomed by President Carson Smith of the Santa Ana Den and individually introduced, with much hilarity, as many of the visitors were wearing the name buttons of local Lions.

The Quaker City club brought with them the Whittier College male quartet, which entertained with several numbers, and Miss Gretchen Evans, daughter of the head of the music department of the college, who entertained with a group of Spanish solos, accompanied by Bob Olson.

Fred Neuschutz of Whittier, depuey district governor, reported a net gain of 409 members in district four for the past six months, and expressed gratification at the record of Santa Ana and other clubs in this immediate territory.

The s. ker of the day was Burl G. Martin, secretary of the Whittier Chamber of Commerce and prominent Lion, who spoke on the perspective, mental poise, and stability attained by sincere service club members, and the broadening vision secured through frequent contact with others.

President Smith announced that J. Clark Sellers, handwriting expert, would be the speaker at next week's Lion luncheon.

U. S. JOB BUREAU IN NEW LOCATION

The offices of the National Re-Employment Service in the basement of the courthouse were being moved today to larger quarters.

The new location will be in rooms 208-209, in the Ramona building, at Fifth and Sycamore streets. It is possible that all the files will not be moved before Monday.

Registration of unemployed will continue in the basement of the courthouse, however, Charles Fallert, manager, announced. The files and his office will be taken to the Ramona building. The change is being made because space allocated at the courthouse is too small, he explained.

DRESS TAKEN FROM S. A. STORE; TWO HOMES RANSACKED

One petty theft and two attempted burglaries were reported to police last night with the only loot taken being a dress from Steele's Dress Shop, 223 West Fourth street.

Bernice Whitmore of the dress shop said that a neatly dressed woman, about 35 years of age, 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighing 125 pounds and wearing a brown coat and hat, came in the store about 3:45 p. m. and walked out with a black silk dress trimmed in white, valued at $8.95.

The home of Tom Allen, jr., 1129 Cypress street, was entered between 6 and 10:45 p. m. and the house of G. W. Ross, 1502 North Flower street was entered between 2 and 5 p. m. but nothing was taken at either place, police were told. The Allen home was entered after a screen was cut and all drawers, desks and rooms were ransacked by someone apparently trying to find money. The Ross home was entered with a pass key and also was ransacked.

COFFING DISPLAYS NEW DODGE CARS

A more than ordinarily interesting contribution to the competitive lineup of the new automobile year is that presented by Dodge Brothers corporation whose 1934 offerings are fully abreast of latest style and engineering trends.

The new Dodge line consists of two series—one with a wheelbase of 117 inches, the other with a wheelbase of 121 inches, and is being shown by L. D. Coffing, 315 East Fifth street.

There is no denying that Dodge body designers and stylists have outdone all their former efforts in the development of eye-filling exteriors, Coffing said. Streamlining —"aero-streaming" is the term used by Dodge—has been worked out with an extraordinary measure of success. The windshields are set at a more rakish angle; sweeping fenders, "aero-stramed" in conformity with the ensemble, are attractively pantalooned for gravel deflection and mud protection; roof lines are gracefully curved, while backs terminate in new beavertail slopes of dynamic symmetry.

The Dodge front suspension, to which the trade name "Floating-Cushion" Wheels has been given, is of the pantograph type representing what may be called true independent springing. The method is axleless. The conventional long leaf springs are also absent. Spring action is furnished by large coil springs, one on each side of the car.

The Floating Power engine mountings of the new Dodge engine place the power source low in the frame so that there is practically a straight-line drive from the rear of the transmission to the rear axle.

JAIL COUPLE HERE FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

Accused of violation of the national banking act and the embezzlement of nearly $35,000 in funds from a New Jersey bank, Robert E. Lowe, 30, and his wife, Mrs. Elfrienda Lowe, 29, were arraigned before United States Commissioner David B. Head in Los Angeles yesterday and booked at the Orange county jail last night under bail of $10,000 and $5,000, respectively.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowe were arrested by federal agents after a search of more than a year. It is said that Lowe juggled accounts totalling $1,000,000 over a period of two years and then came to Los Angeles. Prior to his arraignment, he confessed to taking the $35,000, officers said. He was a cashier in the bank and his wife a former employe.

CWA Problem Solved By Office Boy

The CWA offices here now have a busy office boy.

It all came about when a man who was physically unable to handle the heavy work of CWA projects available appeared in the office of Director Robert W. Ramsey with his young son, appealing for work so that his family wouldn't go hungry.

Ramsey recalled a Federal Works Administration ruling that all men have to be drawn from the National Reemployment Service except "definite administrative personnel when suitable persons are not available on the reemployment lists."

And the new job was created and the problem solved for one more family.

JUDGE WARMER IN ADDRESS AT CLUB SESSION

FULLERTON, Jan. 12. — Miss Anita Shepherdson and Miss Nellie Rumsey were hostesses to 74 members of Fullerton Woman's club Thursday night with husbands and guests, at the home of Miss Shepherdson on Hillcrest. The rooms were beautifully decorated in snap-dragons and delphiniums, and the hostesses served assorted candies at the close of the session.

Judge Benjamin Warmer, presiding judge of the San Bernardino county superior court, talked on "Law Observance," and reminded the large assembly that the challenge today is to think. "Not until we are back to support of and obedience of constitutional law can we hope to save this country which at present is at the cross roads, between communism, fascism and democracy as governing policies," he said in part. Mrs. Warmer, who is Southern district president, also was present.

Mrs. Jennie M. Daniels, president, welcomed the guests in an opening talk. She introduced Mrs. S. W. Douglas, program chairman, who in turn presented Mrs. Hodges, who accompanied by Mrs. Y. W. Ramsey, gave a group of vocal numbers. Mrs. Windle introduced the speaker.

Lowest "Lake" in America

Bad Water, a sink in Death Valley salt beds at the lowest point in America, 310 feet below sea level, was recently marked by a signing crew of the Automobile Club of Southern California engaged in posting more signs throughout the new Death Valley National Monument. One of the party is trying out a portable boat on the pond. Roads in the area are now being improved materially due to increased tourist travel.

OUTLINES ATTAINMENTS OF NATIONAL CWA PROGRAM; TO CONSIDER HUMAN ELEMENT

The CWA program was not designed to absorb all the unemployment in the nation, but was meant to put enough men to work in co-operation with the PWA to stimulate private industry enough so that other unemployed persons would be given jobs, Charles Schottland, Southern California representative of the FERA for the national administrator, told a crowd which jammed the Temple theater last night at a meeting of the People's Forum.

Schottland, who outlined the purposes and objectives of CWA, was followed on the speaking program by Dr. George A. Warmer, member of the local CWA board, who discussed local problems.

The speaker termed the CWA a planned social welfare program for the entire country which is a radical departure from anything ever attempted before by the government.

"The federal government," he said, "launched the CWA program after it was found that the PWA program would take time to get into operation because of many problems, including the problem of financing, to give people jobs immediately. The CWA had to be immediate and it was figured that four million men could be put to work in a few weeks. It was seen that the program must be divorced from politics, so the administration was given to laymen who have charge of everything done in the local community."

Money Circulated

Stressing the value to business of large sums of money paid out in wages to CWA workers, Schottland declared this point already has been proven.

He said that the plan is when private industry cannot take up the slack of unemployment, the government will insure families of an adequate livelihood. He explained the Civil Works Service, which will give employment to women who need work. Projects in the CWS, he said, will not be of a constructional nature, but will consist of work in libraries, nursing, and other lines women can handle.

"Thousands of persons will be given work under the PWA within the next year," the speaker declared. "The government knew that 15,000,000 people could not be put to work in a few months without wasting public money. The federal transient service is designed to see that the million men on the road become located somewhere to stop the evils connected with continual moving around. CCC camps, state labor camps and other programs are part of the planned program to meet this problem.

To Insure Decent Living

"The federal government has gone into this business in a wholesale manner to see that citizens of the nation are able to earn a decent living."

Schottland explained the work of local CWA committees, and lauded the work of the Santa Ana committee, which he said was comprised of "seven fine laymen."

As Dr. Warmer began to speak, a woman in the audience demanded to know what relief a widow with children could get, who are unable to get food or help.

"That is a problem which has worried me considerably," Dr. Warmer said, "and I hope the CWS quota will arrive here soon so women can be given something to do right away.

"I am giving all I know how or can to this problem. I have tried to put into it the human element to see that people get human treatment. I am sure that we will be able to considerately explain and handle persons so we can have the finest kind of morale and to this end I pledge my strength and the best I have." Loud applause greeted this statement.

Dr. Warmer explained the workings of the CWA in Santa Ana, explaining the men are hired by the national employment service, which he said, should send men out on jobs according to the need, and not according to the time they register.

Policies Liberalized

He urged Schottland to use his influence to reinstitute a work relief program, declaring the CWA program has not given employment to enough people here who want work, and not a gift program. He said he wished that the old RFC program could be started again with work rotated.

"In the last week," Dr. Warmer said, "the welfare department has liberalized its policies." At this point cries of approbation arose from the audience and one man shouted: "Who did it?"

The speaker expressed the hope that co-operatives soon will be given aid by the government because they should receive consideration because of the excellent work they have been doing.

"I mean to do all I can to see there is no grievous need," he declared. "The human element is the element I am interested in. I am interested in the taxpayer but there is little need to worry about the effect of this program on him because the committee cannot increase tax funds nor can it increase the tax burden already here. We vote no more taxes by receiving these gifts from the government and yet I am more interested in men, women and children than I am in taxes."

NEW PERSONNEL AT WHITTIER GETS RESULTS

WHITTIER, Jan. 12.—Not only has the Whittier State school for boys been improved tremendously as far as benefits to the boys are concerned, but there has been an important financial saving in operation since administration changed hands, according to a report made to Theo. Roche of San Francisco, in a letter from Elmer R. Murphey, member of the advisory committee and one of the instigators of the movement to better conditions at the school.

"We feel that we want the opportunity to report to you who have been so helpful in instituting the present regime at the Whittier State school," the report said.

"For instance, from May to the 1st of November the expenditures for salaries was $70,270.71, as compared with $78,750.34 the year before, a decrease of $8479.63.

"From May to the 1st of November for materials and service we spent $54,391.55, compared with $64,351.45 in 1932, a saving of $9959.90.

"This makes a saving in salaries and materials for seven months of $18,439.53. We cut down the per capita cost from $47.23 to $41.00, a saving of $6.23 per boy.

"On the income eside we did away with the old contract where all the walnuts were taken over by the association and we bought back what we used in the school, and we sold at the market so that in place of $898.05, we received in the seven months under discussion $2615.08, an increased income of $1717.03.

"Fo roranges and lemons we did away with a contract where the school was getting the worst of it and have an income of $4901.30, as against an income for last year of $1480.91; or an increase of $3420.39.

"Therefore we have obtained for products which were sold an increase of $5137.42, and have saved in expenditures $18,439.53; a total saving to the state of $23,576.95.

"We hope that the efforts of the institution have justified your recommendation."

NRA JARS NEW ENGLAND TRADITION

NEW DEAL IS WINNING OVER ITS OPPONENTS

This is the ninth of eleven articles on "America Under the Blue Eagle," a series written exclusively for The Register and other NEA Service newspapers, after a 5000-mile survey, made in the nation's centers of population, after six months' operation of the recovery program.

By WILLIS THORNTON
Staff Correspondent

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 12.—You travel the country over. You hear much said about money. But you never hear a word about the moral aspect of going off the gold standard until you get to New England.

Here the government's repudiation of its promise to pay in gold was a profound shock, not only to readers of the Boston Transcript, who write indignantly that "there are such things as honor and honesty," but to almost everyone of any substance.

Bankers tell you of this initial shock, the tremors from which still can be felt, months afterward. Then they tell you that it began to subside as soon as people found that as a practical matter of their daily life it made little or no difference.

Savings at High Mark

It is not for nothing that New England is insurance and mutual savings bank headquarters for the nation. Mutual savings bank deposits in Massachusetts are almost as high as they were in 1929, and never declined much even during the banking holiday.

In Springfield they amount to an average of $553.53 for every man, woman and child in the city. So money is important here in a way that it is not important in Fort Worth, Texas, for example, and the distrust of monetary tinkering is seen plainly on every hand.

When the Boston Chamber of Commerce vigorously demanded an end to "the deliberate debasement of our currency," it spoke for most of New England.

Many bankers hereabouts regard the unstable dollar as "the repudiation of a solemn pledge" and "a stain on our national honor."

A group of Yale economists recently protested present policies in the gravest terms, saying that only a return to gold and stability can save us.

Fears Mostly Imaginary

Yet a well-known banker here confessed to me that if people didn't keep up with world events in the newspapers, they never would know the difference in the practical use of their money.

Further, New England was left pretty much out in the cold when the government began dishing out money this summer and fall. Since her farms are not dominant, the wheat, cotton, corn-hog, and all such largesses were unavailing.

Not until the CWA money began to fall did New England notice the stimulus. And then it felt it immediately.

"The checks came in to us immediately on the first pay day," a banker told me. "First from groceries, then from department stores.

Costly, But Profitable

"Of course it's costly to the government, but it's the right thing. Here we are getting things done with CWA labor that we would have had to do later anyway—we had a plan ready."

Until CWA came along, NRA was the dominant influence of the New Deal in New England. And its influence was strong. The New England Council, perhaps the most farsighted regional planning board in the country, showed by a questionnaire that NRA had increased employment 20.8 per cent, payrolls 28 per cent, and hourly wage rates 28 per cent throughout New England.

Of 400 firms which replied to the questionnaire, only 176 said they had had no need of new credit, while 123 admitted they had sought it. And of those, 20 per cent had been refused.

Gain in Springfield

Springfield is a steady town in employment, most of the workers being highly skilled. Yet employment here mounted a sfollows: January, 28,867; March, 27,086; June, 30,824; and September, 33,760. Payrolls almost doubled from the low in March, careful figures of the Chamber of Commerce indicate.

Yet even here, in a town of highly-skilled workers, there have been labor disturbances. Pocketbook makers, electrical workers at the Westinghouse plant, bakers and truck drivers have been on strike at different times.

Great progress has been made in organizing workers here. The Central Labor Union reports membership of between 12,000 and 15,000, practically doubled since NRA went in effect.

Jurisdiction Disputed

Considerable friction has developed here in the chartering of new federal unions, a dozen or more of which have received charters. Skilled machinists, for example, who make up the bulk of labor in most of the plants, usually are claimed by the International Association of Machinists, who are accused by the Central of preventing the chartering of federal unions in several cases, though unable themselves to organize the workers.

At the Westinghouse plant, some 2800 workers are enrolled in the plant industrial union, disregarding the internationals.

The direct benefits of NRA are seen in the pocketbook industry here, which had been guilty of some sweatshop tactics. Girls who formerly got $7.50 a week now are getting $14 and are organized under the Pocketbook Workers' Union (A. F. of L.)

There also was some trouble in the apron industry, where pay of from $7 to $9 a week was raised to the code minimum of $13, and the factories made to install time-clocks.

Good for Textile Mills

New England cotton textiles like their code perhaps even more than those of the south, for here they claim that at last they are put on a competitive footing with the labor costs in that section.

Freight rates are such that raw cotton can be delivered by boat from a gulf port to a New England mill just as cheaply as it can be sent by rail to North Carolina.

So the New England mills are rejoicing that at last the code has eliminated the "unfair" competition of cheap southern labor. It is felt that this will prevent further movement of mills from New England to the south, and even may turn the tide the other way.

Massachusetts especially, which always has had rather progressive labor laws, feels that neighboring states as well as southern ones are being kept in line.

NRA Work Praised

A well-known authority in the textile field claims 1933 was the most complete reversal ever recorded in the industry, and that the NRA has "given it its opportunity."

The New England Council's figures suggest that NRA in this section was almost a share-the-work proposition, for despite an increase of better than 20 per cent in number of workers, the number of man-hours increased only 2.2 per cent last summer and fall.

W. L. Carter, chairman of the council's industrial committee, has said that "We note a growing acceptance of the Recovery Act as the new rules of the game, and recognition of the fact that increased costs due to the code's operation may be offset in various ways without reducing wages or salaries or seriously increasing prices."

Shoe Industry Benefits

That is perhaps what Ernest G. Wheeler, president of the Springfield National Bank, meant when he told me that "The leaders have learned to do their job better in these last few years."

The shoe industry, also a benefactor from its code, moved upward sharply at the year-end, after a lull in the fall, and many of the woolen mills in the Boston area recently boosted production to take care of increasing demand for clothing.

NRA compliance here was in general willing, Carlos B. Ellis, compliance chairman, told me. One evil condition was allowed to continue temporarily. A manufacturer had women working in their homes stitching doll dresses at 22 cents a dozen dresses.

They couldn't earn a living wage at that rate, but the employer had not signed the blanket code, and there was no way to get at him. Questioned, he proved that this work was under contract for the Christmas trade at a figure which would permit no higher rate of pay.

Agrees to Raise Pay

So it was allowed to ride through the holidays, but the employer agreed that on all such work after the first of the year he would pay no less than $13 a week.

There seems no doubt about the continued popularity of President Roosevelt in this normally Republican state. An extremely well-informed editorial writer told me that "People here regard the CWA and even the PWA as mere temporary relief—a form of dole which is definitely unsound on anything approaching a permanent basis.

"But they seem necessary this winter, and though people hereabouts distrust the president's experiments with money, they feel that, with his background and qualities, he cannot lead us very far astray. I feel sure he would carry Massachusetts tomorrow."

JOBS GO BEGGING

A taxi service manager at Springfield, Mass., reported that he had been unable to get night drivers. Two jobs on night cabs had gone begging for more than two weeks, he said.

HERE'S BOSTON'S BLUE EAGLE PARADE

Staid Boston, where busy crowds again throng downtown streets, was jarred to its foundation when the New Deal upset its cherished traditions . . .but it's beginning to enjoy it now. And nowhere in the New England section is there greater approval of NIRA than in the textile mills, where machinery hums again.

NEW PERSONNEL AT WHITTIER GETS RESULTS

WHITTIER, Jan. 12.—Not only has the Whittier State school for boys been improved tremendously as far as benefits to the boys are concerned, but there has been an important financial saving in operation since administration changed hands, according to a report made to Theo. Roche of San Francisco, in a letter from Elmer R. Murphey, member of the advisory committee and one of the instigators of the movement to better conditions at the school.

"We feel that we want the opportunity to report to you who have been so helpful in instituting the present regime at the Whittier State school," the report said.

That is perhaps what Ernest G. Wheeler, president of the Springfield National Bank, meant when he told me that "The leaders have learned to do their job better in these last few years."

The shoe industry, also a benefactor from its code, moved upward sharply at the year-end, after a lull in the fall, and many of the woolen mills in the Boston area recently boosted production to take care of increasing demand for clothing.

NRA compliance here was in general willing, Carlos B. Ellis, compliance chairman, told me. One evil condition was allowed to continue temporarily. A manufacturer had women working in their homes stitching doll dresses at 22 cents a dozen dresses.

They couldn't earn a living wage at that rate, but the employer had not signed the blanket code, and there was no way to get at him. Questioned, he proved that this work was under contract for the Christmas trade at a figure which would permit no higher rate of pay.

Agrees to Raise Pay

So it was allowed to ride through the holidays, but the employer agreed that on all such work after the first of the year he would pay no less than $13 a week.

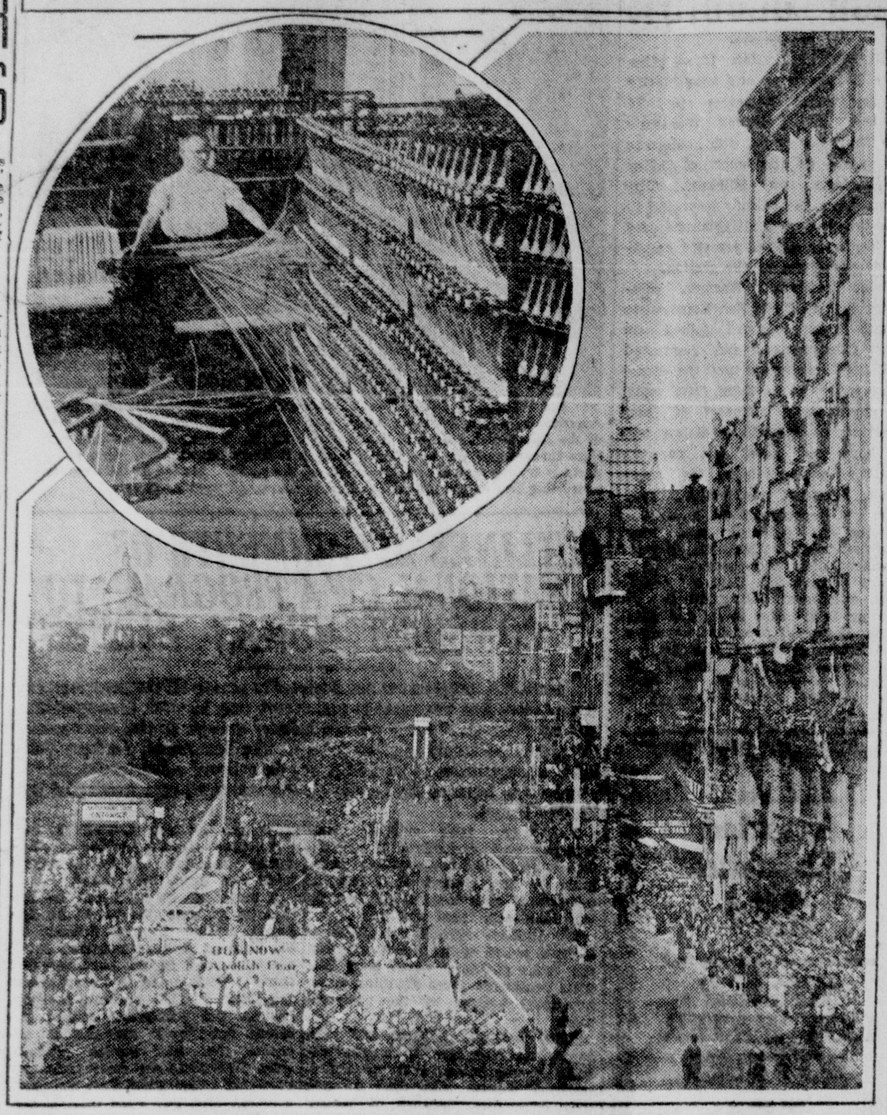

There seems no doubt about the continued popularity of President Roosevelt in this normally Republican state. An extremely well-informed editorial writer told me that "People here regard the CWA and even the PWA as mere temporary relief—a form of dole which is definitely unsound on anything approaching a permanent basis.

"But they seem necessary this winter, and though people hereabouts distrust the president's experiments with money, they feel that, with his background and qualities, he cannot lead us very far astray. I feel sure he would carry Massachusetts tomorrow."

HERE'S BOSTON'S BLUE EAGLE PARADE

Staid Boston, where busy crowds again throng downtown streets, was jarred to its foundation when the New Deal upset its cherished traditions . . .but it's beginning to enjoy it now. And nowhere in the New England section is there greater approval of NIRA than in the textile mills, where machinery hums again.

GROWING DEAF WITH HEAD NOISES? TRY THIS

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness or if you have roaring, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears go to Walgreen's, McCoy Drug or your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who is threatened with Catarrhal Deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial. (Adv.

GROWING DEAF WITH HEAD NOISES? TRY THIS

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness or if you have roaring, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears go to Walgreen's, McCoy Drug or your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who is threatened with Catarrhal Deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial. (Adv.)

JAPAN'S ADVANCE into CHINA MENACED by A BIG BAD RAT

Snow and cold have so far been the chief winter enemies of the Japanese soldier in Manchuria. . . . Will the dreaded Black Death now become his enemy-in-chief?

By Jane Stafford

WILL plague stop the Japanese from further encroachment into China? Will the Black Death force them to give up all or part of their holdings in their neighbors' northern territory?

The Chinese themselves could not stop Japan's invasion of their country, but the Black Death may prove a more implacable, devastating foe than regiments of Chinese soldiers.

Epidemics of both bubonic and the even more dreaded pneumonic forms of plague have already attacked districts in the north and west of Manchuria, China's Lost Province. Winter is the season for plague outbreaks in China, and health officials expect the Black Death to be rampant there this winter, since it has got away to such an early start.

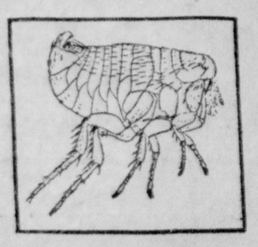

If plague should succeed in thwarting the Japanese, there will be a sort of poetic justice in the situation, for the disease has re-entered China from its haunts in Transbaikalia, a province of Japan's old enemy, the Russians. Furthermore, the Japanese will have themselves to thank if the Black Death puts a disastrous end to their plans for extension of the empire into China.

Epidemics of the rodent-borne Black Death have broken out in Manchuria, and this may force a Jap retreat where the Chinese troops failed

The present outbreaks of plague in Manchuria are seen by quarantine officers in China and elsewhere as the direct result of the Japanese military occupation. This disrupted the highly important work of the Manchurian Plague Prevention Service, practically strangling its activities at Harbin.

The Plague Prevention Hospital at that city had been the main line of defense against plague for both China and the rest of the world. But when the Japanese entered the country, its experienced and eminent director, Dr. Wu Lien-Teh, was obliged to leave. His name was stricken from the list of officers of the hospital, and the institution was put in the charge of a junior officer only.

THE hospital and the Plague Prevention Service had been established after the disastrous epidemic of pneumonic plague in Manchuria and Northern China in 1910 and 1911. At that time 60,000 lives were taken and the monetary loss resulting from the epidemic was estimated at one hundred million dollars.

This creature, the rat flea—magnified about 25 times actual size—carries the disease from rats to men.

Harbin played an ominous role in the epidemic of that winter, but when plague struck Manchuria again ten years later, it was the Plague Prevention Hospital and Service that played the leading role in stopping the epidemic and preventing it from spreading beyond that point.

The devastation of an invading army pales beside the havoc that follows an extensive outbreak of plague. In England during the Middle Ages the Black Death took from half to two-thirds of the population. In other words, 600 out of every 1000 persons fell a victim to plague.

It is estimated that 20,000 of London's entire population of 40,000 died of plague during the years of the Black Death. Business was dislocated; cattle and sheep were left to wander, for there was no one to care for them, and disease broke out among the beasts also. As half the labor in the country was dead, wages rose to an unprecedented height.

"The distribution of the mortality was various," one historian wrote of the plague in England in the fourteenth century. "Those of high rank were not greatly affected, but of the common people an incalculable number died, and very many of the clergy, nuns and friars.

"THE religious houses seem especially to have been severely visited by the Black Death, and many of them were closed and left deserted. The records of mortality in those days were indifferently kept and it is most difficult to arrive at an estimate of the number who died of the plague.

"Contemporary writers vary in their estimates from one-fifth to nine-tenths of the total population as the extent of the mortality, but it is probable that between one-half and two-thirds would be a more accurate estimation."

Another authority relates that in India the appalling number of 10,000,000 persons died of plague between the years of 1896 and 1917.

If you recall the disastrous influenza epidemic during the World War and the terror that outbreak aroused, you will have a faint picture of what a plague epidemic can mean to a country and its people.

The plague that swept the world in the middle of the fourteenth century, described as the worst disaster ever experienced by man, is said to have been three times as severe in actual number of people killed as that frightful influenza epidemic.

Plague is caused by a microbe called Pasteurella pestis, seen under the microscope to be a short, thick, rod-shaped bacillus. Here again the international situation injects itself interestingly; the germ that causes the disease now raging around Manchuria, apparently as a result of the Japanese occupation, was discovered by the Japanese scientist, Kitasato, during an outbreak in Hongkong in 1893.

Kitasato shares honors as discoverer of the plague bacillus with the French scientist, Yersin. While Kitasato was working in Hongkong, Dr. Yersin, sent from Pasteur's laboratory to investigate a simultaneous outbreak in Cochin-China, also succeeded in finding the causative organism of the disease.

BUT the real villain of plague epidemics is the Big Bad Rat. This animal and his smaller cousins, mice, squirrels, marmots and other rodents, keep the disease alive in between epidemics and help to spread it from one place to another. Fleas living on plague-infected rats give the disease to man, when they get a chance to bite him.

A connection between rodents and the Black Death was suspected even in very early times, centuries before man had learned that animals might be reservoirs of human disease or that minute living organisms were the causative agents of the various plagues that scourged the world.

According to the Bible, the Philistines made offerings of golden images of mice to stay the pestilence that marred the land—a pestilence that was very probably the plague. If they had only known it, burnt offerings of real mice and rats would have been much more effective in ridding the country of plague. The coincidental burning of all rodents in London during the great fire of 1666 was what finally rid England of the plague that had harassed it for over three centuries.

Dr. Wu Lien-Teh, a director and founder of the Manchurian Plague Prevention Service, who was forced to leave his post at Harbin by the Japanese occupation, and who foresaw that strangling of the service's activities would lead to new outbreaks of the plague.

In the great epidemics of the Middle Ages, various observers noted that rats came from their holes, lost all their fear of man, became uncertain in their movements and died in great numbers. This was a portent too obvious to miss.

Even the most ignorant people came to regard deaths among rats as foretelling the coming of the plague. When they found dead rats in their homes or about the premises they fled, abandoning their homes and seeking refuge in the country, which was generally considered to be more healthful.

Poverty, hunger and filth were long known to favor the spread of the dreaded disease. Naturally the better constructed and better kept homes of the well-to-do were more apt to be free from rodents and vermin even in early times, although the rich and powerful did not escape the disease during the epidemics of the Middle Ages and earlier periods.

IGNORANCE and poverty are factors in keeping the disease alive in China. During hard times and famines the people are obliged to rely for part of their food supply on hunted wild rodents, particularly the tarabagan or Siberian marmot, which is a kind of woodchuck.

These animals are apt to be infected with plague. When the famine-stricken population of Manchuria and neighboring Transbaikalia turn to the tarabagan for food, they get the disease.

These animals are valued for their fur as well as for food during hard times. It has been known that men became infected with a highly fatal disease in skinning the animals. The risk is increased by the fact that the ones that are ill with plague are of course easily captured.

In this region the people live crowded together in small huts during the winter, which favors the spread of the infection. Whole communities are wiped out. Fear drives some of the population to adjacent territory, but unfortunately they carry the disease with them.

The disease once established in man may be transferred directly from one person to another. This is particularly the case with pneumonic plague, which is the most deadly variety.

PLAGUE occurs in several forms. Bubonic plague is the common variety. Swollen glands or buboes are a characteristic feature which gave this variety its name. Another characteristic is the development of spots on the skin known as "plague spots" or "tokens of the disease."

From these spots the disease got its name of Black Death during the Middle Ages. Headache and backache, stiffness of arms and legs, restlessness, great anxiety and depression of the spirits mark the beginning stages of bubonic plague.

This form may also attack the lungs, but true pneumonic plague has a much more sudden onset and the lungs are first involved. Patients rarely recover from this form, generally dying from two to four days after being stricken.

Fighting the plague means fighting rats or whatever rodent is responsible for the disease in the locality where it appears. During an epidemic the campaign is carried on by trapping and poisoning all the rats. All patients, of course, must be isolated. Between epidemics, buildings are made rat-proof, if possible.

Plague was formerly carried from one country to another by swarms of rats that lived in the holds of ships and came ashore at every port. When the rat's villainous role was learned, wharves were rat-proofed and smooth metal rings, too slippery for a rat to crawl over, were fitted onto ships' hawsers. Ships known to have come from plague-infested ports are fumigated by quarantine officers.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

-- News Behind The News --

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

DEXTERITY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—When Mr. Roosevelt started out last March to endure free-for-all questioning at his press conferences, the newsmen snickered. They thought that would last about a month, or at the most two.

They had experience with such things and Mr. Roosevelt had not. They recalled Mr. Harding once tried it and got involved in complications with the Japanese about interpretation of a treaty.

All other presidents have required the Washington correspondents to submit questions in writing in advance. The presidents shrewdly selected the ones they cared to answer, and dismissed the rest.

The newsmen are about ready now to confess they were wrong. Perhaps no one else could get away with it, but Mr. Roosevelt has.

RESULTS

For nearly eleven months now the system has proceeded without interruption, and the president has kept out of trouble.

The last conference was typical. He was questioned first by a group of newsmen, who are specialists on railroad financing. Only an expert on that subject could know what it was all about. He answered all questions except one, and on that he pleaded that it was a technical issue beyond his knowledge.

Then came a more technical argument about the intricacies of water diversion under the St. Lowrence treaty. He knew things about that also, which only the experts could understand.

At other times he has shown just as intimate an acquaintance with corporation financing systems and other subjects.

The conclusion is inescapable that he either knows his business extraordinary well, or he knows how to create the impression that he does.

FENCING

This does not mean he answers all questions frankly and completely. He ducks and parries possibly half of them and this is rather to be expected, because no one expects him to confess all.

The remarkable thing is that he makes up his mind on the spur of the moment as to whether he will answer or how he will evade them. He seems to sense trick questions very quickly and fends them off without embarrassing results.

PROFESSORS

A brain truster sat up most of the night recently dictating an important memo to Mr. Roosevelt. It had to be at the White House next day.

For the sake of speed he used a dictaphone and it required seven records to absorb his voluminous dissertation.

When he took the records to his stenographer next morning, he found there was nothing on them. He had failed to connect the apparatus properly. The net result was: seven spoiled records, an irate disposition and a day of delay.

That ought to prove something or other about college professors.

LIQUOR

The dickering with foreign nations over liquor imports is being so carefully covered up that only a few of our officials know we have concluded a deal with one certain nation.

Not a word about that deal has been reduced to writing. It exists simply as a gentlemen's understanding between a few of our officials and a representative of that country. It provides that the foreign nation will consume a certain amount of our goods in exchange for a liberal allowance for a liquor market in the United States.

The federal alcohol control board has granted every request to import liquor from that country, without question.

PORK

The British have been slow to catch on to this system. That is one of the reasons why the permits for importation of Scotch have been so long delayed.

What we want is for them to eat more American pork, but they cannot work up an appetite for it. They have an agreement to get about 62 per cent of their pork from Denmark. Also their nationalist government is campaigning to make the British Isles more self-sustaining.

Our officials have been adament. They say Britain must figure out a way to eat more of our pork or we cannot figure out a way to drink their whiskey.

Another inner difficulty has arisen through Britain's trade tussle with Ireland. It started when De Valera refused to pay land annuities to the British crown. Britain retaliated by putting a tariff on Irish bacon and meat products.

Up to then the Irish sent their bacon to Britain and bought from us bacon for home consumption, making money on the deal. Now they must eat their own bacon and our big meat men are groaning to the state department about it.

They were told that if we induced Britain to eat pork we would be doing well, without getting mixed up in the British bacon fight.

Such is the existing condition of international diplomacy.

NOTES

The army crowd considers that the purchase of 100 fighting planes (including 46 bombers) is this country's answer to the French offer to scrap half its bombing planes.

Our officials have been tipped privately through diplomatic channels that the Soviets are about to take a slap at Hitler. Russia is supposed to have concluded a new trade treaty with France, involving the purchase of ten million dollars worth of steel from the French. The Russian steel market was formerly hogged by Germany.

You can take it from one whose word cannot be disputed that Stalin "hopes war with the Japanese will not come but is preparing for it."

Two officials of the new aluminum workers' union are howling that they have spent $1500 in Washington trying to have higher wages written into the aluminum code without success. They also say they have signed up 3300 of Andrew Mellon's 4000 employes in the New Castle, Delaware, aluminum plant.

HOPE

The utilities finally see a silver lining to their new deal cloud. The recent agreement between the TVA and Commonwealth and Southern gives them the first break they have had since March.

Similar arrangements elsewhere are expected to force a general reduction in rates which will be painful but not fatal. The main thing is that the TVA will abstain from ruinous duplication of facilities. That's a reprieve they hadn't expected yet and is it welcome!

At the same time the government is cooperating with private companies to speed up the purchase and use of electrical equipment in the Tennessee valley. RFC money will be used to arrange easy credit terms. The added volume of business may in time make up for the cheaper rates on a more legitimate basis.

Governor Lehman's advocacy of stricter utility regulation and construction of municipal plants in New York is rated a nice piece of cooperation with Washington. But it doesn't bother the boys quite so much since the TVA pointed the way to avoidance of slow death.

ELECTRIFICATION

Local experts believe the government underrates the cost of electrification in the Tennessee valley. The nominal capital of $100,000 authorized for the purpose would amount to one slice of bread for a starving family. They estimate that the total investment required for a complete electrification job would not be less than $200,000,000.

It seems that the New Deal is always stepping on someone's toes. Now it's the finance companies having nightmares for fear the government is going to horn into their retail credit business in a big way.

EARNINGS

Utility business in terms of kilowatt hours is running about six per cent ahead of a year ago but there's no real improvement in earnings to show for it yet. A good deal of the gain is accounted for by taking up the slack in minimum contracts where service has been paid for but not used. Utility labor costs under NRA have risen about one and a half per cent of gross income and an additional one and a half per cent is expected because of the higher cost of materials.

TRANSIT

Mayor LaGuardia shows signs of getting rough with holders of transit securities if they try to block unification by valuing their stock at fantastic prices. Preliminary conferences have shown him what he is up against. He is understood to have privately threatened condemnation proceedings if the boys decline to be reasonable.

SEABURY

Samuel Seabury may be right down stage in New York's political drama this fall. Technically a Democrat he is friendly with Kingsland Macy and there are whispers that Macy would like to run him as Republican candidate for Governor in November.

Macy isn't likely to get away with it. It wouldn't sit so well with those who are backing him in his fight on the power trust. But Seabury as a well-placed threat might checkmate the reactionaries.

The rift in the party caused by Macy's tactics is said to have gone farther than his sponsors wished. They are thinking of leaving him to fly his own kite.

BIMETALLISM

New York bimetallists who are backing the various silver bills now being introduced in congress don't really expect to get anywhere with them. Their chief aim is to keep the subject active in the public mind. It's all part of an educational program. Local silverites privately agree that domestic bimetallism would accomplish nothing without a uniform international agreement among leading natons.

Any such agreement with England is impossible—just as dollar stabilization on terms satisfactory to us is impossible—as long as Montagu Norman and his cronies hold the reins. But the transatlantic grapevine indicates that Norman's invisible throne is closer to toppling than most people suspect. If and when it does you will find us chatting more sociably with Britain on monetary topics.

Technically the government is paying $1.29 an ounce for newly mined silver with half the price charged off for seigniorage. Few people realize that $1.29 means the good old 16 to 1 ratio with gold at its theoretical normal of $20.67.

IGNORANCE

Representatives of New York dairy cooperatives who recently visited Washington agricultural authorities were astonished at the latter's ignorance of New York milk marketing conditions. For instance Washington didn't seem to know that the New York milkshed has no butter surplus to dump on other markets.

One of the delegation remarked on his return that Washington seemed to think there was no farm problem except in Iowa and Kansas.

JOHNSON

Local industrialists who were handled without gloves by General Johnson in the days of NRA have been priming congressmen with embarrassing questions to ask the general. Some of them wouldn't for worlds miss being on hand when Johnson is taken over the hurdles

SIDELIGHTS

Important European interests have been quietly picking up American utility stocks lately.... Wall Street wonders whether they are gifted with second sight or are just plain dumb....French officers are wearing red uniform trousers again....Evidently they don't expect a war very soon.

EXPANSION OF OFFICES MADE BY GAS FIRM

Marking an important step forward in the progress of Motor Fuels, Ltd., the general offices of the organization have recently been expanded, it was announced by H. R. McVay, general manager.

The organization now has three complete plants, one on the 101 highway at the Orange County hospital, one at Covina and another at Colton. The combined storage facilities accommodate approximately 120,000 gallons of gasoline for distribution throughout the citrus belt.

Motor Fuels, Inc., was recently appointed distributor for Rocket gasoline in this territory and also handles Goodyear products and Northwestern batteries. McVay, commenting on the growth of the company, stated today: "Motor Fuels Inc., was the first among the independent distributors of the Pacific coast to realize the necessity and advantages of backing the independent merchant in our line of business."

Officers of the company are R. B. Bird, president, S. N. Wimbush and R. G. Reynolds, vice presidents, George Crocker, secretary and credit manager and William Iverson. G. M. Hauck heads the transportation division.

FLYING AROUND With Dale Deckert

In a recent survey, by the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce, over 5,500 pilots have informed the department they would purchase airplanes if the price were approximately $700, and a late dispatch states the government is going ahead with the plan to back the manufacturers of the planes. Local pilots are enthused over the idea and doubtlessly, before another six months roll around, many of these small planes will be flying daily over Santa Ana.

Plans for the new county airport have been submitted for approval by Nat Neff, county superintendent of highways, and the board of supervisors, to CWA officials in San Francisco. It is planned that $19,622.00 will be spent. George Raymer, secretary of the chamber of commerce, and Virgil Westbrook, of the county engineer's office have devoted much time and effort in getting the plan within the government's specifications.

Plans for a Santa Ana Airplane Model Building club will be announced within the next week. It is planned to let all boys 10 years old or over who are interested in building model planes that really fly enter this Club. It will be free of charge to all members.

For the benefit of those who are inclined to be a bit shy about riding in an airplane, it is well to disclose the fact that, in the last year, more people were kicked to death by mules in the state of Missouri than were killed in airplanes. At the time of this writing, we are gathering statistics from the Department of Commerce in Washington, D. C. that we think will change many ideas people have regarding the safety of travel by airplane.

During our recent deluge the Eddie Martin Airport was covered entirely by water. It drained off nicely, however, due to the drainage system installed last summer, and pilots were flying off the field a fe wdays after the rain—quite a contrast to a few years ago when, after such a hard rain, it would have required three weeks time to get the field in shape for flying.

Ground School at the Martin Airport in still being continued under the direction of Professor Drake every Friday night. Prospective students may register at any time.

Within the next few weeks the American Airways will put into operation the new twin-motored Curtis Condor transport ships between Los Angeles and El Paso. These ships will leave in the early evening from Los Angeles and will accommodate 12 passengers with full sized sleeping berths. Dame Rumor has it that either Johnnie or Eddie Martin, local pilots, will be honored by making the first run with one of these new ships.

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

DEXTERITY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—When Mr. Roosevelt started out last March to endure free-for-all questioning at his press conferences, the newsmen snickered. They thought that would last about a month, or at the most two.

They had experience with such things and Mr. Roosevelt had not. They recalled Mr. Harding once tried it and got involved in complications with the Japanese about interpretation of a treaty.

All other presidents have required the Washington correspondents to submit questions in writing in advance. The presidents shrewdly selected the ones they cared to answer, and dismissed the rest.

The newsmen are about ready now to confess they were wrong. Perhaps no one else could get away with it, but Mr. Roosevelt has.

RESULTS

For nearly eleven months now the system has proceeded without interruption, and the president has kept out of trouble.

The last conference was typical. He was questioned first by a group of newsmen, who are specialists on railroad financing. Only an expert on that subject could know what it was all about. He answered all questions except one, and on that he pleaded that it was a technical issue beyond his knowledge.

Then came a more technical argument about the intricacies of water diversion under the St. Lowrence treaty. He knew things about that also, which only the experts could understand.

At other times he has shown just as intimate an acquaintance with corporation financing systems and other subjects.

The conclusion is inescapable that he either knows his business extraordinary well, or he knows how to create the impression that he does.

FENCING

This does not mean he answers all questions frankly and completely. He ducks and parries possibly half of them and this is rather to be expected, because no one expects him to confess all.

The remarkable thing is that he makes up his mind on the spur of the moment as to whether he will answer or how he will evade them. He seems to sense trick questions very quickly and fends them off without embarrassing results.

PROFESSORS

A brain truster sat up most of the night recently dictating an important memo to Mr. Roosevelt. It had to be at the White House next day.

For the sake of speed he used a dictaphone and it required seven records to absorb his voluminous dissertation.

When he took the records to his stenographer next morning, he found there was nothing on them. He had failed to connect the apparatus properly. The net result was: seven spoiled records, an irate disposition and a day of delay.

That ought to prove something or other about college professors.

LIQUOR

The dickering with foreign nations over liquor imports is being so carefully covered up that only a few of our officials know we have concluded a deal with one certain nation.

Not a word about that deal has been reduced to writing. It exists simply as a gentlemen's understanding between a few of our officials and a representative of that country. It provides that the foreign nation will consume a certain amount of our goods in exchange for a liberal allowance for a liquor market in the United States.

The federal alcohol control board has granted every request to import liquor from that country, without question.

PORK

The British have been slow to catch on to this system. That is one of the reasons why the permits for importation of Scotch have been so long delayed.

What we want is for them to eat more American pork, but they cannot work up an appetite for it. They have an agreement to get about 62 per cent of their pork from Denmark. Also their nationalist government is campaigning to make the British Isles more self-sustaining.

Our officials have been adament. They say Britain must figure out a way to eat more of our pork or we cannot figure out a way to drink their whiskey.

Another inner difficulty has arisen through Britain's trade tussle with Ireland. It started when De Valera refused to pay land annuities to the British crown. Britain retaliated by putting a tariff on Irish bacon and meat products.

Up to then the Irish sent their bacon to Britain and bought from us bacon for home consumption, making money on the deal. Now they must eat their own bacon and our big meat men are groaning to the state department about it.

They were told that if we induced Britain to eat pork we would be doing well, without getting mixed up in the British bacon fight.

Such is the existing condition of international diplomacy.

NOTES

The army crowd considers that the purchase of 100 fighting planes (including 46 bombers) is this country's answer to the French offer to scrap half its bombing planes.

Our officials have been tipped privately through diplomatic channels that the Soviets are about to take a slap at Hitler. Russia is supposed to have concluded a new trade treaty with France, involving the purchase of ten million dollars worth of steel from the French. The Russian steel market was formerly hogged by Germany.

You can take it from one whose word cannot be disputed that Stalin "hopes war with the Japanese will not come but is preparing for it."

Two officials of the new aluminum workers' union are howling that they have spent $1500 in Washington trying to have higher wages written into the aluminum code without success. They also say they have signed up 3300 of Andrew Mellon's 4000 employes in the New Castle, Delaware, aluminum plant.

HOPE

The utilities finally see a silver lining to their new deal cloud. The recent agreement between the TVA and Commonwealth and Southern gives them the first break they have had since March.

Similar arrangements elsewhere are expected to force a general reduction in rates which will be painful but not fatal. The main thing is that the TVA will abstain from ruinous duplication of facilities. That's a reprieve they hadn't expected yet and is it welcome!

At the same time the government is cooperating with private companies to speed up the purchase and use of electrical equipment in the Tennessee valley. RFC money will be used to arrange easy credit terms. The added volume of business may in time make up for the cheaper rates on a more legitimate basis.

Governor Lehman's advocacy of stricter utility regulation and construction of municipal plants in New York is rated a nice piece of cooperation with Washington. But it doesn't bother the boys quite so much since the TVA pointed the way to avoidance of slow death.

ELECTRIFICATION

Local experts believe the government underrates the cost of electrification in the Tennessee valley. The nominal capital of $100,000 authorized for the purpose would amount to one slice of bread for a starving family. They estimate that the total investment required for a complete electrification job would not be less than $200,000,000.

It seems that the New Deal is always stepping on someone's toes. Now it's the finance companies having nightmares for fear the government is going to horn into their retail credit business in a big way.

EARNINGS

Utility business in terms of kilowatt hours is running about six per cent ahead of a year ago but there's no real improvement in earnings to show for it yet. A good deal of the gain is accounted for by taking up the slack in minimum contracts where service has been paid for but not used. Utility labor costs under NRA have risen about one and a half per cent of gross income and an additional one and a half per cent is expected because of the higher cost of materials.

TRANSIT

Mayor LaGuardia shows signs of getting rough with holders of transit securities if they try to block unification by valuing their stock at fantastic prices. Preliminary conferences have shown him what he is up against. He is understood to have privately threatened condemnation proceedings if the boys decline to be reasonable.

SEABURY

Samuel Seabury may be right down stage in New York's political drama this fall. Technically a Democrat he is friendly with Kingsland Macy and there are whispers that Macy would like to run him as Republican candidate for Governor in November.

Macy isn't likely to get away with it. It wouldn't sit so well with those who are backing him in his fight on the power trust. But Seabury as a well-placed threat might checkmate the reactionaries.

The rift in the party caused by Macy's tactics is said to have gone farther than his sponsors wished. They are thinking of leaving him to fly his own kite.

BIMETALLISM

New York bimetallists who are backing the various silver bills now being introduced in congress don't really expect to get anywhere with them. Their chief aim is to keep the subject active in the public mind. It's all part of an educational program. Local silverites privately agree that domestic bimetallism would accomplish nothing without a uniform international agreement among leading natons.

Any such agreement with England is impossible—just as dollar stabilization on terms satisfactory to us is impossible—as long as Montagu Norman and his cronies hold the reins. But the transatlantic grapevine indicates that Norman's invisible throne is closer to toppling than most people suspect. If and when it does you will find us chatting more sociably with Britain on monetary topics.

Technically the government is paying $1.29 an ounce for newly mined silver with half the price charged off for seigniorage. Few people realize that $1.29 means the good old 16 to 1 ratio with gold at its theoretical normal of $20.67.

IGNORANCE

Representatives of New York dairy cooperatives who recently visited Washington agricultural authorities were astonished at the latter's ignorance of New York milk marketing conditions. For instance Washington didn't seem to know that the New York milkshed has no butter surplus to dump on other markets.

One of the delegation remarked on his return that Washington seemed to think there was no farm problem except in Iowa and Kansas.

JOHNSON

Local industrialists who were handled without gloves by General Johnson in the days of NRA have been priming congresmen with embarrassing questions to ask the general. Some of them wouldn't for worlds miss being on hand when Johnson is taken over the hurdles.

SIDELIGHTS

Important European interests have been quietly picking up American utility stocks lately.... Wall Street wonders whether they are gifted with second sight or are just plain dumb....French officers are wearing red uniform trousers again....Evidently they don't expect a war very soon.

EXPANSION OF OFFICES MADE BY GAS FIRM

Marking an important step forward in the progress of Motor Fuels, Ltd., the general offices of the organization have recently been expanded, it was announced by H. R. McVay, general manager.

The organization now has three complete plants, one on the 101 highway at the Orange County hospital, one at Covina and another at Colton. The combined storage facilities accommodate approximately 120,000 gallons of gasoline for distribution throughout the citrus belt.

Motor Fuels, Inc., was recently appointed distributor for Rocket gasoline in this territory and also handles Goodyear products and Northwestern batteries. McVay, commenting on the growth of the company, stated today: "Motor Fuels Inc., was the first among the independent distributors of the Pacific coast to realize the necessity and advantages of backing the independent merchant in our line of business."

Officers of the company are R. B. Bird, president, S. N. Wimbush and R. G. Reynolds, vice presidents, George Crocker, secretary and credit manager and William Iverson. G. M. Hauck heads the transportation division.

FLYING AROUND With Dale Deckert

In a recent survey, by the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce, over 5,500 pilots have informed the department they would purchase airplanes if the price were approximately $700, and a late dispatch states the government is going ahead with the plan to back the manufacturers of the planes. Local pilots are enthused over the idea and doubtlessly, before another six months roll around, many of these small planes will be flying daily over Santa Ana.

Plans for the new county airport have been submitted for approval by Nat Neff, county superintendent of highways, and the board of supervisors, to CWA officials in San Francisco. It is planned that $19,622.00 will be spent. George Raymer, secretary of the chamber of commerce, and Virgil Westbrook, of the county engineer's office have devoted much time and effort in getting the plan within the government's specifications.

Plans for a Santa Ana Airplane Model Building club will be announced within the next week. It is planned to let all boys 19 years old or over who are interested in building model planes that really fly enter this Club. It will be free of charge to all members.

For the benefit of those who are inclined to be a bit shy about riding in an airplane, it is well to disclose the fact that, in the last year, more people were kicked to death by mules in the state of Missouri than were killed in airplanes. At the time of this writing, we are gathering statistics from the Department of Commerce in Washington, D. C. that we think will change many ideas people have regarding the safety of travel by airplane.

During our recent deluge the Eddie Martin Airport was covered entirely by water. It drained off nicely, however, due to the drainage system installed last summer, and pilots were flying off the field a fe wdays after the rain—quite a contrast to a few years ago when, after such a hard rain, it would have required three weeks time to get the field in shape for flying.

Ground School at the Martin Airport in still being continued under the direction of Professor Drake every Friday night. Prospective students may register at any time.

Within the next few weeks the American Airways will put into operation the new twin-motored Curtis Condor transport ships between Los Angeles and El Paso. These ships will leave in the early evening from Los Angeles and will accommodate 12 passengers with full sized sleeping berths. Dame Rumor has it that either Johnnie or Eddie Martin, local pilots, will be honored by making the first run with one of these new ships.

ABBREVIATED:

Isn't there something fatherly in Jack Dempsey's solicitiousness for Max Baer, as expressed in an article in the January "Esquire": "I only hope this Hollywood business doesn't ruin him entirely. That's the same Dempsey who is expecting a son of his own some time in summer.

GOING TO WORK

Wonder what the livelier ball will do to those National league fielding averages? . . . Infielders who went from the American to the National league in other years said handling the National league ball was like being on the voluntarily retired list . . . Today's prize for being on the job goes to Joe Jacobs, whose twice-beaten boxer, Max Schmeling, has been maneuvered into what appears to be an $80,000 gate with King Levinsky in Chicago.

"Pop" Foster decided to take Jimmy McLarnin to Europe upon being offered Vince Dundee as an opponent . . . Dundee would come in only about 12 pounds over McLarnin . . . and Pop never was one to give away tuppence, let alone pounds . . . The ballyhoo that Chicago Stadium put out to the effect that Herr Hitler was dead set against Schmeling's fighting the Jewish Levinsky must be reckoned among the season's masterpieces. . . . It sounds like Stadium Press Agent Joe Poley on the wire.

SAN FRANCISCO MAY GET MAX-MAX BOUT

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Jack Dempsey and Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, conferred today as to the possibility of holding a March 17 (St. Patrick's day) bout with Max Baer in San Francisco.

Ancil Hoffman, manager of Baer, telegraphed Dempsey that he would come to New York from Washington tomorrow when Dempsey will attempt to close the match.

Schmeling is due here from Germany aboard the Bremen next Wednesday.

Godwin's Decision Unmerited, Claim

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 12.—(UP)—In a fight devoid of the jarring slugs so characteristic of Maxie Rosenbloom-Bob Godwin clashes, Godwin, the Adel, Ga., challenger, won a 12-round decision in a non-title bout with the champion here last night.

A crowd of only 1200, partisan to Godwin, met the decision with laughter. Godwin had failed to land a single solid punch. Maxie's slaps made a lot of noise but, like Godwin's, failed to annoy the opposition.

The two fought to a draw decision here about three weeks ago, and twice before that the two light-heavies had clashed. The draw decision last month was the second between the two fighters. In the other encounter, Rosenbloom won by a tchnical knockout. The only time Maxie's title was at stake was when he got the technical kayo.

197 ROOKIES GO TO BIG LEAGUE CAMPS

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Four hundred and ninety-nine ball players will begin the annual trek to the South and Far West next month for the major league spring training season, a survey of the rosters of the 16 clubs showed today.

Of this group, 197 will be rookies, recalled players or former major leaguers coming back to the "big time" for another trial.

When midsummer rolls around and the clubs have to trim their squads down to the player limit of twenty-three, 171 players who go to the training camps will be back in the minors. The statistics show that there'll be room for just 26 newcomers in the two major leagues, unless some of the veterans slip and are sent back to the bush leagues to make room for new blood.

The American league clubs have 120 new men on their rosters, against the National league's 77, a difference of 43 players.

The St. Louis Cardinals with 38, and the Chicago White Sox with 37, will take the largest squads to their training camps. The Boston Braves, with 22 players, one less than the major league limit, will have the smallest.

The world champion New York Giants, with 32 players, have the third largest National league squad. The Washington Senators, American league champions, with 27 players, and the Philadelphia Athletics, with the same number, have the smallest squads in their leagues.

The White Sox will have the biggest group of rookies, 19, followed by the Red Sox, Tigers and Yankees with 17 each. The largest rookie squad in the National league is 13, gathered by the Cardinals from their many farms. The Braves, with three newcomers have the smallest group of new talent in either league.

Brea-Olinda	0	1	.000
Tustin	0	1	.000
Garden Grove	0	1	.000
Huntington Beach	0	1	.000

Tonight's Games

Orange at Tustin; San Juan Capistrano at Newport Harbor; Brea-Olinda at Anaheim; Huntington Beach at Garden Grove.

San Juan Capistrano's principal competitor for Orange league basketball laurels is xpected to develop from tonight's game at Anaheim between Dick Glover's Anaheim Colonists and Otis Hornaday's Brea-Olinda Wildcats.

Anaheim showed unmistakable class last week in its conference opener, swarming all over an anything but weak Tustin team, 41-17. The Tillers undoubtedly were handicapped on the small Anaheim floor, where a visiting team traditionally has trouble, but Anaheim's decisive victory indicated it probably could have repeated anywhere.

Brea-Olinda will experience the same difficulty, and therefore Anaheim has been installed a slight favorite. Glover's club won as it pleased from Corona in a tuneup tussle Tuesday, the dry Brea was dropping a stubbornly contested affair to Fullerton, 28-21.

Champs Invade Harbor

Capistrano's Cougars, defending champions and strictly the one to beat for the gonfalon, travels to Newport Heights for their second league start. The titlists are heavily favored over Lee Trine's Tars despite Harbor's creditable showing against Huntington Beach a week ago. The Sailors frankly hope to catch Capistrano overconfident because they are good enough to win unless the Cougars put out plenty of effort. Coach Stan Gould probably will depend on his regulars, George and "Ace" Avila, Bill Magee, Bob Errecarte and Fred Stoffel.

The San Juan Capistrano-Anaheim conflict, which many believe will decide the race, will be played Feb. 2 on Capistrano's spacious floor, a fact which will not hurt the home five's chances.

Continuing an eight-year rivalry on the basketball floor, Coach "Hod" Chambers Orange Panthers engage Tustin in the Tustin gymnasium at 8 o'clock.

Cole Changes Lineup

Dissatisfied with the combination of players that was routed by Anaheim, Coach Bill Cole will send a revamped team on the floor. Jack Runnels, a reserve wh. did not see action at Anaheim, will hold down the right forward position in place of Dean Francis, who has been shifted to guard. Wilson Seacord, forward; Howard Spangler, center, and Ellsworth Teter, guard, will occupy the remaining positions. The Farmers have been drilling all week on offensive formations.

The big gun of the Orange attack is Walt Leichtfuss, who, should make plenty of trouble for the Colemen. Flanking Leichtfuss at the other forward position for the Panthers will be Oliver McCarter, the other regulars being Charles Robinson, Carey Watson and Bob Faul.

Class B preliminary contests will be played all over the wheel. Tustin Brea-Olinda, Orange and Huntington Beach started with victories last Friday.

O'FARRELL TO LEAD CINCINNATI OUTFIT

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 12.—(UP)—The task of lifting the Cincinnati Reds to bigger and better things in the National league today belonged to Bob O'Farrell.

The signing of O'Farrell as a player-manager for two years was announced by Larry MacPhail, Reds' general manager. O'Farrell was obtained from the St. Louis Cards, along with Pitcher Sylvester Johnson, in exchange for Pitcher Glenn Spencer and an unannounced cash sum.

Terms of O'Farrell's contract were not announced but it is generally believed he will receive in the neighborhood of $12,000 a year. Managing a ball club will not be a new experience to th eveteran. He took charge of the Cards after Hornsby's departure and in 1927 was beaten out for the pennant by the Pittsburgh Pirates by only a game-and-a-half.

The new Red pilot, a native of Waukegan, Ill., has been in baseball since 1915, and has spent most of his time with the Cubs, Giants and Cardinals.

KIPKE PROTEGE TO COACH YALE FROSH

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 12.—(UP)—Official confirmation of Ivan Williamson, 1932 All-American Michigan end, as Yale freshman football and basketball coach, was taken today as indicating that Athletic Director Malcom Farmer was wavering in his stand that only Yale men should head Eli coaching staffs.

Williamson, protege of Harry Kipke, will assume his new duties July 1, Farmer announced.

Uniform Ball Settles Lively Dispute

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Helen Jacobs, women's tennis champion, sketched her plans for the 1934 season today, disclosing that she will not compete in the Women's National indoor championships at New York in February.

Helen Jacobs

The successor to Mrs. Helen Wills Moody as queen of America's courts, Miss Jacobs revealed that she will compete in tournament play for the first time this year in the French championships to be held in Paris in May.

With almost treasonable indifference to her native California, Miss Jacobs, who is wintering with friends in Melrose, said she thought New England's cold-hot-snowy-rainy-foggy-clear weather is "just fine." She made no mention of the recent record 17-below zero temperature.

Miss Jacobs is practicing four and sometimes five days a week on the linoleum surface of the Longwood indoor courts at Chestnut Hill. She plays against Ralph Chambers, Longwood's indoor professional and coach of West Point's tennis team. They have about broken even in their matches to date. They played for half-an-hour yesterday and Miss Jacobs was the winner.

The champion utilizes much of her time in writing. She said she was working on a novel.

Levinsky Signs But Schmeling Still Undecided

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—(UP)—King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, has signed a contract to meet Max Schmeling, former champion, in a 15-round bout at the Chicago stadium Feb. 16. Levinsky will receive 25 per cent of the net receipts.

The stadium is now attempting to get Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, to agree to the bout. When he was here earlier in the week Jacobs agreed to take 35 per cent, but since has opened negotiations for a bout between Schmeling and Steve Hamas at Philadelphia Feb. 14.

LOCATELLI FAVORED OVER JACKIE BERG

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(INS)—Cleto Locatelli, of Italy, European lightweight champion, was a 7 to 5 favorite today to win the decision over Jackie Kid Berg of England in their 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden tonight.

COLLEGE NETTERS TO CLASH

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Tennis teams of Stanford, California, U. C. L. A. and Southern California will inaugurate a series of home-and-home tournaments March 7, Trojan athletic officials announced today. Stanford and California will meet at Berkeley that day. California and U. S. C. engage here March 16. A dozen meetings in all will be held, ending May 12.

Cubs, Sox Ban Liquor At Baseball Parks

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—(INS)—Liquor will be sold neither in the Cubs park nor in Comiskey park, home of the White Sox, according to officials who expressed their views on the matter today.

"We didn't sell liquor at Wrigley field before prohibition and don't do it now," said William Walker, president of the Cubs. "Liquor is intoxicating and too many inebriates in any crowd is never a good thing."

Lou Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, commented: "We never did sell liquor at Comiskey park. We never shall. It wouldn't be for the best interest of baseball."

Sellout For Bear-Trojan Hoop Tussle

BERKELEY, Jan. 12.—(INS)—The Trojans are in town!

And the Coast conference basketball season starts off with a climax, which happens once every two years when the U. S. C. five invades the north to play the Bears of California.

They meet in California gymnasium tonight and tomorrow with every indication that the Bears' giant pavilion will be jammed to the steel rafters.

The games bring together at the outset of the Southern division conference race, the two leading aspirants for the conference crown.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—(UP)—The U. C. L. A. basketball squad will essay the role of "Jack and the Giant Killer" tonight when the Bruins attack a husky Stanford team in a Coast conference contest. The Bruins hoped to make up in speed what they lacked in stature. The game will be broadcast by KMTR.

ANGELS TO SPONSOR CLASS C BALL CLUB

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.(UP) The Los Angeles basebal club of the Pacific Coast league likely will become "guardian angel" of some Western association club, it was learned today.

Oscar Reichow, business manager of the Angels, said club officials probably would accept an invitation to sponsor one of the Class C entries as a farm for young players. The circuit, recently reorganized, includes Springfield, Mo., Joplin, Mo., Bartlesville, Okla., and three other cities to be named later.

SMITH TO REMAIN SANTA CLARA COACH

SANTA CLARA, Jan. 12.—(INS)—Coach "Clipper" Smith of the Santa Clara university football team is not going to accept an offer to coach Alabama Poly at Auburn.

"I am writing today that my set up with Santa Clara precludes discussion of other possibilities at this time," the Bronco coach said.

JAYSEE CAGERS IN TWIN BILL: PLAY MORMONS

Opposing the Mormons of the Community Church league and the Bellflower Merchants, Santa Ana junior college engages in two non-league basketball games at Andrews gymnasium beginning at 7 o'clock tonight.

It will be the first meeting between Coach Bill Cook's Dons and the powerful Mormons, but Bellflower defeated the college, 27-26, in a spirited match three weeks ago.

One of the Church league favorites, the Mormon squad contains two jaysee alumni, Ted Cook and Orv Schuchardt, as well as "Bus" Snow, a high-scoring forward, and two experienced guards, Camp and Enge.

The Mormons will be the third Church league opponent the Dons have faced this season. The college defeated the First Methodists, 47-34, but lost to the First Christians, 27-11, in early games before Cook had given the Dons their regular plays.

Vines Nets $7123 In Pro Bow; Sets $100,000 for Goal

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(INS)—Ellsworth Vines, the 22-year-old California tennis star, whose first professional match with Bill Tilden netted him $7123, said today he expected to clear at least $100,000 this year.

Part of this income, he says, will be derived from endorsement of various articles like racquets, balls and tennis clothes as well as from tennis matches.

Derby Purse Drops To $30,000 Added

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 12. —(UP)—The 60th running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs May 5, will be for a purse of $30,000 added money instead of the usual $50,000 added, Col. Matt Winn, executive director, has announced. The reduction in the purse was in accord with the policy in vogue at other major tracks, Winn said.

'Clipper' Silent On Auburn Report

SANTA CLARA, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Maurice ("Clipper") Smith, Santa Clara football coach, kept quiet today about the report that he would coach at Alabama Polytechni (Auburn) next season.

"I have not replied," Smith said, intimating that it would take a large increase in salary to lure him from the Pacific Coast.

Night League Managers To Meet Jan. 17

First signs of spring appeared today when President George Peterkin of Costa Mesa announced that National Night Ball league managers would go into executive session next Wednesday night at the Peacock club, formerly known as the Orange County Golf club, overlooking Newport bay.

This will be the association's annual banquet meeting, and the most important business subject will be the election of officers although reports on 1934 prospects also will be made. It is understood that President Peterkin and Secretary-Treasurer Lee McClelland of Olive will be re-elected without opposition.

John Wilcox, Santa Ana, is entertainment chairman.

RUPPERT, RUTH TALK TERMS IN SECRET MEET

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Babe Ruth, home run slugger of the New York Yankees, today agreed on terms for the 1934 season.

Officials said that the terms of Ruth's 1934 contract would not be revealed until Monday morning.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I.N.S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Somewhere in New York, maybe off behind a beer vat in the colonel's brewery, Jacob Ruppert, who owns the Yankee ball club, and Babe Ruth, who once just about owned the owner, will meet privately today to settle what is known as an honest difference of opinion. In matters of this kind, I've always found that an honest difference is one that doesn't favor the other guy. The gentlemen, in other words, are going to discuss Mr. Ruth's salary for 1934.

In sharp contrast to the elite ballroom nature of the event in former years, marked secrecy has been observed in connection with the meeting. The newspapers have not been notified. Engraved invitations did not go out this time to the "still" and movie men.

Instead, they're going to sit down alone, as sensible men should, and try not to get too comical about a reasonably serious matter. After all, it is a little difficult to dramatize middle age.

Of course, the press boys have been mainly responsible for keeping alive during recent years the delusion that there was something moving and urgent about the sealing of a pact between two parties who didn't figure to get along without each other and never intended to try.

But the press boys, once succeeding in making a mighty drama of it, were reluctant to drop the business and, even after the populace came to care proportionately little about what went on, the boys refused to give up. They grimly persisted and their antics finally impressed the management with the belief that, if properly handled, the ceremony might be built up to a point where they would have to decide whether they ought to call out the militia to preserve order or take a chance and just rope off the outfield.

But that was before Mr. Ruth's age began to advance and his earnings to reduce—from eighty thousand to seventy-five to seventy to fifty-two. That was the last quotation. The next? Unfortunately, I'll be among a hundred million others who won't be there and, besides, Wall Street does it better, anyhow. Something like this, for instance:

Bid — $35,000; asked — $40,000; sold—$37,500.

MRS. M'FADDEN IN NEAR RECORD ROUND

Coming within three strokes of the course record for women, Mrs. J. L. McFadden won medal play sweepstakes at the Santa Ana Country club yesterday, shooting 84-7-76. Miss Mary Salisbury's record is 81.

Mrs. L. H. Robinson, 88-8-80, was second. Other winners: Mrs. N. W. Miller, 102-20-82; Mrs. R. D. Crenshaw, 104-20-84; Mrs. Hugh Shields, 100-16-84.

This Week's Games

San Diego's Hillers, who disposed of Santa Ana rather handily in a doubleheader here last season, entertain Coach Reese Greene's Saints in the first of two Coast Preparatory league basketball games in the San Diego gym tonight at 7 o'clock. The second contest will be held on the same floor tomorrow evening.

Nothing but embarrassment has come out of past court relations with Coach Mike Morrow's teams, but the Saints traveled to the border city today with plenty of determination and perhaps the necessary ability to upset San Diego's '34 creation.

The two schools share the conference leadership with Alhambra and Pasadena, each having a .500 percentage following a heated first round. San Diego trimmed Alhambra 26-12, but lost its second game to the Moors 24-18. Santa Ana dropped a 28-23 decision to Pasadena but outpointed the Bulldogs, 30-20 in the return engagement.

Long Beach and Glendale were idle last week on account of flood conditions in the Glendale area, but swing into action tonight, Long Beach playing at Alhambra, Glendale at Pasadena. Long Beach has been installed the title favorite, so the showing of the Jackrabbits will be watched with interest.

San Diego's varsity does not possess much height this year, but the Hillers are said to make up in speed what they lack in size. Listed on the first string are "Pudgy" Gentles and Joe Britt, forwards; Bob Chase, center; Captain Oliver Day and "Bud" Buehlman, guards, Sexton, Mendez, Johnson and Hendry are the best of the reserves.

The Saints also possess a small team that relies mostly on speed and smooth floorwork. Santa Ana, however, has a towering center in Fred Wiemer who should be of great aid in getting the tip-off.

Coach Greene will employ, besides Wiemer at center, his usual guard combination of Tom Lacy and Leonard Lockhart, and LeRoy Levens at one forward position. Either Walt Hendrie or Erwin Youel will round out the starting lineup at forward. Youel, a sophomore, has made such headway during Hendrie's recent illness that he probably will receive the call over the veteran.

Since San Diego sponsors no Class B team, Santa Ana lightweights will not have another league game until next Friday night at Glendale. They lost their first two games to Pasadena by scores of 38-29 and 36-10. Coach Clyde Cook has arranged practice games with Garden Grove and Tustin for next Tuesday.

IOWA GIVES SOLEM 4-YEAR CONTRACT

IOWA CITY, Ia., Jan. 12.—(UP)—Ossie Solem will remain head football coach at the University of Iowa under a new four-year contract, it was indicated today after a conference between Solem and E. H. Lauer, director of athletics.

I have no intention of leaving Iowa City," Solem declared after the meeting.

The four year contract, it was understood, will be drawn up within a week.

"However," said Kilpatrick, "if Dempsey is willing to guarantee the Garden a suitable sum, his offer would receive consideration."

ABBREVIATED:

Isn't there something fatherly in Jack Dempsey's solicitiousness for Max Baer, as expressed in an article in the January "Esquire": "I only hope this Hollywood business doesn't ruin him entirely. That's the same Dempsey who is expecting a son of his own some time in summer.

Today's prize for long-distance worrying goes to Lou Little, Columbia's coach, who is scared stiff about that opening game of the 1934 season against Yale . . . Big league baseball is sure of at least a little noise this year, with Joey Sewell on the Yankees' coaching staff.

GOING TO WORK

Wonder what the livelier ball will do to those National league fielding averages? . . . Infielders who went from the American to the National league in other years said handling the National league ball was like being on the voluntarily retired list . . . Today's prize for being on the job goes to Joe Jacobs, whose twice-beaten boxer, Max Schmeling, has been maneuvered into what appears to be an $80,000 gate with King Levinsky in Chicago.

"Pop" Foster decided to take Jimmy McLarnin to Europe upon being offered Vince Dundee as an opponent . . . Dundee would come in only about 12 pounds over McLarnin . . . and Pop never was one to give away tuppence, let alone pounds . . . HELEN JACOBS TO GO ABROAD FOR NET PLAY

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Helen Jacobs, women's tennis champion, sketched her plans for the 1934 season today, disclosing that she will not compete in the Women's National indoor championships at New York in February.

Helen Jacobs

The successor to Mrs. Helen Wills Moody as queen of America's courts, Miss Jacobs revealed that she will compete in tournament play for the first time this year in the French championships to be held in Paris in May.

With almost treasonable indifference to her native California, Miss Jacobs, who is wintering with friends in Melrose, said she thought New England's cold-hot-snowy-rainy-foggy-clear weather is "just fine." She made no mention of the recent record 17-below zero temperature.

Miss Jacobs is practicing four and sometimes five days a week on the linoleum surface of the Longwood indoor courts at Chestnut Hill. She plays against Ralph Chambers, Longwood's indoor professional and coach of West Point's tennis team. They have about broken even in their matches to date. They played for half-an-hour yesterday and Miss Jacobs was the winner.

The champion utilizes much of her time in writing. She said she was working on a novel.

Cubs, Sox Ban Liquor At Baseball Parks

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—(INS)—Liquor will be sold neither in the Cubs park nor in Comiskey park, home of the White Sox, according to officials who expressed their views on the matter today.

"We didn't sell liquor at Wrigley field before prohibition and don't do it now," said William Walker, president of the Cubs. "Liquor is intoxicating and too many inebriates in any crowd is never a good thing."

Lou Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, commented: "We never did sell liquor at Comiskey park. We never shall. It wouldn't be for the best interest of baseball."

JAYSEE CAGERS IN TWIN BILL: PLAY MORMONS

Opposing the Mormons of the Community Church league and the Bellflower Merchants, Santa Ana junior college engages in two non-league basketball games at Andrews gymnasium beginning at 7 o'clock tonight.

It will be the first meeting between Coach Bill Cook's Dons and the powerful Mormons, but Bellflower defeated the college, 27-26, in a spirited match three weeks ago.

One of the Church league favorites, the Mormon squad contains two jaysee alumni, Ted Cook and Orv Schuchardt, as well as "Bus" Snow, a high-scoring forward, and two experienced guards, Camp and Enge.

The Mormons will be the third Church league opponent the Dons have faced this season. The college defeated the First Methodists, 47-34, but lost to the First Christians, 27-11, in early games before Cook had given the Dons their regular plays.

In the first game, probably with the Mormons, the junior college will employ Clair Preininger and Ed Bragg, forwards; Horace Ritner, center; Alex Clark and Bob Schwarm, guards. Walt Gunther and Harold Youel, forwards; Frank Kroener or "Sky" Morgan, center; Byron Stoddard and Jim Lash, guards, form a tentative lineup for the second tilt. Cook plans to send in a host of substitutions against both opponents, and any of several combinations may be paired with the Bellflower invaders.

Night League Managers To Meet Jan. 17

First signs of spring appeared today when President George Peterkin of Costa Mesa announced that National Night Ball league managers would go into executive session next Wednesday night at the Peacock club, formerly known as the Orange County Golf club, overlooking Newport bay.

This will be the association's annual banquet meeting, and the most important business subject will be the election of officers although reports on 1934 prospects also will be made. It is understood that President Peterkin and Secretary-Treasurer Lee McClelland of Olive will be re-elected without opposition.

John Wilcox, Santa Ana, is entertainment chairman.

RUPPERT, RUTH TALK TERMS IN SECRET MEET

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Babe Ruth, home run slugger of the New York Yankees, today agreed on terms for the 1934 season.

Officials said that the terms of Ruth's 1934 contract would not be revealed until Monday morning.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I.N.S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Somewhere in New York, maybe off behind a beer vat in the colonel's brewery, Jacob Ruppert, who owns the Yankee ball club, and Babe Ruth, who once just about owned the owner, will meet privately today to settle what is known as an honest difference of opinion. In matters of this kind, I've always found that an honest difference is one that doesn't favor the other guy. The gentlemen, in other words, are going to discuss Mr. Ruth's salary for 1934.

In sharp contrast to the elite ballroom nature of the event in former years, marked secrecy has been observed in connection with the meeting. The newspapers have not been notified. Engraved invitations did not go out this time to the "still" and movie men.

Instead, they're going to sit down alone, as sensible men should, and try not to get too comical about a reasonably serious matter. After all, it is a little difficult to dramatize middle age.

Of course, the press boys have been mainly responsible for keeping alive during recent years the delusion that there was something moving and urgent about the sealing of a pact between two parties who didn't figure to get along without each other and never intended to try.

But the press boys, once succeeding in making a mighty drama of it, were reluctant to drop the business and, even after the populace came to care proportionately little about what went on, the boys refused to give up. They grimly persisted and their antics finally impressed the management with the belief that, if properly handled, the ceremony might be built up to a point where they would have to decide whether they ought to call out the militia to preserve order or take a chance and just rope off the outfield.

But that was before Mr. Ruth's age began to advance and his earnings to reduce—from eighty thousand to seventy-five to seventy to fifty-two. That was the last quotation. The next? Unfortunately, I'll be among a hundred million others who won't be there and, besides, Wall Street does it better, anyhow. Something like this, for instance:

Bid — $35,000; asked — $40,000; sold—$37,500.

This Week's Games

San Diego's Hillers, who disposed of Santa Ana rather handily in a doubleheader here last season, entertain Coach Reese Greene's Saints in the first of two Coast Preparatory league basketball games in the San Diego gym tonight at 7 o'clock. The second contest will be held on the same floor tomorrow evening.

Nothing but embarrassment has come out of past court relations with Coach Mike Morrow's teams, but the Saints traveled to the border city today with plenty of determination and perhaps the necessary ability to upset San Diego's '34 creation.

The two schools share the conference leadership with Alhambra and Pasadena, each having a .500 percentage following a heated first round. San Diego trimmed Alhambra 26-12, but lost its second game to the Moors 24-18. Santa Ana dropped a 28-23 decision to Pasadena but outpointed the Bulldogs, 30-20 in the return engagement.

Long Beach and Glendale were idle last week on account of flood conditions in the Glendale area, but swing into action tonight, Long Beach playing at Alhambra, Glendale at Pasadena. Long Beach has been installed the title favorite, so the showing of the Jackrabbits will be watched with interest.

San Diego's varsity does not possess much height this year, but the Hillers are said to make up in speed what they lack in size. Listed on the first string are "Pudgy" Gentles and Joe Britt, forwards; Bob Chase, center; Captain Oliver Day and "Bud" Buehlman, guards, Sexton, Mendez, Johnson and Hendry are the best of the reserves.

The Saints also possess a small team that relies mostly on speed and smooth floorwork. Santa Ana, however, has a towering center in Fred Wiemer who should be of great aid in getting the tip-off.

Coach Greene will employ, besides Wiemer at center, his usual guard combination of Tom Lacy and Leonard Lockhart, and LeRoy Levens at one forward position. Either Walt Hendrie or Erwin Youel will round out the starting lineup at forward. Youel, a sophomore, has made such headway during Hendrie's recent illness that he probably will receive the call over the veteran.

Since San Diego sponsors no Class B team, Santa Ana lightweights will not have another league game until next Friday night at Glendale. They lost their first two games to Pasadena by scores of 38-29 and 36-10. Coach Clyde Cook has arranged practice games with Garden Grove and Tustin for next Tuesday.

SAN FRANCISCO MAY GET MAX-MAX BOUT

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Jack Dempsey and Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, conferred today as to the possibility of holding a March 17 (St. Patrick's day) bout with Max Baer in San Francisco.

Ancil Hoffman, manager of Baer, telegraphed Dempsey that he would come to New York from Washington tomorrow when Dempsey will attempt to close the match.

Schmeling is due here from Germany aboard the Bremen next Wednesday.

Godwin's Decision Unmerited, Claim

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 12.—(UP)—In a fight devoid of the slamming slugs so characteristic of Maxie Rosenbloom-Bob Godwin clashes, Godwin, the Adel, Ga., challenger, won a 12-round decision in a non-title bout with the champion here last night.

A crowd of only 1200, partisan to Godwin, met the decision with laughter. Godwin had failed to land a single solid punch. Maxie's slaps made a lot of noise but, like Godwin's, failed to annoy the opposition.

The two fought to a draw decision here about three weeks ago, and twice before that the two light-heavies had clashed. The draw decision last month was the second between the two fighters. In the other encounter, Rosenbloom won by a tchnical knockout. The only time Maxie's title was at stake was when he got the technical kayo.

197 ROOKIES GO TO BIG LEAGUE CAMPS

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Four hundred and ninety-nine ball players will begin the annual trek to the South and Far West next month for the major league spring training season, a survey of the rosters of the 16 clubs showed today.

Of this group, 197 will be rookies, recalled players or former major leaguers coming back to the "big time" for another trial.

When midsummer rolls around and the clubs have to trim their squads down to the player limit of twenty-three, 171 players who go to the training camps will be back in the minors. The statistics show that there'll be room for just 26 newcomers in the two major leagues, unless some of the veterans slip and are sent back to the bush leagues to make room for new blood.

The American league clubs have 120 new men on their rosters, against the National league's 77, a difference of 43 players.

The St. Louis Cardinals with 38, and the Chicago White Sox with 37, will take the largest squads to their training camps. The Boston Braves, with 22 players, one less than the major league limit, will have the smallest.

The world champion New York Giants, with 32 players, have the third largest National league squad. The Washington Senators, American league champions, with 27 players, and the Philadelphia Athletics, with the same number, have the smallest squads in their leagues.

The White Sox will have the biggest group of rookies, 19, followed by the Red Sox, Tigers and Yankees with 17 each. The largest rookie squad in the National league is 13, gathered by the Cardinals from their many farms. The Braves, with three newcomers have the smallest group of new talent in either league.

HARPER, ABLOWICH MADE CO-CAPTAINS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Hueston Harper, shot putter, and Edgar Ablowich, middle-distance runner, were elected last night to lead the University of Southern California track team as co-captains this year.

O'FARRELL TO LEAD CINCINNATI OUTFIT

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 12.—(UP)—The task of lifting the Cincinnati Reds to bigger and better things in the National league today belonged to Bob O'Farrell.

The signing of O'Farrell as a player-manager for two years was announced by Larry MacPhail, Reds' general manager. O'Farrell was obtained from the St. Louis Cards, along with Pitcher Sylvester Johnson, in exchange for Pitcher Glenn Spencer and an unannounced cash sum.

Terms of O'Farrell's contract were not announced but it is generally believed he will receive in the neighborhood of $12,000 a year. Managing a ball club will not be a new experience to th eveteran. He took charge of the Cards after Hornsby's departure and in 1927 was beaten out for the pennant by the Pittsburgh Pirates by only a game-and-a-half.

The new Red pilot, a native of Waukegan, Ill., has been in baseball since 1915, and has spent most of his time with the Cubs, Giants and Cardinals.

KIPKE PROTEGE TO COACH YALE FROSH

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 12.—(UP)—Official confirmation of Ivan Williamson, 1932 All-American Michigan end, as Yale freshman football and basketball coach, was taken today as indicating that Athletic Director Malcom Farmer was wavering in his stand that only Yale men should head Eli coaching staffs.

Williamson, protege of Harry Kipke, will assume his new duties July 1, Farmer announced.

Levinsky Signs But Schmeling Still Undecided

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—(UP)—King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, has signed a contract to meet Max Schmeling, former champion, in a 15-round bout at the Chicago stadium Feb. 16. Levinsky will receive 25 per cent of the net receipts.

The stadium is now attempting to get Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, to agree to the bout. When he was here earlier in the week Jacobs agreed to take 35 per cent, but since has opened negotiations for a bout between Schmeling and Steve Hamas at Philadelphia Feb. 14.

LOCATELLI FAVORED OVER JACKIE BERG

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(INS)—Cleto Locatelli, of Italy, European lightweight champion, was a 7 to 5 favorite today to win the decision over Jackie Kid Berg of England in their 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden tonight.

COLLEGE NETTERS TO CLASH

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Tennis teams of Stanford, California, U. C. L. A. and Southern California will inaugurate a series of home-and-home tournaments March 7, Trojan athletic officials announced today. Stanford and California will meet at Berkeley that day. California and U. S. C. engage here March 16. A dozen meetings in all will be held, ending May 12.

Sellout For Bear-Trojan Hoop Tussle

BERKELEY, Jan. 12.—(INS)—The Trojans are in town!

And the Coast conference basketball season starts off with a climax, which happens once every two years when the U. S. C. five invades the north to play the Bears of California.

They meet in California gymnasium tonight and tomorrow with every indication that the Bears' giant pavilion will be jammed to the steel rafters.

The games bring together at the outset of the Southern division conference race, the two leading aspirants for the conference crown.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—(UP)—The U. C. L. A. basketball squad will essay the role of "Jack and the Giant Killer" tonight when the Bruins attack a husky Stanford team in a Coast conference contest. The Bruins hoped to make up in speed what they lacked in stature. The game will be broadcast by KMTR.

ANGELS TO SPONSOR CLASS C BALL CLUB

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.(UP) The Los Angeles basebal club of the Pacific Coast league likely will become "guardian angel" of some Western association club, it was learned today.

Oscar Reichow, business manager of the Angels, said club officials probably would accept an invitation to sponsor one of the Class C entries as a farm for young players. The circuit, recently reorganized, includes Springfield, Mo., Joplin, Mo., Bartlesville, Okla., and three other cities to be named later.

SMITH TO REMAIN SANTA CLARA COACH

SANTA CLARA, Jan. 12.—(INS)—Coach "Clipper" Smith of the Santa Clara university football team is not going to accept an offer to coach Alabama Poly at Auburn.

"I am writing today that my set up with Santa Clara precludes discussion of other possibilities at this time," the Bronco coach said.

Vines Nets $7123 In Pro Bow; Sets $100,000 for Goal

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(INS)—Ellsworth Vines, the 22-year-old California tennis star, whose first professional match with Bill Tilden netted him $7123, said today he expected to clear at least $100,000 this year.

Part of this income, he says, will be derived from endorsement of various articles like racquets, balls and tennis clothes as well as from tennis matches.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 12. — (UP)—The 60th running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs May 5, will be for a purse of $30,000 added money instead of the usual $50,000 added, Col. Matt Winn, executive director, has announced. The reduction in the purse was in accord with the policy in vogue at other major tracks, Winn said.

'Clipper' Silent On Auburn Report

SANTA CLARA, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Maurice ("Clipper") Smith, Santa Clara football coach, kept quiet today about the report that he would coach at Alabama Polytechni (Auburn) next season.

"I have not replied," Smith said, intimating that it would take a large increase in salary to lure him from the Pacific Coast.

IOWA GIVES SOLEM 4-YEAR CONTRACT

IOWA CITY, Ia., Jan. 12.—(UP)—Ossie Solem will remain head football coach at the University of Iowa under a new four-year contract, it was indicated today after a conference between Solem and E. H. Lauer, director of athletics.

I have no intention of leaving Iowa City," Solem declared after the meeting.

The four year contract, it was understood, will be drawn up within a week.

DEMPSEY'S OFFER SPURNED BY GARDEN

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(INS)—Col. John Kilpatrick, president of Madison Square Garden, today said in reply to Jack Dempsey's offer to take over the Garden's boxing shows that he wasn't interested.

"However," said Kilpatrick, "if Dempsey is willing to guarantee the Garden a suitable sum, his offer would receive consideration."

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

The husky dog the Tinies hitched grew frisky. It just seemed he itched to tear away, but Scouty said, "Hey, fellow, you must wait.

"We're not quite ready for our ride. I guess I'd best stand by your side. It won't be long till you can run at quite a speedy gate.

"However, you'll find out that we are just as heavy as can be. Six Tinymites, you know, weigh heaps, and we'll all ride at once."

The Eskimo lad cried, "Why, say, he'll haul you all and run away. He's used to pulling heavy loads. It's one of his best stunts.

"When you're all seated on the sled, whoever drives must use his head. Hang to the lines and pull them tight, if my dog runs too fast.

"He's peppy, and may tug a bit, but if you keep on doing it, he'll know you're trying to stop him and he'll slow right down, at last."

"Ha, ha!" laughed Scouty. "Sakes alive! Why fret, when I am going to drive? I'll make your hound behave himself. I've driven dogs before.

"We're ready, now, to go, I guess. I hope the trip's a big success. Hop on, all of you Tinies! There's a great big treat in store."

Just then wee Duncy had a hunch. Thought he, I guess I'll fool the bunch. Brave Scouty thinks he's going to drive, but I will spoil his plan.

He then jumped on the sled and cried, "Come on, hound, let's start on this ride." It took the Tinies by surprise, when off the big dog ran.

"Hey, wait for us!" one Tiny cried. "We're all supposed to take a ride." But Duncy merely shouted back, "You're just too late to go."

In just a moment Dotty said. "Oh, look! The dog's upset the sled." And then the whole bunch saw poor Duncy flopped out in the snow.

SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, JANUARY 12, 1934

60 PER CENT GAIN SHOWN IN ORANGE COUNTY

With Orange county showing a remarkable increase in the sale of new passenger cars in 1933 as compared to 1932, figures obtained today from Motor-Fax, automotive magazine, show that a total of 1652 cars were sold in the county during the past year, a gain of 60.2 per cent over 1932, when only 1031 were sold.

Figures for other states showed that 97,605 cars were sold last year as compared to only 70,893 in 1932, or a gain of 37.6 per cent.

The increase was general in all makes of cars in Orange county with Ford assuming a slight lead in pasesnger cars and a heavy majority in the comemrcial division.

Starting last February with a total of 79 sales, figures mounted steadily to the peak month of July with 208 cars sold, then dropped back to December with only 75, the lowest point of the year. It is pointed out that there is always a seasonal decline in December and the 1933 mark was still far above the 57 figure of 1932.

Comparison

The sales by months, with the 1932 figures following the 1933 mark, were as follows in Orange county: January, 96, 97; February, 79, 81; March, 81, 91; April, 112, 81; May, 141, 64; June, 198, 128; July, 208, 102; August, 198, 91; September, 193, 89; October, 152, 93; November, 119, 57; December, 75, 57.

In California as a whole, the month of December showed an outstanding change in the realignment of the leaders in volume sales. Ford again resumed its old position of first place for the first time in many months with 1267 units, nearly one-fourth of all the new cars registered in the state. This was 313 ahead of Plymouth, which still retained second place, and 414 ahead of Chevrolet. The first five in sales volume were Ford, 1267; Plymouth, 954; Chevrolet, 853; Dodge, 347; Studebaker, 319.

There was considerable improvement in the per cent gain last year over the sales in December of 1932 in many makes. Some of these were as follows: Chevrolet, 248 per cent; Studebaker, 177; De Soto, 84; Dodge, 97; Nash, 112; Willys, 543; Graham, 29.

With the exception of Auburn, Nash, Graham, Continental and Franklin, all makes showed a drop in registration from November of this year. This is of course due largely to seasonal trend and the public's waiting for the new models which will show more radical change in design and development than for many years, Automotive men say.

County Sales

Ford led the sales for the year in Orange county, one of the three Southern California counties which gave it leadership. Chevrolet led in nine counties and also for Southern California as a whole with 15,739 as compared to 12,720 for Ford. Other car totals for the Southland were Plymouth, 9895; Dodge, 2976; Willys, 2098; Pontiac, 1559; Buick, 169; Studebaker, 1440; Rockne, 1427; Oldsmobile, 1120; DeSoto, 1052; Essex, 1017; Chrysler, 871; Auburn, 544; Nash, 469; Packard, 460; Graham, 373; Hupmobile, 286; Cadillac, 247; Austin, 222; LaSalle, 197; Reo, 134; Lincoln, 132; Hudson, 126; Continental, 97; Pierce-Arrow, 97; Franklin, 61; DeVaux, 11; Willys-Knight, 11; Rolls Royce, 5; Marmon, 4; Durant, 3; Cord, 2; Duesenberg 2; Oakland, 2; Stutz, 2; General, 1; MG, 1; Miller, 1.

Of the 1652 cars sold in Orange county, the leaders had the following totals: Ford, 491; Chevrolet, 478; Plymouth, 241; Dodge, 132; Willys, 58; Pontiac, 54; Buick, 36; Essex, 26; Oldsmobile, 19; Chrysler, 18; DeSoto, 17; Rockne, 16; Studebaker, 13.

In the commercial car division for Orange county during the 12 months of 1933, Ford was first with 21 light trucks and 51 heavy vehicles for a total of 72, while Chevrolet was second with 9 light and 35 heavy trucks for a total of 44. Other truck figures were as follows: Dodge, 11; International 11; GMC, 7; Reo, 7; Studebaker, 3; Henney, 2; Austin, 1; Autocar, 1; Essex, 1; Indiana, 1; White, 1. The total was 162.

Sales By Cities

Of the 296 trucks sold in Southern California during the month of December, 5 were sold in Orange county, one in Fullerton, one in Orange, one in Santa Ana and two in Tustin. The five December leaders in the commercial field were Ford, 123; Chevrolet, 86; Dodge, 4; International, 16, and GMC, 15.

Santa Ana led the passenger car sales in December with 20, which included six Chevrolets, six Ford eights, three Dodges, two Pontiacs, two Studebakers and one Chrysler. Fullerton was next with 19 cars, Anaheim third with 13, Placentia, fourth with five, and other cities as follows: Huntington Beach, 4; La Habra, 4; Orange, 3; Brea, 3; and Laguna Beach, Buena Park, Los Alamitos, Sunset Beach and Yorba Linda, one each.

The month of January was the only period in 1933 when passenger car sales in Southern California were below the corresponding month in 1932. Total figures, with 1932 after 1933: January, 3681, 3788; February, 3155, 2784; March, 3415, 3279; April, 4508, 3180; May, 5744, 3121; June, 6653, 4910; July, 6814, 3712; August, 6183, 3658; September, 5805, 3548; October, 4635, 3071; November, 3980, 2355; December, 2830, 2133.

Used car sales in December, 1933, showed an increase of 1651 over the sales in Southern California for the month of November. A total of 20,410 used cars changed hands during the month, as compared with 18,759 in November.

ELIMINATION OF LABOR CONTRACTORS REQUESTED BY 1500 MEXICAN BEET WORKERS

Appeal for co-operation of beet farmers in eliminating the labor contractor has been made by the recently organized Union of Mexican Agricultural Workers of this county. The organization has branches at Gloryetta, Westminster, Talbert, Stanton, Laurel Square, Doheny Park and Garden Grove. It is estimated that at present the organization has 1500 members.

The group has appealed to all beet farmers in the county to co-operate with them by giving them work in the beet fields direct and eliminate the contractors. Farmers wishing to cooperate to this extent are advised to communicate with the Union Federation of Mexican Agricultural Workers in Orange county, 204 Central avenue, Gloryetta, or with German Alarcon, head of the organization, who lives at Gloryetta.

The request for co-operation said:

"We hereby wish to inform you that due to the present precarious situation, most of the beet workers appeal to you to co-operate with us in the control of beet work with the view in mind of eliminating contractors and to give the work direct to the workers.

"This because of the fact that said contractors take a tract of land by acreage and the work is relet to the workers on an acreage basis by the said contractor instead of limiting himself to his acreage profit will make his computation to the workers so that said workers will actually be working more than an acre, and this, as you will see, is unfair, and this is the reason so many beet workers are dissatisfied with conditions and unsatisfactory in their work.

"Under our suggestion the work would be done well. This communication signed by the members of this union, and at any time that you may need workers, any number that you may need can be immediately supplied; you will have one man in charge of the work, and any worker who does not properly comply shall be discharged and supplemented by another in his place until the work is finished.

"This petition is made by the unions of Gloryetta, Santa Ana, Westminster, Talbert, Stanton, Laurel Square, Doheny Park and Garden Grove, which have a membership of 1500 men."

In the past charges have been made that labor contractors imported laborers from outside the county, and charged the workers for board and room.

Pair Jailed on Fighting Charge

With charges reduced from assault with a deadly weapon to disturbing the peace, Jesus Ayala and Ascencio Hernandez, Anaheim Mexicans, were sented to pay $10 or serve five days in jail by Judge Frank Tausch of Anaheim yesterday. The men were involved in a fight in Anaheim Christmas day and inflicted knife wounds on other Mexicans. They will serve their jail sentences.

ASK PAYMENT FOR CHRISTMAS SEALS

A total of 9000 follow-up cards are being sent out to those who have not yet returned either Christmas Seals sent them or a remittance for the seals, it was announced today by R. W. Balch, president of the Orange County Tuberculosis and Health association.

The cards are being sent as a reminder that eiter the returned seals or a contribution will help the association know definitely what the 1934 budget will be.

"Every year people wait even as late as spring to send us their money," President Balch said. "We feel sure at this time when everyone understands that this money pays for one year's program, we will not have to wait until spring house-cleaning for them to find their seals and pay for them."

Y OFFERS NEW LOW RATES ON MONTHLY PLAN

Making it possible for more persons to enjoy the privileges of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A., it was announced today that a special membership rate of $12 a year, or one dollar a month, will be offered members and prospective members.

The announcement came today following a meeting of the board of directors of the association. Regular rates for men have been $15 a year for young men and $25 for business men, but in order to make the privileges more widely available, it has been decided not only to reduce the rate, but also to offer the privilege of payment by the month to relieve all financial strain for those wishing to enjoy the membership opportunity.

It was pointed out by T. J. Hunter, president of the association, that this payment of $12 a year covers the entire cost of membership, and opens up for men the use of all the privileges offered in the very complete and attractive Y. M. C. A. building which serves Santa Ana. Not only the gymnasium and other physical department privileges are included, but educational class fees and other special charges which in the past have been carried separately are also provided for. The classes in public speaking carried on in the association are available to paid-up members without further cost, and the same rule holds for other special courses and opportunities.

"Our building is being used by more men than ever at this time," said Hunter, "and at the same time these men are paying less than ever for their membership. In order to balance, we need more members at the reduced rate, and we hope that many men will respond to our offer by taking out memberships and by taking advantage of the fine work offered in our present program. Membership for boys is continued free of charge except for the small charge for swimming."

With Orange county showing a remarkable increase in the sale of new passenger cars in 1933 as compared to 1932, figures obtained today from Motor-Fax, automotive magazine, show that a total of 1652 cars were sold in the county during the past year, a gain of 60.2 per cent over 1932, when only 1031 were sold.

Figures for other states showed that 97,605 cars were sold last year as compared to only 70,893 in 1932, or a gain of 37.6 per cent.

The increase was general in all makes of cars in Orange county with Ford assuming a slight lead in pasesnger cars and a heavy majority in the comemrcial division.

Starting last February with a total of 79 sales, figures mounted steadily to the peak month of July with 208 cars sold, then dropped back to December with only 75, the lowest point of the year. It is pointed out that there is always a seasonal decline in December and the 1933 mark was still far above the 57 figure of 1932.

Comparison

The sales by months, with the 1932 figures following the 1933 mark, were as follows in Orange county: January, 96, 97; February, 79, 81; March, 81, 91; April, 112, 81; May, 141, 64; June, 198, 128; July, 208, 102; August, 198, 91; September, 193, 89; October, 152, 93; November, 119, 57; December, 75, 57.

In California as a whole, the month of December showed an outstanding change in the realignment of the leaders in volume sales. Ford again resumed its old position of first place for the first time in many months with 1267 units, nearly one-fourth of all the new cars registered in the state. This was 313 ahead of Plymouth, which still retained second place, and 414 ahead of Chevrolet. The first five in sales volume were Ford, 1267; Plymouth, 954; Chevrolet, 853; Dodge, 347; Studebaker, 319.

There was considerable improvement in the per cent gain last year over the sales in December of 1932 in many makes. Some of these were as follows: Chevrolet, 248 per cent; Studebaker, 177; De Soto, 84; Dodge, 97; Nash, 112; Willys, 543; Graham, 29.

With the exception of Auburn, Nash, Graham, Continental and Franklin, all makes showed a drop in registration from November of this year. This is of course due largely to seasonal trend and the public's waiting for the new models which will show more radical change in design and development than for many years, Automotive men say.

County Sales

Ford led the sales for the year in Orange county, one of the three Southern California counties which gave it leadership. Chevrolet led in nine counties and also for Southern California as a whole with 15,739 as compared to 12,720 for Ford. Other car totals for the Southland were Plymouth, 9895; Dodge, 2976; Willys, 2098; Pontiac, 1859; Buick, 169; Studebaker, 1440; Rockne, 1427; Oldsmobile, 1120; DeSoto, 1052; Essex, 1017; Chrysler, 871; Auburn, 544;

Nash, 469; Packard, 460; Graham, 373; Hupmobile, 286; Cadillac, 247; Austin, 222; LaSalle, 197; Reo, 134; Lincoln, 132; Hudson, 126; Continental, 97; Pierce-Arrow, 97; Franklin, 61; DeVaux, 11; Willys-Knight, 11; Rolls Royce, 5; Marmon, 4; Durant, 3; Cord, 2; Duesenberg 2; Oakland, 2; Stutz, 2; General, 1; MG, 1; Miller, 1.

Of the 1652 cars sold in Orange county, the leaders had the following totals: Ford, 491; Chevrolet, 478; Plymouth, 241; Dodge, 132; Willys, 58; Pontiac, 54; Buick, 36; Essex, 26; Oldsmobile, 19; Chrysler, 18; DeSoto, 17; Rockne, 16; Studebaker, 13.

In the commercial car division for Orange county during the 12 months of 1933, Ford was first with 21 light trucks and 51 heavy vehicles for a total of 72, while Chevrolet was second with 9 light and 35 heavy trucks for a total of 44. Other truck figures were as follows: Dodge, 11; International 11; GMC, 7; Reo, 7; Studebaker, 3; Henney, 2; Austin, 1; Autocar, 1; Essex, 1; Indiana, 1; White, 1. The total was 162.

Sales By Cities

Of the 296 trucks sold in Southern California during the month of December, 5 were sold in Orange county, one in Fullerton, one in Orange, one in Santa Ana and two in Tustin. The five December leaders in the commercial field were Ford, 123; Chevrolet, 66; Dodge, 4; International, 16, and GMC, 15.

Santa Ana led the passenger car sales in December with 20, which included six Chevrolets, six Ford eights, three Dodges, two Pontiacs, two Studebakers and one Chrysler. Fullerton was next with 19 cars, Anaheim third with 13, Placentia, fourth with five, and other cities as follows: Huntington Beach, 4; La Habra, 4; Orange, 3; Brea, 3; and Laguna Beach, Buena Park, Los Alamitos, Sunset Beach and Yorba Linda, one each.

The month of January was the only period in 1933 when passenger car sales in Southern California were below the corresponding month in 1932. Total figures, with 1932 after 1933: January, 3681, 3788; February, 3155, 2784; March, 3415, 3279; April, 4508, 3180; May, 5744, 3121; June, 6653, 4910; July, 6814, 3712; August, 6183, 3688; September, 5805, 3548; October, 4635, 3071; November, 3980, 2355; December, 2830, 2133.

Used car sales in December, 1933, showed an increase of 1651 over the sales in Southern California for the month of November. A total of 20,410 used cars changed hands during the month, as compared with 18,759 in November.

County Child Hygiene Director Addresses Primary Teachers

In advance of the formal program the teachers enjoyed having tea with their hostesses of the Huntington Beach schools, with Mrs. Agnes Smith, primary principal, in charge.

C. B. Baldwin, district superintendent, gave an interesting impromptu talk on prevailing conditions, and presented Dr. Edward Lee Russell, Orange county director of child hygiene, chief speaker of the afternoon.

Dr. Russell, an unusually pleasing speaker both because of his personality and his complete familiarity with his subject, talked on "Mental Hygiene of Children." One of his points was that children today are looked upon as something in the nature of luxuries rather than chattels, and hence receive a care and attention which they formerly lacked. This study of child nature and all problems incidental to childhood begins with the home and continues through school years.

It is important, according to Dr. Russell, that teachers should be familiar with home and family conditions of their pupils. Therefore he advocated classes kept to a maximum of 26 pupils, arguing that beyond that number allowed a teacher no time for individual study and attention, nor for personal contacts with the children and their families.

He discussed various child types including the dreamer and those demanding an undue amount of attention, citing definite examples from among those brought to the children's clinic.

At the next meeting of the association on Tuesday afternoon, February 13, in Katella school, Miss Edith Holsinger of the Katella teaching staff will present a music demonstration.

Daughters of Veterans

Some indication of the success of Rowena Grout's year in the presidency of Sarah A. Rounds tent, Daughters of Union Veterans, was given Tuesday in Pythian hall when Daughters heard the succession of reports offered by various officers, committee chairmen, etc., in closing the year's series of business meetings.

It was Mrs. Grout's final session in the chair, as new officers will be installed Friday night at a joint session with Sons of Union Veterans.

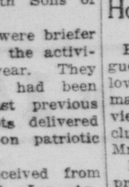

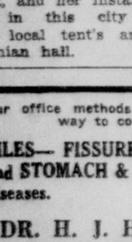

The month's reports were briefer but were indicative of the activities of the entire year. They showed that 36 calls had been made since the last previous meeting, eight bouquets delivered and $42.50 expended on patriotic and relief work.

Invitations were received from Whittier, Long Beach, Los Angeles and Huntington Beach tents to attend open installations on their respective dates.

Mrs. Frankie Pence of Los Angeles, D. U. V. department president, and her installing staff will be in this city tonight for the local tent's annual rites in Pythian hall.

Girl Reserves Learn Change in Program Is Necessary

Girl Reserves of the city who tomorrow afternoon will be hostesses to countless friends at their long planned for Russian tea in the city Y. W. clubroom, feel that they are past masters of the art of turning defeat into victory.

For just when they thought they had all plans completed for a delightful afternoon for their guests, they were crushed to receive word that their featured speaker, Dr. Sonia Poushkareff of Hollywood, would be unable to be present. Dr. Poushkareff has created such a favorable impression upon her earlier appearances in this community, that her projected introduction as chief speaker for the Russian tea program was the finest drawing card that the Girl Reserves might wish.

Yesterday they had a message from Dr. Poushkareff's secretary that the celebrated young Russian dentist had been seriously injured in an automobile accident, was in the hospital and was forced to cancel all speaking engagements for the present. Concern for her condition was mingled in the minds of Girl Reserves, with dismay at the prospect of a featureless tea program.

In the emergency they communicated with Madame Nadejda J. Givago-Greshina, also prominent in Hollywood's Russian colony, and a special worker in Girl Reserve groups. She rose to the situation, and promised to come herself and fill the place of speaker left vacant by Dr. Poushkareff's unfortunate accident.

Madame Givago-Greshina is a writer and artist of note, finding her special forte in the children's stories which she does so charmingly, illustrating them herself. In more practical matters she is Russian Nationality worker in the Los Angeles International Institute, and is a favorite speaker before clubs and organizations of Los Angeles and vicinity. Her career has been fully as colorful as has that of her close friend, Dr. Poushkareff. Her father was a professor in the Russian university, and a well known member of the Russian intelligentsia. The family lost everything early in the course of the Revolution, despite which Madame Givago-Greshina paints a fair and understanding picture of Russia as it is today.

Otherwise, tomorrow afternoon's program plans remain unchanged. There will be the succession of Russian dances and folksongs, the native tea dainties, and a band of charming girls in the quaint costumes and headdresses which they have secured and prepared. The tea begins at 2:30 o'clock.

Newly Wedded Couple Are to Make Home In Orange

It was in Tustin Advent Christian church that Miss Lola Stovall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Stovall of Santa Ana, became the bride Monday afternoon, January 8, of Charles Prather, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Prather of Newport road.

The single ring service was employed by the Rev. Howard Nason, pastor of the church, in the quiet but pretty rites at 1 o'clock. A score of relatives and close friends had assembled for the wedding and later were given opportunity to express their good wishes to the new Mr. and Mrs. Prather at a reception in the George Prather home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Prather have now returned from a short motor trip and are establishing their home in Orange where Mr. Prather is owner and manager of Prather's Service station, Main and Chapman streets. He is a graduate of Tustin Union High school and his bride is a graduate of Santa Ana High school.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Luncheon

Orange Salad:
1 sliced orange.
1 small lettuce heart, shredded
2 tbps. mineral oil mayonnaise
Cheese Rarebit (3 tbsps.) on
2 crackers
Clear tea, no sugar
Calory total 250

I like this way of making cheese sauce, to be used for rarebit, with au gratin dishes, and or as a sauce for baked fish or vegetables. It is particularly nice over boiled cauliflower.

Heat 2 cups of rich milk, adding a generous piece of butter as the milk heats. Smooth 4 teaspoons flour in a little cold water and add as soon as the milk is at the scald. As the sauce cooks add grated cheese, as much as two cupfuls, and judiciously add prepared mustard and lemon juice until the right stage of tart-hotness has been reached, then slip in a good pinch of SUGAR (to draw flavors together), some paprika and a dash of cayenne. Stir well, placing the vessel over hot water, away from the fire.

This sauce can be re-heated times without number and never curdle if it is done over hot water.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Mint Cocktail

1 large can pineapple, cubed.
3 oranges, pulp diced
¼ pound after-dinner mints
Juice of 1 lemon
Finely shaved ice, ad lib.

Cube the pineapple, separate the orange sections from the pulp and dice neatly, combine with the pineapple, lemon juice and mints. Let stand 1 hour in the refrigerator, adding finely shaved ice just before serving. Portions: 10.

Although the recipe fails to mention the fact, the pineapple juice goes into the cocktail. And that "finely shaved ice." With modern refrigeration producing ice cubes it just isn't possible to shave them, so put them in a tea towel and pound fine . . . the final disposition of the ice is all the same, so wot's the odds!

* * *

Apple-Mint Sherbet

4 cups of thin apple sauce
Juice of 2 lemons
1¼ cups sugar
4 drops of peppermint extract
Few drops of green fruit coloring

Cook apples with skins on, run the thin sauce through a sieve, add sugar, lemon juice, peppermint extract and coloring. Stir well and when cool enough, put in pan and freeze to a stiff mush. Serve in sherbet cups with the meat course.

This sherbet is delicious with roast pork, duck or goose, and equally good with broiled steak.

Girl Reserves Learn Change in Program Is Necessary

Girl Reserves of the city who tomorrow afternoon will be hostesses to countless friends at their long planned for Russian tea in the city Y. W. clubroom, feel that they are past masters of the art of turning defeat into victory.

For just when they thought they had all plans completed for a delightful afternoon for their guests, they were crushed to receive word that their featured speaker, Dr. Sonia Poushkareff of Hollywood, would be unable to be present. Dr. Poushkareff has created such a favorable impression upon her earlier appearances in this community, that her projected introduction as chief speaker for the Russian tea program was the finest drawing card that the Girl Reserves might wish.

Yesterday they had a message from Dr. Poushkareff's secretary that the celebrated young Russian dentist had been seriously injured in an automobile accident, was in the hospital and was forced to cancel all speaking engagements for the present. Concern for her condition was mingled in the minds of Girl Reserves, with dismay at the prospect of a featureless tea program.

In the emergency they communicated with Madame Nadejda J. Givago-Greshina, also prominent in Hollywood's Russian colony, and a special worker in Girl Reserve groups. She rose to the situation, and promised to come herself and fill the place of speaker left vacant by Dr. Poushkareff's unfortunate accident.

Madame Givago-Greshina is a writer and artist of note, finding her special forte in the children's stories which she does so charmingly, illustrating them herself. In more practical matters she is Russian Nationality worker in the Los Angeles International Institute, and is a favorite speaker before clubs and organizations of Los Angeles and vicinity. Her career has been fully as colorful as has that of her close friend, Dr. Poushkareff. Her father was a professor in the Russian university, and a well known member of the Russian intelligentsia. The family lost everything early in the course of the Revolution, despite which Madame Givago-Greshina paints a fair and understanding picture of Russia as it is today.

Otherwise, tomorrow afternoon's program plans remain unchanged. There will be the succession of Russian dances and folksongs, the native tea dainties, and a band of charming girls in the quaint costumes and headdresses which they have secured and prepared. The tea begins at 2:30 o'clock.

It was in Tustin Advent Christian church that Miss Lola Stovall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Stovall of Santa Ana, became the bride Monday afternoon, January 8, of Charles Prather, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Prather of Newport road.

The single ring service was employed by the Rev. Howard Nason, pastor of the church, in the quiet but pretty rites at 1 o'clock. A score of relatives and close friends had assembled for the wedding and later were given opportunity to express their good wishes to the new Mr. and Mrs. Prather at a reception in the George Prather home.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Luncheon

Orange Salad:
1 sliced orange.
1 small lettuce heart, shredded
2 tbps. mineral oil mayonnaise
Cheese Rarebit (3 tbsps.)
on
2 crackers
Clear tea, no sugar
Calory total 250

I like this way of making cheese sauce, to be used for rarebit, with au gratin dishes, and or as a sauce for baked fish or vegetables. It is particularly nice over boiled cauliflower.

Heat 2 cups of rich milk, adding a generous piece of butter as the milk heats. Smooth 4 teaspoons flour in a little cold water and add as soon as the milk is at the scald. As the sauce cooks add grated cheese, as much as two cupfuls, and judiciously add prepared mustard and lemon juice until the right stage of tart-hotness has been reached, then slip in a good pinch of SUGAR (to draw flavors together), some paprika and a dash of cayenne. Stir well, placing the vessel over hot water, away from the fire.

This sauce can be re-heated times without number and never curdle if it is done over hot water.

Have you ever said firy dots and dashes when some of the florist's lovely roses hang some of their heads and fail to respond to your flower blandishments? Just take the droopy ones out in the kitchen, cut the stalks off a good five inches up the stalk, sink them to their necks in cold water and they will come to in a jiffy.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Mint Cocktail

1 large can pineapple, cubed.
3 oranges, pulp diced
¼ pound after-dinner mints
Juice of 1 lemon
Finely shaved ice, ad lib.

Cube the pineapple, separate the orange sections from the pulp and dice neatly, combine with the pineapple, lemon juice and mints. Let stand 1 hour in the refrigerator, adding finely shaved ice just before serving. Portions: 10.

Although the recipe fails to mention the fact, the pineapple juice goes into the cocktail. And that "finely shaved ice." With modern refrigeration producing ice cubes it just isn't possible to shave them, so put them in a tea towel and pound fine . . . the final disposition of the ice is all the same, so wot's the odds!

* * *

Apple-Mint Sherbet

4 cups of thin apple sauce
Juice of 2 lemons
1¼ cups sugar
4 drops of peppermint extract
Few drops of green fruit coloring

Cook apples with skins on, run the thin sauce through a sieve, add sugar, lemon juice, peppermint extract and coloring. Stir well and when cool enough, put in pan and freeze to a stiff mush. Serve in sherbet cups with the meat course.

273 CARS SENT EAST IN YEAR REPORT SHOWS

FULLERTON, Jan. 12.—Orangethorpe Citrus association members held their 10th annual meeting yesterday at their packing house on Walnut street, where the manager, A. S. Swank, read the annual report.

J. W. Phelps, president; presided. Swank acted as secretary. Other officers and directors are William Schumacher, vice president; Benjamin Dauser, treasurer; Timothy Daly, St. Clair Sherrod, A. C. Miller and N. J. Stehly.

In his short talk to the membership, Phelps drew attention, as did Swank, that the association is in excellent condition, and that not only is the association not in debt, but has money on hand to operate until the season for valencias opens again.

The report showed that the association shipped 273 cars, sold 25,117 boxes of loose fruit, and sent 25,013 boxes of small size fruit to the orange products pool.

George Crawford, manager of the Northern Orange County Citrus exchange, in his talk was very hopeful for the coming season. He said that there is not such a large crop, and that with the future sale by the grower not being bothered by surplus, and the government control of shipping, the grower may make good money.

In the past season, which he divided into four parts, he said May to July 1 were difficult, owing to Florida fruit on the market. From July to about September 1, he said the six or seven per cent outside the stabilization agreement shipped 18 to 20 per cent of the fruit.

From about the middle of August or first of September to the middle of October, the stabilization program worked well, while since then, he said, the poor quality fruit has hurt the market.

HAPGOOD TALK DISCUSSED BY FORUM GROUP

FULLERTON, Jan. 12. — After Russell Kent had outlined some of the high points of the Orange County forum address of Norman Hapgood Tuesday night, the Forum group, meeting last night, undertook general discussion of the theme of Hapgood's address.

His short analysis of the address was given in two divisions, what the famous writer, who has known intimately all presidents and great men from the time of President Theodore Roosevelt, to the present time, had to say about what had transpired in Washington, and what he thought would transpire in the future.

Under the first category, he said at the election of 1932 the people decided that Mr. Hoover had "done nothing about depression; had even failed to admit there was one in existence, and they asked Roosevelt to do all he could for the people. The people voted for considerable revolution."

Kent said that Hapgood suggested that a revolutionized form of government without the people behind it is bound to fail, and that people are not behind the present trend of changes, but have condoned those changes simply because they have been shocked.

In concluding from present and past conditions what will next transpire in Washington, Hapgood suggested that the supreme court will take away from Roosevelt his legislative powers, recognizing his as administrative rather than administrative and legislative rights.

Criticisms that came to the Hapgood talk from the floor were that he confused socialism and communism, speaking of them as the same things; that he did not touch on the vital things that came before the masses of people today, and that he somehow admired most of all, Al Smith and Justice Brandies of the supreme court, two opposite types.

273 CARS SENT EAST IN YEAR REPORT SHOWS

FULLERTON, Jan. 12.—Orangethorpe Citrus association members held their 10th annual meeting yesterday at their packing house on Walnut street, where the manager, A. S. Swank, read the annual report.

J. W. Phelps, president; presided. Swank acted as secretary. Other officers and directors are William Schumacher, vice president; Benjamin Dauser, treasurer; Timothy Daly, St. Clair Sherrod, A. C. Miller and N. J. Stehly.

In his short talk to the membership. Phelps drew attention, as did Swank, that the association is in excellent condition, and that not only is the association not in debt, but has money on hand to operate until the season for valencias opens again.

The report showed that the association shipped 273 cars, sold 25,117 boxes of loose fruit, and sent 25,013 boxes of small size fruit to the orange products pool.

George Crawford, manager of the Northern Orange County Citrus exchange, in his talk was very hopeful for the coming season. He said that there is not such a large crop, and that with the future sale by the grower not being bothered by surplus, and the government control of shipping, the grower may make good money.

In the past season, which he divided into four parts, he said May to July 1 were difficult, owing to Florida fruit on the market. From July to about September 1, he said the six or seven per cent outside the stabilization agreement shipped 18 to 20 per cent of the fruit.

From about the middle of August or first of September to the middle of October, the stabilization program worked well, while since then, he said, the poor quality fruit has hurt the market.

HAPGOOD TALK DISCUSSED BY FORUM GROUP

FULLERTON, Jan. 12. — After Russell Kent had outlined some of the high points of the Orange County forum address of Norman Hapgood Tuesday night, the Forum group, meeting last night, undertook general discussion of the theme of Hapgood's address.

His short analysis of the address was given in two divisions, what the famous writer, who has known intimately all presidents and great men from the time of President Theodore Roosevelt, to the present time, had to say about what had transpired in Washington, and what he thought would transpire in the future.

Under the first category, he said at the election of 1932 the people decided that Mr. Hoover had "done nothing about depression; had even failed to admit there was one in existence, and they asked Roosevelt to do all he could for the people. The people voted for considerable revolution."

Kent said that Hapgood suggested that a revolutionized form of government without the people behind it is bound to fail, and that people are not behind the present trend of changes, but have condoned those changes simply because they have been shocked.

In concluding from present and past conditions what will next transpire in Washington, Hapgood suggested that the supreme court will take away from Roosevelt his legislative powers, recognizing his as administrative rather than administrative and legislative rights.

Criticisms that came to the Hapgood talk from the floor were that he confused socialism and communism, speaking of them as the same things; that he did not touch on the vital things that came before the masses of people today, and that he somehow admired most of all, Al Smith and Justice Brandies of the supreme court, two opposite types.

BACK AGAIN

In recent months, some of you may have been unable to get DEL MONTE Ortho-Cut Coffee from your grocer.

This hasn't been your grocer's fault. For a short time certain trade-mark restrictions handicapped its distribution in your state.

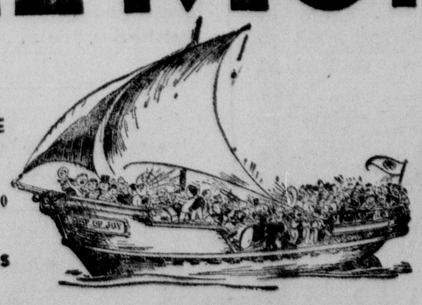

But these restrictions have now been permanently removed. Your grocer again has DEL MONTE Ortho-Cut Coffee on his shelves, or can easily get it for you.

And those of you who have not yet tasted DEL MONTE Coffee will want to get aquainted with its matchless flavor at once. You know you take no risk in buying anything under the DEL MONTE label. But, more than that, you really owe it to yourself to discover how good a cup of coffee can and should taste. Try DEL MONTE and find out.

NRA MEMBER U.S. WE DO OUR PART

DEL MONTE ORTHO-CUT 40 TO 75% MORE FLAVOR Coffee

— Tune in — CAPTAIN DOBBSIE and DEL MONTE SHIP OF JOY Monday Evenings, 6:30 Thursday Mornings, 8:00 N.B.C. STATIONS

FLAVOR . . . It takes many things to put flavor into coffee—selecting, blending, roasting—and DEL MONTE goes the limit on every detail. The choicest green coffees the world affords—selected and tested by lifelong experts—blended skilfully—roasted carefully—with only one purpose in view—the finest coffee flavor that modern skill and resources can produce.

SUPER-VACUUM PACKED . . . Coffee flavor is elusive and perishable. In a few days after roasting much of it can escape—and rancidity set in. To keep all its superb flavor roaster-fresh, until you open the can in your own kitchen, DEL MONTE Coffee is super-vacuum packed. Time and distance don't exist, so far as DEL MONTE freshness is concerned.

ORTHO-CUT . . . But, then, what use are flavor and freshness unless you can get them out of the coffee? Right there is where DEL MONTE outdistances all the others. For this exclusive, scientific Ortho-Cut grind gives you 40 to 75% more flavor than ordinary grinds. Better flavor, too. And it is the right grind for any kind of coffee pot you use—drip, percolator or boiling.

BACK AGAIN

IN recent months, some of you may have been unable to get DEL MONTE Ortho-Cut Coffee from your grocer.

This hasn't been your grocer's fault. For a short time certain trademark restrictions handicapped its distribution in your state.

But these restrictions have now been permanently removed. Your grocer again has DEL MONTE Ortho-Cut Coffee on his shelves, or can easily get it for you.

And those of you who have not yet tasted DEL MONTE Coffee will want to get aquainted with its matchless flavor at once. You know you take no risk in buying anything under the DEL MONTE label. But, more than that, you really owe it to yourself to discover how good a cup of coffee can and should taste. Try DEL MONTE and find out.

WE DO OUR PART

DEL MONTE ORTHO-CUT 40 TO 75% MORE FLAVOR Coffee

FLAVOR . . . It takes many things to put flavor into coffee—selecting, blending, roasting—and DEL MONTE goes the limit on every detail. The choicest green coffees the world affords—selected and tested by lifelong experts—blended skilfully—roasted carefully—with only one purpose in view—the finest coffee flavor that modern skill and resources can produce.

SUPER-VACUUM PACKED . . . Coffee flavor is elusive and perishable. In a few days after roasting much of it can escape—and rancidity set in. To keep all its superb flavor roaster-fresh, until you open the can in your own kitchen, DEL MONTE Coffee is super-vacuum packed. Time and distance don't exist, so far as DEL MONTE freshness is concerned.

ORTHO-CUT . . . But, then, what use are flavor and freshness unless you can get them out of the coffee? Right there is where DEL MONTE outdistances all the others. For this exclusive, scientific Ortho-Cut grind gives you 40 to 75% more flavor than ordinary grinds. Better flavor, too. And it is the right grind for any kind of coffee pot you use—drip, percolator or boiling.

THE WEEKLY PANTRY SHELF

Married Flirts

by MABEL McELLIOTT

© 1933 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GYPSY MORELL and TOM WEAVER are married the same day as LILA HOTALING and DEREK BLISS. Lila expects to live in luxury, but Gypsy intends to keep her job, teaching in a settlement house.

The first night Gypsy and Tom spend in their New York apartment VERA GRAY, an old friend of Tom's, telephones. Tom asks her to luncheon to meet Gypsy, but Gypsy can't leave her work. Later Vera calls and the two girls dislike each other.

Weeks later Lila and Derek return from their honeymoon in Europe. Lila asks the Weavers to dinner. Among the guests is wealthy MARKO BROUGHTON, who once asked Gypsy to marry him. He showers her with attentions which she accepts because she is jealous of Tom's interest in HILDA BLANCHARD.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII

The evening, on the whole, was far from being a success for Gypsy. She tried flirting mildly with Marko, just to make Tom angry. But it was a thankless business. She didnt really want to quarrel with Tom. The very thought of it turned her just a little sick. They had been so happy. What serpent had entered so suddenly into their little Eden?

It was one o'clock. It was two. It was three. And the music went on and the smoke gathered in clouds and the glasses were filled and emptied, filled and emptied again. Her head began to ache and her spirits flagged. Looking from one face to another, she wondered idly how they stood it, night after night. Why, she was only 22, strong, almost without nerves, and yet she tired of it quickly. Marko, who made the social rounds so briskly, was 50, and his skin was stretched tight around his eyes, he seemed untiring. He must have unexpected stores of strength to draw upon. Marko, reflected Gypsy, was rather wonderful.

At three-ten (and how Gypsy blessed her for it!) young Mrs. Wiltford said they must go—there was something about an early start on the morrow. They were going south . . . Hot Springs. The party began to disintegrate.

Gypsy's own farewells to her hostess were the hollowest of polite lies. She hadn't enjoyed herself at all. She was tired to death. she was almost ill with annoyance at Tom and jealousy of Hilda Blanchard, she was a little ashamed of herself for her mild flirtation with Marko.

And yet she said all the correct things. Lila must come to lunch with her downtown—soon. Oh she meant that, all right. Lila was sweet, she was gay and interested, friendly.

Gypsy was almost speechless with fatigue when the taxi deposited them at their own door. Tom helped her out, without a word. Still silent, he unlocked the door and stood aside to let her into the dark apartment. Gypsy switched on the hall light, yawned, dropped her wrap into a chair. Then she hastily picked it up again. It was all very well for the idle daughters of the rich to behave so with their party clothes. As for her, she must take excellent care of the few she owned, because it would be a long time before she would be able to afford others.

When she came out of the bathroom, having scrubbed the heavy scent of tobacco smoke from her hands and face, wrapped in her woolly robe, Tom was already waiting. His own things were neatly folded and laid across a chair back. Tom, she reflected, was that rare bird, a tidy husband. At least, from all she had heard, such creatures were rare. She gave him a brief inquiring glance and saw that he still wore the frown he'd adopted when they had left the others. Was Tom going to sulk? Oh, she hoped not. Gypsy, herself, could never harbor a grievance. She had been taught never to let the sun go down upon her anger

As she brushed her hair, she could hear Tom's vigorous splashing. She let her glance rove around the little room, and what she saw she inevitably contracted with Lila's exotic boudoir. Involuntarily a sigh escaped her.

"Don't you feel well?" Tom was beside her.

"Just tired."

He threw back the covers on his own bed. "Good night," he said, very formally. He kissed her coolly on the cheek. Gypsy wanted to cry out, to say something angry and hurtful about Hilda Blanchard and the way he had devoted himself to her all evening. But she was actually too weary to quarrel, although a quarrel might have cleared the air. She answered him in her turn coldly. Tom waited until she had got between her own neat sheet and green blankets. Then he turned out the light, flung the window wide, and [illegible] into bed.

Long after he was asleep, Gypsy lay awake. She had to get up at half past seven, she knew that. But just the same, she tossed and turned. She was tense, she was angry, she was bewildered. Just before dawn came streaking into the [illegible] of the street, she fell uneasily asleep.

Breakfast was a dreary affair. The Weavers were scrupulously polite to each other.

"More toast, Tom?"

"No, thanks." Business of consulting his watch. Just a distant politeness.

"We might," Gypsy reflected, gloomily, "have been married for centuries."

He came back into the living room with his overcoat on, his gray soft hat in his hand, to say good-by. Gypsy's lip trembled a little. This —this really was dreadful! Where was Tom? Where was her own boy? She couldn't find him, in this stiff and formal stranger.

"It's Dinah's night on," she told him. "Dinner at seven."

"Right. At seven." And he was gone.

She sat down and cried. She couldnt help it. Well, she had no time for this. A business woman-wife didn't. She'd have to hurry. Bath. Cold cream. Dash of lipstick. Heavens she loked a wreck! What circles she had under her eyes!

Well, there was no help for it. Maybe the circles made her look pale and interesting. She hoped so. She lost herself, as she rushed into her dark blue knitted dress, in a dream of intense dramatic interest. In the dream, she wasted away to nothing, and her husband looked on, wringing his hands and begging to be forgiven.

On the subway she read her morning paper. It seemed to her there were more than the usual number of divorce stories, although goodness knew there were always enough of them. She read them with newly sharpened interest. Mr. B. . . . of Riverside Drive was marrying his beautiful secretary as soon as his Reno stay was over. Mrs. W. . . . of Yonkers was getting her decree and shortly thereafter marrying a Slavic nobleman. It was, thought Gypsy, frightening. Didn't anybody stay married nowadays? She had never thought of divorce, before this, in connection with Tom and herself. But her thoughts were morbid this morning.

"Nonsense, nothing has happened," she told herself, robustly. "Why, we haven't even had a cross word." No, but she had discovered how angry she could be with Tom. Why, last night when Hilda Blanchard had been so possessive with him she had wanted to claw her eyes out—and Tom's too, for being such a goose.

Jealousy, Gypsy decided, was a dreadful thing. It was so unreasoning, it was such a bitter, black emotion. It was like a disease. She had had a taste of it before, when Tom had taken Vera Gray to lunch. She had told herself, when that incident had blown over, that nothing like this would ever happen to her again. She would be calm, judicial, she would use her head instead of her heart.

But apparently Tom was the sort of man women ran after. She looked gloomily down a vista in which she rescued him from dozens of affairs. "I can't stand it!" she told herself, in despair. "I won't."

That evening, when Dinah had cleared away and was clattering happily in the kitchen, dropping aluminum saucepans with vigor and slamming spoons down upon the metal topped table, the Weavers "had it out."

It all began quietly. Gypsy started it with a remark about Marko. Tom said something cutting, and she flung back at him, all her good resolutions gone.

"I noticed Hilda Blanchard held on to you all evening," she said, bitterly.

"That's good." Tom's face was flushed. "You were listening to everything that old chap said. You didn't pay any attention to me."

It was terrible . . . terrible. They quarreled in low voices, so that they should not be heard above Dinah's clamor, but even in the kitchen, she stopped slamming kettles about and stood to listen, hands akimbo, shaking her wooly head in sadness.

"Such nice young folks, too," Dinah mourned.

"I didn't want to go, anyway," Tom stormed. "You made me. It was your idea. We don't belong with that crowd. We can't keep up with them."

"You liked it well enough, once you were there," she reminded him. "You had a good time. You danced . . . you flirted . . ."

"What would you have me do?" Tom demanded. He couldn't, he said, be rude to the girl. She was darned attractive, anyhow.

This turned the knife in Gypsy's side.

"Easy enough for her to be attractive," she flared. "She's probably got a personal maid, heaps of clothes, charge accounts everywhere. . . ."

"Oho, so that's it!" Tom stood up. "I suppose the idea is that I'm spoiling your looks, tying you down to drudgery."

"No . . . no . . . I didn't mean that."

She began stormily to cry. She was so angry, so furious with everyone, the world, Tom, and herself in particular. What had happened to them both?

His manner changed. He came over and knelt down beside her, taking her small hands in his. He gave her a clean handkerchief.

"Don't cry, baby," he said, very gently. "We're both being such fools about nothing."

ORTHO CUT COFFEE TO BE HAD ON COAST

The return of Del Monte ortho-cut coffee to the far west has been welcomed by coffee lovers who had come to recognize the quality of this full-flavored coffee and the economy of the ortho-cut grind. This grind, exclusive with Del Monte, is suitable for any type of coffee pot, and has been shown by tests at a large Eastern university to yield 40 to 75 per cent more flavor than ordinary grinds. The evenness of this scientific grind assures uniform brewing of all the coffee particles and thus avoids the bitterness which comes from improper and irregular cooking of the usual uneven grinds.

Certain trade mark restrictions for a while handicapped the distribution of this well known brand in a few western states. The difficulties, however, have now been overcome and Del Monte ortho-cut coffee is again available to the trade and to consumers all over the United States.

THE WEEKLY PANTRY SHELF

Married Flirts

by MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GYPSY MORELL and TOM WEAVER are married the same day as LILA HOTALING and DEREK BLISS. Lila expects to live in luxury, but Gypsy intends to keep her job, teaching in a settlement house.

The first night Gypsy and Tom spend in their New York apartment VERA GRAY, an old friend of Tom's, telephones. Tom asks her to luncheon to meet Gypsy, but Gypsy can't leave her work. Later Vera calls and the two girls dislike each other.

Weeks later Lila and Derek return from their honeymoon in Europe. Lila asks the Weavers to dinner. Among the guests is wealthy MARKO BROUGHTON, who once asked Gypsy to marry him. He showers her with attentions which she accepts because she is jealous of Tom's interest in HILDA BLANCHARD.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII

The evening, on the whole, was far from being a success for Gypsy. She tried flirting mildly with Marko, just to make Tom angry. But it was a thankless business. She didnt really want to quarrel with Tom. The very thought of it turned her just a little sick. They had been so happy. What serpent had entered so suddenly into their little Eden?

It was one o'clock. It was two. It was three. And the music went on and the smoke gathered in clouds and the glasses were filled and emptied, filled and emptied again. Her head began to ache and her spirits flagged. Looking from one face to another, she wondered idly how they stood it, night after night. Why, she was only 22, strong, almost without nerves, and yet she tired of it quickly. Marko, who made the social rounds so briskly, was 50, and his skin was stretched tight around his eyes, he seemed untiring. He must have unexpected stores of strength to draw upon. Marko, reflected Gypsy, was rather wonderful.

At three-ten (and how Gypsy blessed her for it!) young Mrs. Wiltford said they must go—there was something about an early start on the morrow. They were going south . . . Hot Springs. The party began to disintegrate.

Gypsy's own farewells to her hostess were the hollowest of polite lies. She hadn't enjoyed herself at all. She was tired to death, she was almost ill with annoyance at Tom and jealousy of Hilda Blanchard, she was a little ashamed of herself for her mild flirtation with Marko.

And yet she said all the correct things. Lila must come to lunch with her downtown—soon. Oh she meant that, all right. Lila was sweet, she was gay and interested, friendly.

Gypsy was almost speechless with fatigue when the taxi deposited them at their own door. Tom helped her out, without a word. Still silent, he unlocked the door and stood aside to let her into the dark apartment. Gypsy switched on the hall light, yawned, dropped her wrap into a chair. Then she hastily picked it up again. It was all very well for the idle daughters of the rich to behave so with their party clothes. As for her, she must take excellent care of the few she owned, because it would be a long time before she would be able to afford others.

When she came out of the bathroom, having scrubbed the heavy scent of tobacco smoke from her hands and face, wrapped in her woolly robe, Tom was already waiting. His own things were neatly folded and laid across a chair back. Tom, she reflected, was that rare bird, a tidy husband. At least, from all she had heard, such creatures were rare. She gave him a brief inquiring glance and saw that he still wore the frown he'd adopted when they had left the others. Was Tom going to sulk? Oh, she hoped not. Gypsy, herself, could never harbor a grievance. She had been taught never to let the sun go down upon her anger.

As she brushed her hair, she could hear Tom's vigorous splashing. She let her glance rove around the little room, and what she saw she inevitably contracted with Lila's exotic boudoir. Involuntarily a sigh escaped her.

"Don't you feel well?" Tom was beside her.

"Just tired."

He threw back the covers on his own bed. "Good night," he said, very formally. He kissed her coolly on the cheek. Gypsy wanted to cry out, to say something angry and hurtful about Hilda Blanchard and the way he had devoted himself to her all evening. But she was actually too weary to quarrel, although a quarrel might have cleared the air. She answered him in her turn coldly. Tom waited until she had got between her own neat sheet and green blankets. Then he turned out the light, flung the window wide, and got into bed.

Long after he was asleep, Gypsy lay awake. She had to get up at half past seven, she knew that. But just the same, she tossed and turned. She was tense, she was angry, she was bewildered. Just before dawn came streaking into the grey canon of the street, she fell uneasily asleep.

Breakfast was a dreary affair. The Weavers were scrupulously polite to each other.

"More toast, Tom?"

"We might," Gypsy reflected, gloomily, "have been married for centuries."

He came back into the living room with his overcoat on, his gray soft hat in his hand, to say good-by. Gypsy's lip trembled a little. This —this really was dreadful! Where was Tom? Where was her own boy? She couldn't find him, in this stiff and formal stranger.

"It's Dinah's night on," she told him. "Dinner at seven."

"Right. At seven." And he was gone.

She sat down and cried. She couldnt help it. Well, she had no time for this. A business woman-wife didn't. She'd have to hurry. Bath. Cold cream. Dash of lipstick. Heavens she loked a wreck! What circles she had under her eyes!

Well, there was no help for it. Maybe the circles made her look pale and interesting. She hoped so. She lost herself, as she rushed into her dark blue knitted dress, in a dream of intense dramatic interest. In the dream, she wasted away to nothing, and her husband looked on, wringing his hands and begging to be forgiven.

On the subway she read her morning paper. It seemed to her there were more than the usual number of divorce stories, although goodness knew there were always enough of them. She read them with newly sharpened interest. Mr. B. . . . of Riverside Drive was marrying his beautiful secretary as soon as his Reno stay was over. Mrs. W. . . . of Yonkers was getting her decree and shortly thereafter marrying a Slavic nobleman. It was, thought Gypsy, frightening. Didn't anybody stay married nowadays? She had never thought of divorce, before this, in connection with Tom and herself. But her thoughts were morbid this morning.

"Nonsense, nothing has happened," she told herself, robustly. "Why, we haven't even had a cross word." No, but she had discovered how angry she could be with Tom. Why, last night when Hilda Blanchard had been so possessive with him she had wanted to claw her eyes out—and Tom's too, for being such a goose.

Jealousy, Gypsy decided, was a dreadful thing. It was so unreasoning, it was such a bitter, black emotion. It was like a disease. She had had a taste of it, before, when Tom had taken Vera Gray to lunch. She had told herself, when that incident had blown over, that nothing like this would ever happen to her again. She would be calm, judicial, she would use her head instead of her heart.

But apparently Tom was the sort of man women ran after. She looked gloomily down a vista in which she rescued him from dozens of affairs. "I can't stand it!" she told herself, in despair. "I won't."

That evening, when Dinah had cleared away and was clattering happily in the kitchen, dropping aluminum saucepans with vigor and slamming spoons down upon the metal topped table, the Weavers "had it out."

It all began quietly. Gypsy started it with a remark about Marko. Tom said something cutting, and she flung back at him, all her good resolutions gone.

"I noticed Hilda Blanchard held on to you all evening," she said, bitterly.

"That's good." Tom's face was flushed. "You were listening to everything that old chap said. You didn't pay any attention to me."

It was terrible . . . terrible. They quarreled in low voices, so that they should not be heard above Dinah's clamor, but even in the kitchen, she stopped slamming kettles about and stood to listen, hands akimbo, shaking her wooly head in sadness.

"Such nice young folks, too," Dinah mourned.

"I didn't want to go, anyway," Tom stormed. "You made me. It was your idea. We don't belong with that crowd. We can't keep up with them."

"You liked it well enough, once you were there," she reminded him. "You had a good time. You danced . . . you flirted . . ."

"What would you have me do?" Tom demanded. He couldn't, he said, be rude to the girl. She was darned attractive, anyhow.

This turned the knife in Gypsy's side.

"Easy enough for her to be attractive," she flared. "She's probably got a personal maid, heaps of clothes, charge accounts everywhere. . . ."

"Oho, so that's it!" Tom stood up. "I suppose the idea is that I'm spoiling your looks, tying you down to drudgery."

"No . . . no . . . I didn't mean that."

She began stormily to cry. She was so angry, so furious with everyone, the world, Tom, and herself in particular. What had happened to them both?

His manner changed. He came over and knelt down beside her, taking her small hands in his. He gave her a clean handkerchief.

"Don't cry, baby," he said, very gently. "We're both being such fools about nothing."

Service Club Members

Fourteen boys were formally initiated into the Lathrop Boys' Service club at the regular luncheon meeting last week. The president, Allen Patterson, presided and welcomed the new members into the organization. Those receiving this honor were: Bob Kerchner, Howard Ryan, Bill Capps, Eugene Clyes, Brent Walberg, James McCain, Donald Anderson, Jim Dudley, Nelson Harnois, Normal Miller, Edgar Stryker, Joe Standifer, Charles Perrung and Lyle Vander Walker.

Ferris Scott, sponsor of the club, gave a short announcement concerning the emblem which will soon be adopted by the members. He also reminded the boys of the fishing trip which will be an event of early spring. This special trip is awarded on the basis of prompt and regular attendance.

"The Outlaw King"

Lathrop's operetta, "The Outlaw King" has been definitely arranged for three performances on January 24 and 25 at the Willard auditorium. This selection promises to meet the usual high standards of Lathrop musical events, and much enthusiasm is already aroused this production.

Major Carries, prominent in Community Player activities will have charge of the stage setting. He was formerly instructor of dramatics in Orange High school and is now associated with Santa Ana Polytechnic high school. The elaborate costuming and stage setting, which will be as realistic to early English period of history as possible, will lend considerably to the interest of the production.

Miss Edith Cornell and Mrs. Maxine Bryte, instructors of music and dramatics at Lathrop have worked diligently with the cast of "The Outlaw King" for the past two months. The cast consists of practically the entire number of students taking music this term.

Course of Study

Inquiries from every section of the state have come to H. G. Nelson regarding the integrated school work as worked out in the Lathrop course of study this term. Educators have been greatly interested in the splendid progress being achieved under this integrated plan of work.

New Students

Several new students have enrolled since Christmas vacation. C. R. Lemons has returned after a year at Garden Grove; Eugene Edwards has enrolled from Westminster; William Henry comes from Serra; Maybelle and Albert Springmeyer have enrolled from Orange. Lathrop is glad to welcome these new students as members of the student body.

Students are making preparation in their various classes for the final first semester examinations which will be given during the next two weeks. Comment sheets and grades will be issued January 26.

Vikings Enjoy Weekly Program

Miss Lota Blythe's low 7th grade section seems to be more alive than any other home room class in school. At least they have a weekly program and are prompt about handing in their reports.

This past week a varied program was enjoyed. Mary Drysdale presided. A humorous skit was arranged by David Brown, the title of which was "The funny lady who bothered the announcer."

Joanne Winters sang, "Annie Doesn't Live Here Anymore," a dialogue was presented by Mary Drysdale and Clessa Burks. "A Midnight Scare"; Jean Thwaite gave a program; Robert Haven played a violin solo.

Alton Fowler and Eugene Cloyes were the announcers for the program. Clessa Burks furnished a treat of candy to the class.

Student Body Candidates

Interest and enthusiasm have been expressed regarding the officers to be elected to serve the ensuing term. The student caucus met last Wednesday at which time students running for office were heard. Following the speeches the nominees were selected and on Friday of this week the candidates will be presented for election by the general student body.

Healthy ... Happy ... Wise!

COUNT those friends of yours who get a lot of happiness out of living. Health helps them see the bright side of things—smooths over the every-day bumps. They're happy because they're healthy.

Downcast days frequently follow common constipation. It may cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy. Yet it can be overcome usually by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regularity. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Special processes of cooking and flavoring make Kellogg's ALL-BRAN more palatable than ordinary bran.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

IMPORTANT

One important thing to remember in buying a bran product for the relief of constipation—is to look at the label. The Food and Drug Administration has advised that all bran products should state clearly on the package just what they contain.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—because it is all bran with only flavor added, gives you the generous amount of "bulk" needed to promote proper elimination.

MINISTER SAYS PRINCIPLES OF CHRIST NEEDED

ANAHEIM, Jan. 12.—The need of Christ-like principles to keep the United States out of wars was voiced last night by the Rev. A. F. Ritchie, minister of the Church of Christ, who delivered the sermon at the First Presbyterian church in the Week of Prayer series.

"The best ambassadors that we have had to foreign countries are the missionaries, he declared as he said that they showed a better peace and understanding than the political delegates.

The service was opened with a prayer given by the Rev. Raymond C. Harker of the White Temple Methodist church. The Rev. Thomas H. Walker of the First Presbyterian church led the singing and the Rev. S. E. Schraeder of the Salem Evangelical church closed the service with prayer.

Tonight will be the last prayer meeting and the sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Mr. Walker, "Christ in the Church."

RUTH TAUNTON TALKS BEFORE B. & P. W. CLUB

ANAHEIM, Jan. 12.—A review of conditions in Congress and the White House, made from personal observation during her year in Washington, D. C., in 1932-33—was the gist of Miss Ruth Taunton's address last night to the Anaheim Business and Professional Women's club who had as guests members from Santa Ana, Orange and Los Angeles.

Miss Taunton told her meetings with President Hoover, President Roosevelt and General Johnson as well as other prominent figures in the days news. As publicity chairman for the National Women's party and later as magazine writer Miss Taunton had the opportunity of seeing much of the inside of Washington life.

The musical program was provided by Mrs. Kate E. McCullah who presented Eugene Morris singing a group of negro spirituals.

There were fifteen members present from the Los Angeles Business Woman's Legislative Council.

Mrs. Sam Kraemer jr., will review "Autumn Crocus" at the next meeting of the club.

C. OF C. DIRECTORS AND BOARD PARLEY

ANAHEIM, Jan. 12.—Discussion of the housing problem at the Anaheim Union High school was taken up yesterday noon by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce that had as its guests the board of trustees from the high school, at the meeting held at the Pickwick hotel.

While several tentative plans were presented for discussion nothing was decided upon and the same group was asked to meet next week.

Among the plans suggested was that of holding another bond election, the one of December 18 for $275,000, having been lost. Chamber of Commerce members expressed themselves as feeling sure that th election was lost for want of publicity.

Members of the high school board present were C. E. Harbeson, A. H. Pibel, A. C. Ruitcel. Henry Ramm and Principal J. A. Clayes. Mr. Ruitcel, as vice-president of the booster body, acted as presiding officer for the day.

Anaheim Police Notes

ANAHEIM, Jan. 12.—Alexandra Espinoza, Ascencion Hernandez and Jesse Ayala, all of Anaheim, were dismissed yesterday morning in Judge Frank Tausch's court for lack of evidence. They were under a felony charge, suspicion of attack with a deadly weapon.

The three were transferred over to the Anaheim Justice court where they were each fined $10 for disturbing the peace.

CITRUS HOUSE HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING HERE

ANAHEIM, Jan. 12.—With the annual financial statement to be mailed to members next week the Anaheim Lemon and Orange association held its annual meeting yesterday afternoon at the packing house for the purpose of electing directors for the coming year, the organization to be completed Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock when the president will be chosen.

Those elected were B. J. Weisel, Ernest Borchert, J. M. Callan, Joseph Carol, Dr. L. C. Demington, Herman Allgeyer and J. W. Sandilands.

Dalton Field of the Grower's Service department of the California Fruit Grower's Exchange and A. H. Kirchman, manager of the Central Orange County Fruit Exchange, talked on stabilization and market prospects for next year. Both expressed themselves as being very encouraged because of the increase in buying power and the 100 percent stabilization of the industry made by the federal government.

G. W. Sandilands, manager of the association, reviewed activities of the house in 1933.

MINISTER SAYS PRINCIPLES OF CHRIST NEEDED

ANAHEIM, Jan. 12.—The need of Christ-like principles to keep the United States out of wars was voiced last night by the Rev. A. F. Ritchie, minister of the Church of Christ, who delivered the sermon at the First Presbyterian church in the Week of Prayer series.

"The best ambassadors that we have had to foreign countries are the missionaries, he declared as he said that they showed a better peace and understanding than the political delegates.

The service was opened with a prayer given by the Rev. Raymond C. Harker of the White Temple Methodist church. The Rev. Thomas H. Walker of the First Presbyterian church led the singing and the Rev. S. E. Schraeder of the Salem Evangelical church closed the service with prayer.

Tonight will be the last prayer meeting and the sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Mr. Walker, "Christ in the Church."

RUTH TAUNTON TALKS BEFORE B. & P. W. CLUB

ANAHEIM, Jan. 12.—A review of conditions in Congress and the White House, made from personal observation during her year in Washington, D. C., in 1932-33—was the gist of Miss Ruth Taunton's address last night to the Anaheim Business and Professional Women's club who had as guests members from Santa Ana, Orange and Los Angeles.

Miss Taunton told her meetings with President Hoover, President Roosevelt and General Johnson as well as other prominent figures in the days news. As publicity chairman for the National Women's party and later as magazine writer Miss Taunton had the opportunity of seeing much of the inside of Washington life.

The musical program was provided by Mrs. Kate E. McCullah who presented Eugene Morris singing a group of negro spirituals.

The long tables were decorated with baskets of delphinium and stalks while a gardenia corsage was at the place of the guest of honor.

There were fifteen members present from the Los Angeles Business Woman's Legislative Council.

Mrs. Sam Kraemer jr., will review "Autumn Crocus" at the next meeting of the club.

C. OF C. DIRECTORS AND BOARD PARLEY

ANAHEIM, Jan. 12.—Discussion of the housing problem at the Anaheim Union High school was taken up yesterday noon by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce that had as its guests the board of trustees from the high school, at the meeting held at the Pickwick hotel.

While several tentative plans were presented for discussion nothing was decided upon and the same group was asked to meet next week.

Among the plans suggested was that of holding another bond election, the one of December 18 for $275,000, having been lost. Chamber of Commerce members expressed themselves as feeling sure that th election was lost for want of publicity.

Members of the high school board present were C. E. Harbeson, A. H. Pibel, A. C. Ruitcel. Henry Ramm and Principal J. A. Clayes. Mr. Ruitcel, as vice-president of the booster body, acted as presiding officer for the day.

Anaheim Police Notes

ANAHEIM, Jan. 12.—Alezandra Espinoza, Ascencion Hernandez and Jesse Ayala, all of Anaheim, were dismissed yesterday morning in Judge Frank Tausch's court for lack of evidence. They were under a felony charge, suspicion of attack with a deadly weapon.

The three were transferred over to the Anaheim Justice court where they were each fined $10 for disturbing the peace.

CITRUS HOUSE HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING HERE

ANAHEIM, Jan. 12.—With the annual financial statement to be mailed to members next week the Anaheim Lemon and Orange association held its annual meeting yesterday afternoon at the packing house for the purpose of electing directors for the coming year, the organization to be completed Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock when the president will be chosen.

Those elected were B. J. Weisel, Ernest Borchert, J. M. Callan, Joseph Carol, Dr. L. C. Demington, Herman Allgeyer and J. W. Sandilands.

Dalton Field of the Grower's Service department of the California Fruit Grower's Exchange and A. H. Kirchman, manager of the Central Orange County Fruit Exchange, talked on stabilization and market prospects for next year. Both expressed themselves as being very encouraged because of the increase in buying power and the 100 percent stabilization of the industry made by the federal government.

G. W. Sandilands, manager of the association, reviewed activities of the house in 1933.

A Profit and An Income on Investment

A salary income all the year at the same time and from the same source. A sound investment, and assured salary income. This income property is a food plant that will require ten persons, three in plant, seven on outside and in office (a place for one or two business women) the plan is for this group to own and operate it and the bond holders get out entirely. A National bank has it and must sell as new banking law requires it. The plant at about one-fourth of its reproduction cost of today is a serious set of figures for those who need to make another beginning as the product from it carries a good profit margin from which to pay salaries to those who own and operate it and earnings on their investment. An appraisal of this plant was made by the Pacific Appraisal Company summer 1932 and figures from this and sketches by civil engineer are available here. For full information address Post Office Box 402, Santa Ana.

A Profit and An Income on Investment

A salary income all the year at the same time and from the same source. A sound investment, and assured salary income. This income property is a food plant that will require ten persons, three in plant, seven on outside and in offices (a place for one or two business women) the plant is for this group to own and operate it and the bond holders get out entirely. A National bank has it and must sell as new banking law requires it. The plant at about one-fourth of its reproduction cost of today is a serious set of figures for those who need to make another beginning as the product from it carries a good profit margin from which to pay salaries to those who own and operate it and earnings on their investment. An appraisal of this plant was made by the Pacific Appraisal Company summer 1932 and figures from this and sketches by civil engineer are available here. For full information address Post Office Box 402, Santa Ana.

SCHOOL BOARD DECIDES NOT TO HOLD ELECTION

The school board has determined not to have an election upon the question of whether they shall accept the R. F. C. money for high schools and elementary schools in our city.

We believe that this was not only a wise decision, but the only just attitude which the school trustees could take. This money has been made available through the Federal government, under very favorable conditions. By processes, which might be open to criticism, and certainly of which we do not approve, the board was almost forced to reach the decision which they did reach, and entered into a contract for the building of the high school, providing the plans were accepted.

There came a time when they had to declare to the R. F. C. committee that had the allocation of the funds, whether they would accept the funds or not. The board members cut down the totals for the plans and specifications by $200,000, and under this pressure of accepting the money, or having nowhere else to get it, they agreed to take it. They were practically forced to this decision. They knew if they did not take this money, there was nowhere else the money could be obtained.

It was impossible to bond the school district because of statutory limitations. If they refused to take it, the handicaps might be almost unlimited as the time passed. The state authorities held the whip hand, by reason of a very severe building code, which has been enacted, that only a thousand dollars could be expended without the approval of the state board. And unless our local school board practically followed the direction of the state, they could not get this approval. They had nothing else to do then, if they were to remove the handicaps under which they were laboring, with "condemned" buildings, than to follow the suggestion and direction of the state. Hence they agreed to accept the money. It was "signed, sealed, and delivered."

Then, because of some objection and wanting to relieve themselves of the onus of responsibility, there were those who suggested that a "straw vote," or an informative vote, be had of the people of the school district. This vote would not have had any binding legal force. Even where there was a bond issue up in Anaheim, less than 20 per cent of the registered vote was cast. Under conditions here, it is very probable that not more than eight or 10 per cent of the vote would be cast, if that much. It certainly would have been such a small fraction of the total electorate which was to express itself, when it had no binding force, that it would have been worthless as a means by which the school board could be guided in its action.

After considering this matter for several days, therefore, they have decided against the election. It has unquestionably been a disagreeable duty they have had to perform in this. Probably none of them are satisfied with what they have had to do. But when our bonded indebtedness has almost reached the limit; when an earthquake comes and injures our school buildings; when the state passes a code that forces us into a strait-jacket of action; when there is only one source of supply of money, and when, after every possible contingency, the school board comes to a conclusion which seems to them wise and right, and that decision is about the only choice that could be made, we desire to express our sympathy for them, and our support of their action.

It isn't a question of whether we like it—we don't. But we probably like it just as well as they do. It was unfortunate in the beginning that action was taken that amounted to a contract with the architect in charge. But that is another story, and does not affect this decision.

We are glad that we will do away with the expense and annoyance of an election. And while it makes an additional burden upon the people of the district, yet that burden is made as light as it can be, because of the reduced interest and the length of time of payment.

The children receiving an education in the high school today, and in the immediate future, will be paying for their own privileges, as they will soon be the ones who must meet the tax burden. Probably they will be thankful that they have received the benefits which the school board is hereby the instrument of furnishing them.

THE AUTOMOBILE SHOWS

This is the season of the year when new and improved styles of automobiles are being introduced to the public. Each year marks some new device to make the riding in an automobile more comfortable, and the driving of it more simple. This is quite different from what it was a dozen years ago when the Dodge car, which this year has adopted the most radical change in body design and other parts, was advertised as the car which did not change every year, and when Henry Ford resisted all modification of hood or anything else on the ground that all that mattered was the works under the hood.

Never in the history of the automobile industry was so much given for an equal amount of money as there is today, in spite of the much-talked of depreciated dollar. The $1300 Dodge of a dozen years ago, with curtains only, and fabric tires, will buy a Buick sedan with all the improvements today. And the price of the Buick at that time will buy a Cadillac today.

The question is, how far can this improvement and lower price go on? There must come an end. Improvement will undoubtedly go on, but as conditions in the country improve, the price is bound to go up. This is the sales talk of the automobile salesman today, and we are inclined to think he is right.

Our largest industry, practically unknown thirty years ago, goes merrily on. There have been many casualties in the industry. Wintons, Appersons, Paiges, Chandlers, and many others of the early days are only memories. Those which remain are doing the business better and cheaper. A breakdown away from home is no longer a major catastrophe. There is always a service station with all the parts around the next or the second corner. And as for tires, punctures and blowouts are ancient history. The old song, "Get out and get under," is no longer understood by the younger generation out for a joyride.

Every manufacturer is looking for a good year; and we opine that they are not going to be disappointed.

THE COUNTRY THRILLS TO THE HAWAIIAN FLIGHT

The country was thrilled last evening, on receipt of the information from Honolulu, that the six navy planes, headed by Lieutenant-Commander Knefler McGinnis, reached their destined port, Honolulu, in slightly more than the period of one full calendar day.

This thrill was not due to the length of time these men were in the air—others have been in the air for a longer period. It was not due to the distance which they traveled in a non-stop flight—others have covered a longer distance. It was not due to the dangers or hazards of the trip, for every precaution had been made for such protection, including the number of planes in the company. But the thrill came over the manifestation of the organized power of the airplane in meeting the exigencies, in formation, of conditions they might have to encounter under different circumstances.

When ordinary navy military aggressive planes, without a solitary mishap, or the missing of a throb of the engine, can go in groups, carrying several men to the plane, over a broad expanse of the ocean, and center upon a particular point, it is a demonstration, to a very considerable extent, of the values of peace, and the continued shrinking of the world.

We congratulate the navy; we congratulate these men; we congratulate our country on this demonstration. It is an illustration of the use to which these instruments can be put. It emphasizes that we all must be neighborly, because we are forced to live so close together. This also incidentally demonstrates the utter waste of money in building cruisers and battleships.

Squashing the Pumpkin

Christian Science Monitor

It is all very well to talk of straightening out old tangles. But sometimes it seems that there is a time to straighten and a time to leave well enough alone. In this vein one reads the notice from the University of California, where an agricultural authority has attacked the question of squashes and pumpkins. The squash he declares, is usually miscalled a pumpkin, and the pumpkin a squash. What we have long called summer squashes are pumpkins, and the enormous fellows that decorate the county fairs are squashes.

One begins to accept, but then remembers his Mother Goose:

Peter, Peter, pumpkin eater,
Had a wife and couldn't keep her.
He put her in a pumpkin shell,
And there he kept her very well.

Was he Peter, pumpkin eater, or was he a consumer of squash? Was it after all a pumpkin shell in which he confined his elusive wife? It really is too confusing.

And the maze grows worse as we look about. One almost wishes that the California authority had left the matter alone. What about Cinderella? Was her coach a pumpkin after all? Or must we rearrange all our youthful memories and visualize a squash? It doesn't sound right somehow.

Clarification indeed! Who wants such clarification? Imagine a jack-o'-lantern made out of a squash. It just doesn't seem fitting. And if such were true then the delicacy that remains in the kitchen becomes squash pie and not pumpkin pie? Or does it? Or doesn't it? The further this sort of clarification process is carried the more obscure it becomes.

Teachers of the World and Peace

The Schoolmaster (London)

If teachers throughout the world will do what they are admittedly able to do, war can be eradicated from this planet.

We do not mean that teachers could prevent a war this year or next year. The teaching profession deals in futures. The fruits of its efforts can be harvested only after many years. But the soil is fertile and the harvest is sure. Teachers can so direct education as to dispel ignorance of the people of foreign lands and remove those prejudices and hatreds which arise from lies or from faulty and inadequate knowledge. It will be all to the good if children freely learn that other nations can sometimes be right: that people of other lands may have legitimate ambitions, that foreigners may have intellectual, artistic, and moral contributions to make to the world order. Patriotism is not thereby imperilled.

Napoleon once said, "There are only two powers, the Sword and the Mind—and it is the Mind that conquers." Teachers are in a position to shape this conquering power. And they need not employ the devices of propaganda. The teaching of citizenship is not propaganda, nor is the teaching of respect for law and respect for one's brother man. Similarly it is not propaganda to teach world citizenship and respect for other nations.

. . . Teachers have this matter largely in their own hands. They have formulated a common policy: it is for them to put it into operation. They have power, and we appeal to them to use it. They have the power to influence the future of the world. If they do they can help to exorcise once and for all the demon of war, and to bring about the reign of peace between the nations.

More Truth Than Poetry

PREFERENCE

I am fond of great adventure,
I should dearly love to rove
Where the tapirs
Cut up capers
In some far Bolivian grove.
I should like to shoot a jaguar
Dashing 'round in mad career
But I'd rather—
So much rather—

Off the shores of Puget Sound—
Scaly creatures
With fierce features,
Swimming 'round and 'round and 'round;
I would like to chase and shoot one
As it basked upon a bar,
But I'd hate to—
How I'd hate to—
Go so far.

And those rhinos, when indignant,
Are exciting brutes to view;
There's no languor
In their anger
When the jungle they rush through;
I should like to go and kill one,
With a single deadly shot,
But it's risky—
Very risky—
So I'll not.

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape

Me and pop was taking a wawk before supper and I said, G. pop, have you got a little cawff or have you just got something in your throat?

I've got something in my throat but I'm afraid it's a little cawff, pop said. And one difference between little colds and little children is that they shouldn't be encourraged to grow into big colds. So I think I'll step this very moment into this drug store and get some throat lozengers, he said.

And he went in, pop saying to the drug store man, I want something to knock a cawff, please.

Yes sir, I have all the avvertized preparations in various forms, the drug store man said. How about mono hydrafluorine, for instants? It comes in bottles, he said, and pop said, That's not serprising, it would take at least a bottle to hold all that.

Then there's nixo tetragargaline, I have lots of calls for nixo tetragargaline, the drug store man said, and pop said, Really? You must do quite a bizzness among the forrin speeking population.

Spindrox dallyhedron is an effective preparation, the drug store man said, and pop said, It sounds like it, but I'd feel like such a coward exposing a little scarcely developed cawff to all that.

The Merfy Stein laboratories put out a good thing called Merstax Antistrepolin, it comes in little pills, would you care to try a box? the drug store man said, and pop said, No, thanks, I don't think I'd dare to trust a little pill that had been treeted like that. What's this, do my eyes deceeve me or do I see a case of little boxes labelled in simply stately Anglo Saxon English A-1 Cawff Lozengers? he said.

There's one good thing about those lonzengers, they'll sure stop a cawff, the drug store man said, and pop said. By gollies that's another thing in their favor, I'll take a box.

Wich he did.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

RESEARCH AND THE NEW DEAL

Yesterday I stressed the importance of adequate and accurate data as the basis for a safe development of the Rooseveltian partnership between government and industry for national economic planning.

This issue has even broader implications. It involves nothing less than creation of a new politics equipped to serve this new age, which differs so radically from the age when the main patterns and processes of our politics were designed.

The complexity, scale and speed of the present age demand national planning.

National planning, however, may prove perilous unless it is engineered by a statesmenship that rests upon two things:

(1) A scientific study of the causes of social and economic problems.

(2) A statistical study of the results of social and economic policies.

This is not to say that we should have government by specialists. I do not think we should. Statesmanship is an art as well as science. I am saying only that the art of politics must be grounded in the science of objective economics.

We must put back of our changing body of representatives a constant group of researchers who will keep a fact-basis under our political consideration of national policies.

There can be no such thing as Democratic or Republican economics. There can be sound or unsound economics. And the facts that reveal causes and effects can alone prove the soundness or unsoundness of policies.

The world around, people grow daily more disillusioned with the mere politics of debate and compromise. This is one reason why so many nations have thrown parliamentary government overboard, wiped out competing parties and lodged authority in a unitary government of the Fascist sort.

We are not ready to say that unitary government of the Fascist brand is the way out. If we can set up the mechanisms that will bring together the facts upon which policy can be soundly formulated, and if we can school ourselves to respect facts regardless of what they do to our party slogans, we shall, I suspect, find that we have acted more wisely than the nations now surrendered to dictatorships.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

THE MONITOR

"I must go to the office for a few minutes, children. While I am gone Daniel will be in charge. He will take the names of all those who whisper or are disorderly in any way. I don't want to hear that any one of you misbehaved while I was out. All right, Daniel. Take my chair."

Daniel, serious in the face of his weighty responsibility takes his stand by the desk. If he sat down he might not see the offenders. Johnny Willis, red-headed and irrepressible, giggles, raises his hand and says, "Please, teacher, could you suck a lemon?"

Daniel turns a light shade of pink. He tries to look superior, like one above such low ideas. Sammy Robinson takes his cue from Johnny. "Please teacher, what makes your hair stick up in back like that?"

Now his double crown that rebelliously resists the combined efforts of comb and brush is the sore spot in Daniel's pride. He has always hoped the fellows didn't notice it and here it is paraded in full view of the whole class who seem to enjoy looking at it and grinning appreciatively at Sammy's jibe. Daniel loses his pose and snaps back.

"Comb you own hair, Sam Lewis. I'm going to put your name down and report you. See what you get."

"BOO-oo-oo," the response of the class is instant and defiant and insulting.

"I'll report everyone of you. Think your smart. Just because the teacher is out and—"

"Cry, why don't you, Danny. It's easy. You're almost crying now. Teacher's little precious pet."

"You shut up, Johnny Willis. You're reported."

"Well, well, what's all this? Didn't I leave Daniel in charge?

"Yes ma'am, and just the minute your back was turned Johnny Willis began and Sammy Lewis, he helped and all the rest of the class Boo-oo-ed at me."

"O, they did. Very well. This class will remain after school today and the two leaders will stay in every day for the remainder of this week. Take readers and open to page eighty-four. Of course Daniel will be excused as usual."

Forty-four pairs of eyes threaten Daniel's peace of mind and comfort of body and he knows no peace until he reaches home in safety. "I don't want to go to school today. I don't feel well," says he next morning and mother puts him to bed and takes his temperature and wonders what is wrong with him. We could tell her. Daniel is afraid that Johnny or Sammy will lie in wait for him and punch him all over the lot. What's more we know that his fears are more than likely well grounded. The rule is ironclad. No snitching. Snitch and get yours.

The whole matter could be adjusted by having a relief teacher instead of the child monitor. No child should be obliged to shoulder such a responsibility. It is unfair. And no class of younger children should ever be left without a responsible teacher.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing a three-cent stamped addressed envelope for reply.)

SCHOOL BOARD DECIDES NOT TO HOLD ELECTION

The school board has determined not to have an election upon the question of whether they shall accept the R. F. C. money for high schools and elementary schools in our city.

We believe that this was not only a wise decision, but the only just attitude which the school trustees could take. This money has been made available through the Federal government, under very favorable conditions. By processes, which might be open to criticism, and certainly of which we do not approve, the board was almost forced to reach the decision which they did reach, and entered into a contract for the building of the high school, providing the plans were accepted.

There came a time when they had to declare to the R. F. C. committee that had the allocation of the funds, whether they would accept the funds or not. The board members cut down the totals for the plans and specifications by $200,000, and under this pressure of accepting the money, or having nowhere else to get it, they agreed to take it. They were practically forced to this decision. They knew if they did not take this money, there was nowhere else the money could be obtained.

It was impossible to bond the school district because of statutory limitations. If they refused to take it, the handicaps might be almost unlimited as the time passed. The state authorities held the whip hand, by reason of a very severe building code, which has been enacted, that only a thousand dollars could be expended without the approval of the state board. And unless our local school board practically followed the direction of the state, they could not get this approval. They had nothing else to do then, if they were to remove the handicaps under which they were laboring, with "condemned" buildings, than to follow the suggestion and direction of the state. Hence they agreed to accept the money. It was "signed, sealed, and delivered."

Then, because of some objection and wanting to relieve themselves of the onus of responsibility, there were those who suggested that a "straw vote," or an informative vote, be had of the people of the school district. This vote would not have had any binding legal force. Even where there was a bond issue up in Anaheim, less than 20 per cent of the registered vote was cast. Under conditions here, it is very probable that not more than eight or 10 per cent of the vote would be cast, if that much. It certainly would have been such a small fraction of the total electorate which was to express itself, when it had no binding force, that it would have been worthless as a means by which the school board could be guided in its action.

After considering this matter for several days, therefore, they have decided against the election. It has unquestionably been a disagreeable duty they have had to perform in this. Probably none of them are satisfied with what they have had to do. But when our bonded indebtedness has almost reached the limit; when an earthquake comes and injures our school buildings; when the state passes a code that forces us into a strait-jacket of action; when there is only one source of supply of money, and when, after every possible contingency, the school board comes to a conclusion which seems to them wise and right, and that decision is about the only choice that could be made, we desire to express our sympathy for them, and our support of their action.

It isn't a question of whether we like it—we don't. But we probably like it just as well as they do. It was unfortunate in the beginning that action was taken that amounted to a contract with the architect in charge. But that is another story, and does not affect this decision.

We are glad that we will do away with the expense and annoyance of an election. And while it makes an additional burden upon the people of the district, yet that burden is made as light as it can be, because of the reduced interest and the length of time of payment.

The children receiving an education in the high school today, and in the immediate future, will be paying for their own privileges, as they will soon be the ones who must meet the tax burden. Probably they will be thankful that they have received the benefits which the school board is hereby the instrument of furnishing them.

THE AUTOMOBILE SHOWS

This is the season of the year when new and improved styles of automobiles are being introduced to the public. Each year marks some new device to make the riding in an automobile more comfortable, and the driving of it more simple. This is quite different from what it was a dozen years ago when the Dodge car, which this year has adopted the most radical change in body design and other parts, was advertised as the car which did not change every year, and when Henry Ford resisted all modification of hood or anything else on the ground that all that mattered was the works under the hood.

Never in the history of the automobile industry was so much given for an equal amount of money as there is today, in spite of the much-talked of depreciated dollar. The $1300 Dodge of a dozen years ago, with curtains only, and fabric tires, will buy a Buick sedan with all the improvements today. And the price of the Buick at that time will buy a Cadillac today.

The question is, how far can this improvement and lower price go on? There must come an end. Improvement will undoubtedly go on, but as conditions in the country improve, the price is bound to go up. This is the sales talk of the automobile salesman today, and we are inclined to think he is right.

Our largest industry, practically unknown thirty years ago, goes merrily on. There have been many casualties in the industry. Wintons, Appersons, Paiges, Chandlers, and many others of the early days are only memories. Those which remain are doing the business better and cheaper. A breakdown away from home is no longer a major catastrophe. There is always a service station with all the parts around the next or the second corner. And as for tires, punctures and blowouts are ancient history. The old song, "Get out and get under," is no longer understood by the younger generation out for a joyride.

Every manufacturer is looking for a good year; and we opine that they are not going to be disappointed.

THE COUNTRY THRILLS TO THE HAWAIIAN FLIGHT

The country was thrilled last evening, on receipt of the information from Honolulu, that the six navy planes, headed by Lieutenant-Commander Knefler McGinnis, reached their destined port, Honolulu, in slightly more than the period of one full calendar day.

This thrill was not due to the length of time these men were in the air—others have been in the air for a longer period. It was not due to the distance which they traveled in a non-stop flight—others have covered a longer distance. It was not due to the dangers or hazards of the trip, for every precaution had been made for such protection, including the number of planes in the company. But the thrill came over the manifestation of the organized power of the airplane in meeting the exigencies, in formation, of conditions they might have to encounter under different circumstances.

When ordinary navy military aggressive planes, without a solitary mishap, or the missing of a throb of the engine, can go in groups, carrying several men to the plane, over a broad expanse of the ocean, and center upon a particular point, it is a demonstration, to a very considerable extent, of the values of peace, and the continued shrinking of the world.

We congratulate the navy; we congratulate these men; we congratulate our country on this demonstration. It is an illustration of the use to which these instruments can be put. It emphasizes that we all must be neighborly, because we are forced to live so close together. This also incidentally demonstrates the utter waste of money in building cruisers and battleships.

Squashing the Pumpkin

Christian Science Monitor

It is all very well to talk of straightening out old tangles. But sometimes it seems that there is a time to straighten and a time to leave well enough alone. In this vein one reads the notice from the University of California, where an agricultural authority has attacked the question of squashes and pumpkins. The squash he declares, is usually miscalled a pumpkin, and the pumpkin a squash. What we have long called summer squashes are pumpkins, and the enormous fellows that decorate the county fairs are squashes.

One begins to accept, but then remembers his Mother Goose:

Peter, Peter, pumpkin eater,
Had a wife and couldn't keep her.
He put her in a pumpkin shell,
And there he kept her very well.

Was he Peter, pumpkin eater, or was he a consumer of squash? Was it after all a pumpkin shell in which he confined his elusive wife? It really is too confusing.

And the maze grows worse as we look about. One almost wishes that the California authority had left the matter alone. What about Cinderella? Was her coach a pumpkin after all? Or must we rearrange all our youthful memories and visualize a squash? It doesn't sound right somehow.

Clarification indeed! Who wants such clarification? Imagine a jack-o'-lantern made out of a squash. It just doesn't seem fitting. And if such were true then the delicacy that remains in the kitchen becomes squash pie and not pumpkin pie? Or does it? Or doesn't it? The further this sort of clarification process is carried the more obscure it becomes.

Teachers of the World and Peace

The Schoolmaster (London)

If teachers throughout the world will do what they are admittedly able to do, war can be eradicated from this planet.

We do not mean that teachers could prevent a war this year or next year. The teaching profession deals in futures. The fruits of its efforts can be harvested only after many years. But the soil is fertile and the harvest is sure. Teachers can so direct education as to dispel ignorance of the people of foreign lands and remove those prejudices and hatreds which arise from lies or from faulty and inadequate knowledge. It will be all to the good if children freely learn that other nations can sometimes be right: that people of other lands may have legitimate ambitions, that foreigners may have intellectual, artistic, and moral contributions to make to the world order. Patriotism is not thereby imperilled.

Napoleon once said, "There are only two powers, the Sword and the Mind—and it is the Mind that conquers." Teachers are in a position to shape this conquering power. And they need not employ the devices of propaganda. The teaching of citizenship is not propaganda, nor is the teaching of respect for law and respect for one's brother man. Similarly it is not propaganda to teach world citizenship and respect for other nations.

. . . Teachers have this matter largely in their own hands. They have formulated a common policy: it is for them to put it into operation. They have power, and we appeal to them to use it. They have the power to influence the future of the world. If they do they can help to exorcise once and for all the demon of war, and to bring about the reign of peace between the nations.

More Truth Than Poetry

PREFERENCE

I am fond of great adventure,
I should dearly love to rove
Where the tapirs
Cut up capers
In some far Bolivian grove.
I should like to shoot a jaguar
Dashing 'round in mad career
But I'd rather—
So much rather—

Writhing serpents have been sighted
Off the shores of Puget Sound—
Scaly creatures
With fierce features,
Swimming 'round and 'round and 'round;
I would like to chase and shoot one
As it basked upon a bar,
But I'd hate to—
How I'd hate to—
Go so far.

And those rhinos, when indignant,
Are exciting brutes to view;
There's no languor
In their anger
When the jungle they rush through;
I should like to go and kill one,
With a single deadly shot,
But it's risky—
Very risky—
So I'll not.

Till there aren't any more to compose the old world,
All the King's horses and all the King's men
Can not put the planet together again.

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape

Me and pop was taking a wawk before supper and I said, G, pop, have you got a little cawff or have you just got something in your throat?

I've got something in my throat but I'm afraid it's a little cawff, pop said. And one difference between little colds and little children is that they shouldn't be encourraged to grow into big colds. So I think I'll step this very moment into this drug store and get some throat lozengers, he said.

And he went in, pop saying to the drug store man, I want something to knock a cawff, please.

Yes sir, I have all the avvertized preparations in various forms, the drug store man said. How about mono hydrafluorine, for instants? It comes in botties, he said, and pop said, That's not serprising, it would take at least a bottle to hold all that.

Then there's nixo tetragargaline, I have lots of calls for nixo tetragargarline, the drug store man said, and pop said, Really? You must do quite a bizzness among the forrin speeking population.

Spindrox dallyhedron is an effective preparation, the drug store man said, and pop said, It sounds like it, but I'd feel like such a coward exposing a little scarcely developed cawff to all that.

The Merfy Stein laboratories put out a good thing called Merstax Antistrepotin, it comes in little pills, would you care to try a box? the drug store man said, and pop said, No, thanks, I don't think I'd dare to trust a little pill that had been treeted like that. What's this, do my eyes deceeve me or do I see a case of little boxes labelled in simply stately Anglo Saxon English A-1 Cawff Lozengers? he said.

There's one good thing about those lonzengers, they'll sure stop a cawff, the drug store man said, and pop said. By gollies that's another thing in their favor, I'll take a box.

Wich he did.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

RESEARCH AND THE NEW DEAL

Yesterday I stressed the importance of adequate and accurate data as the basis for a safe development of the Rooseveltian partnership between government and industry for national economic planning.

This issue has even broader implications. It involves nothing less than creation of a new politics equipped to serve this new age, which differs so radically from the age when the main patterns and processes of our politics were designed.

The complexity, scale and speed of the present age demand national planning.

National planning, however, may prove perilous unless it is engineered by a statesmenship that rests upon two things:

(1) A scientific study of the causes of social and economic problems.

(2) A statistical study of the results of social and economic policies.

This is not to say that we should have government by specialists. I do not think we should. Statesmanship is an art as well as science. I am saying only that the art of politics must be grounded in the science of objective economics.

We must put back of our changing body of representatives a constant group of researchers who will keep a fact-basis under our political consideration of national policies.

There can be no such thing as Democratic or Republican economics. There can be sound or unsound economics. And the facts that reveal causes and effects can alone prove the soundness or unsoundness of policies.

The world around, people grow daily more disillusioned with the mere politics of debate and compromise. This is one reason why so many nations have thrown parliamentary government overboard, wiped out competing parties and lodged authority in a unitary government of the Fascist sort.

We are not ready to say that unitary government of the Fascist brand is the way out. If we can set up the mechanisms that will bring together the facts upon which policy can be soundly formulated, and if we can school ourselves to respect facts regardless of what they do to our party slogans, we shall, I suspect, find that we have acted more wisely than the nations now surrendered to dictatorships.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

THE MONITOR

"I must go to the office for a few minutes, children. While I am gone Daniel will be in charge. He will take the names of all those who whisper or are disorderly in any way. I don't want to hear that any one of you misbehaved while I was out. All right, Daniel. Take my chair."

Daniel, serious in the face of his weighty responsibility takes his stand by the desk. If he sat down he might not see the offenders. Johnny Willis, red-headed and irrepressible, giggles, raises his hand and says, "Please, teacher, could you suck a lemon?"

Daniel turns a light shade of pink. He tries to look superior, like one above such low ideas. Sammy Robinson takes his cue from Johnny. "Please teacher, what makes your hair stick up in back like that?"

Now his double crown that rebelliously resists the combined efforts of comb and brush is the sore spot in Daniel's pride. He has always hoped the fellows didn't notice it and here it is paraded in full view of the whole class who seem to enjoy looking at it and grinning appreciatively at Sammy's jibe. Daniel loses his pose and snaps back.

"Comb you own hair, Sam Lewis. I'm going to put your name down and report you. See what you get."

"BOO-oo-oo," the response of the class is instant and defiant and insulting.

"I'll report everyone of you. Think your smart. Just because the teacher is out and—"

"You shut up, Johnny Willis. You're reported."

"Well, well, what's all this? Didn't I leave Daniel in charge?

"Yes ma'am, and just the minute your back was turned Johnny Willis began and Sammy Lewis, he helped and all the rest of the class Boo-oo-ed at me."

"O, they did. Very well. This class will remain after school today and the two leaders will stay in every day for the remainder of this week. Take readers and open to page eighty-four. Of course Daniel will be excused as usual."

Forty-four pairs of eyes threaten Daniel's peace of mind and comfort of body and he knows no peace until he reaches home in safety. "I don't want to go to school today. I don't feel well," says he next morning and mother puts him to bed and takes his temperature and wonders what is wrong with him. We could tell her. Daniel is afraid that Johnny or Sammy will lie in wait for him and punch him all over the lot. What's more we know that his fears are more than likely well grounded. The rule is ironclad. No snitching. Snitch and get yours.

The whole matter could be adjusted by having a relief teacher instead of the child monitor. No child should be obliged to shoulder such a responsibility. It is unfair. And no class of younger children should ever be left without a responsible teacher.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing a three-cent stamped addressed envelope for reply.)
